ALEX G. SPANOS

Owner

In his early years, Alex Spanos worked day and night, seven days a week in his father's bakery. His growing family was struggling to make ends meet on $40 a week. In 1951, at the age of 27, the time came for Spanos to make the toughest business decision of his life—to stay in the family business or strike out on his own.

More than 50 years later, Spanos has transformed an $800 loan into one of the leading real estate and development companies in the building industry. He is the founder and chairman of A.G. Spanos Companies, the nation's largest family-owned construction company, and his commitment to quality and integrity are imprinted in the daily operation and management of the San Diego Chargers as well as the 10 companies that are wholly owned and managed by the Spanos family.

REALIZING A DREAM

The success of the A.G. Spanos Companies has allowed him to pursue many dreams, including owning a National Football League team.

"I always believed in the pursuit of one's dreams," Spanos said in announcing his intention to buy the team. "For me, it has been a lifelong goal to own an NFL team. In buying the San Diego Chargers, I've been able to realize a dream." On Aug. 1, 1984, the dream became reality.

Though Spanos turned over much of the day-to-day operations of the Chargers in 1994 to his eldest son, Dean, he remains active in all business matters related to the team and the league. He currently serves on the League's Legislative Committee.

A MODEL BUSINESS

Spanos has made family part of his formula for business success. The A.G. Spanos organization, including the Chargers, is a family-run operation. Son, Dean, serves as president-chief executive officer of the Chargers and president-vice chairman of the Spanos corporate organization. Son, Michael, manages the construction and development activities of the company and is the executive vice president of the Chargers. Alex and his sons are the team behind each business venture. In addition, Dean's two sons—A.G. and John—both hold positions in the Chargers' front office. His daughter's son, Lex Economou, is working for the A.G. Spanos Companies—the construction and development company—and has been assigned to head the company's Denver division.

In addition to the Chargers, the Spanos companies include A.G. Spanos Construction, Inc.; A.G. Spanos Management, Inc.; A.G. Spanos Development, Inc.; A.G. Spanos Enterprises, Inc.; A.G. Spanos Realty, Inc.; AGS Financial Corporation; AGS International Corporation; A.G. Spanos Securities Corporation, A.G. Spanos Ventures and The Spanos Corporation.

GIVING BACK

Spanos' community spirit and generosity have paid countless dividends for San Diego.

When wildfires ravaged San Diego County in 2003, Spanos jumped to the forefront with the single largest donation—$1 million to aid affected families and the recovery effort. Spanos and the team also collected additional funds for the San Diego Fire Relief Fund, adding another $500,000 to the total.

"My family and I are proud to be a part of the San Diego community," said Spanos. "I'm very fortunate to be in a position to help the city and the people who have been so supportive of the Chargers over the years.

"I believe I have a sacred duty to share my good fortune with my church, my community, my fellow Greek Americans and my family."

The Chargers Community Foundation, created and funded by Spanos in 1995 to "help San Diego build on its strengths by supporting individuals, activities and organizations that work to make the city a better place to live," focuses on youth and education and is a major source of community support in San Diego.

In March 2000, the Spanos family and the Foundation introduced the Chargers Champions program. Over the past seven years, more than $2.4 million has been contributed to deserving schools, students and educators, making the Chargers' commitment unmatched in the San Diego community. In the past seven years, 142 outstanding high school juniors have been awarded $7,000 scholarships and laptop computers. The Chargers Champions program has also awarded grants to schools as well as grants and laptop computers to San Diego's most deserving educators.

Spanos also has been a strong supporter of high school sports in San Diego. He annually sponsors the CIF San Diego Section football championships, allowing the games to be played in QUALCOMM Stadium. His backing of the San Diego High School Sports Association and the San Diego County high school all-star football game led to the game being named the Alex Spanos All-Star Football Classic in 1993.

Spanos led the effort to bring Super Bowl XXXVII to San Diego in January 2003. It marked the second time in five years that Spanos had delivered the Super Bowl and focused the world's attention on San Diego. Spanos is credited for using his influence with the NFL and its owners to land Super Bowl XXXII for the City of San Diego, played Jan. 25, 1998. Each game brought close to $300 million to the regional economy.

His leadership was instrumental in bringing the 1996 Republican National Convention to San Diego, another financial coup for the city.

Here are just a few of the notable gifts from Spanos and the Foundation to San Diego:

- The Foundation's first contribution was a $1.5 million donation to kick off the $6.5 million fundraising effort for the San Diego Hall of Champions Sports Museum.
- In 1998, Spanos announced the creation of the Brooke Humphries Heart Fund in honor of retiring quarterback Stan Humphries and a six-figure contribution to San Diego Children's Hospital in Brooke's name. Stan's daughter Brooke underwent major surgery to correct a heart birth defect.
- Spanos and his family kicked off the week of Super Bowl XXXII in 1998 with major six-figure contributions to both Children's Hospital and the national Christmas in April program.
- In 1998, Spanos' financial support led to the development of a multi-use sports facility for the Pacific Beach community and the students of Kate Sessions Elementary and The Bishop's School. The Alex G. Spanos Sports Fields were dedicated in 1997.

- In 1994, he kicked off a fundraising telethon for the San Diego Olympic Training Center with another six-figure pledge and challenge to the local community.
- Spanos built the state-of-the-art Alex G. Spanos Athletic and Recreation Building at the University of California-San Diego.
- Children's Hospital benefited as did San Diego County Easter Seals when he served as chairman of their telethons. He also chaired the Loaned Executive campaign drive for United Way/CHAD.

SUPPORTING STATE AND COUNTRY

Following the completion of the World War II Memorial in Washington D.C., Spanos made it possible for more than 145 WWII vets and their families from Northern California to take a trip to visit the Memorial. Operation Freedom Flight, as it was called, raised $225,000, including nearly $100,000 from Spanos.

In 1998, Spanos generously gave separate $1 million donations to four different institutions in California. His support to his alma mater, the University of the Pacific, improved the stadium, athletic facilities and residence halls for the entire student population. A similar contribution to Sacramento State's athletic facilities enabled the university to host the 2000 Olympic track and field trials. The same support also went to rebuild the Samuel N. Hancock Christian School, a private school in an urban area of Stockton. In 1997, he gave $1 million to the American Red Cross to help flood victims in Northern California and helped raise an additional $1 million.

Other notable efforts by Spanos include spearheading a 1991 campaign during the Gulf War crisis that raised more than $4.5 million for the USO, the most successful fund-raising event in its history. He also contributed $1.5 million to Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo in 1993 to build a theater for the college that was later named the Alex and Faye Spanos Theatre. He also was the founder and driving force behind seven biennial fund-raising dinners benefiting assorted children's charities, including San Diego Children's Hospital and Health Center, and each dinner neared or topped $1 million.

HONORED FOR GENEROSITY

Organizations in San Diego and across the country have honored Spanos often for his generosity.

Spanos and his wife Faye were appointed by President George W. Bush to the Presidential Delegation to the 2004 Olympic Games in Athens, Greece. They were joined on the Delegation by Former President George H.W. Bush, Mrs. Barbara Bush, The Honorable Thomas Miller, U.S. Ambassador to Greece; Ms. Barbara Bush, Ms. Jenna Bush and Ms. Chris Evert, former tennis champion.

Alex and Faye also were awarded honorary degrees of Doctor of Humane Letters at the commencement exercises for Hellenic College/Holy Cross. This year Alex also received a Doctor of Humanities from Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo.

Father Nicholas Triantafyllou, President of Hellenic College, notes that "Faye and Alex Spanos represent all that is good about our Greek American heritage and Orthodox faith. At the center of their more than five decades together is the love, respect and honor which they have for each other, their family, their church and the great community in which they live."

Alex with grandsons A.G. and John.

Spanos has received many of the nation's and San Diego's most prestigious honors for his commitment to community and humanity, including the Horatio Alger Award, the Ellis Island Medal of Honor, the Gloria Swanson Humanitarian Award, the Grand Cross of Honour by the Supreme Council of Scottish Rite, and the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith's National Distinguished Community Service Award for devotion to community and concern for others. Son, Dean, earned the unique distinction of becoming a second generation recipient of the Ellis Island award in 2002.

Alex has received many of San Diego's top honors for his generosity, including awards given by the Greater San Diego Chamber of Commerce, the San Diego Convention and Visitors Bureau and the San Diego Boys and Girls Clubs.

HIS STORY

These acts of caring demonstrate the commitment of a man who has carved a remarkable career in business and whose dedication to family and community has been an inspiring example for others.

Spanos outlined his lifelong credo of giving back in his autobiography, Sharing the Wealth: My Story, a compelling, first-hand account of the events and decisions in his life that became his basic fundamentals for success. As he reveals in his book, he feels it's a duty and privilege to share his secrets of success.

In the book's foreword, Rush Limbaugh says: "You are about to race through a marvelous and riveting account of a distinctly American life in which the concepts of 'failure' and 'can't' do not apply...Be prepared to be dazzled, informed, entertained, and challenged....This is a book that will change your life forever and for the good."

Spanos was born September 28, 1923, in Stockton, California. He developed his tireless work ethic early, starting at age eight in his father's restaurant, rising before dawn to help prepare pastries before attending school. In 1951, Spanos borrowed $800, purchased a truck and set out on his own. He began his own catering business and later began investing in real estate. In 1960, he formed the A.G. Spanos Construction Company.

Another side to this complex man was revealed with the help of his close friend Bob Hope. Spanos displayed an entertainer's talent and flair when he lived a childhood dream and danced on stage. Together, Spanos and Hope sang and danced on numerous occasions both in the United States and abroad.

Spanos' acquisition of the Chargers culminated a lifelong interest and involvement in sports. He earned varsity letters in swimming and diving at the University of the Pacific in Stockton and later distinguished himself as an amateur golfer. Spanos was the first person ever to be on the winning teams in both the Bob Hope Desert Classic in Palm Desert (1977) and the Bob Hope British Pro-Am (1980).

Alex and his wife, Faye, are celebrating 57 years of marriage this year (Aug. 22). The couple has four children—Dean, Dea (Mrs. Ron Berberian), Alexis (Mrs. Barry Ruhl), and Michael—and 15 grandchildren. They maintain residences in Stockton and Palm Springs, California, and Tarpon Springs, Florida.

DEAN A. SPANOS

President—Chief Executive Officer

secure a home for their football team. His leadership of the team and passion for San Diego is undeniable. The reason for this heartfelt bond is clear: Dean has proudly called San Diego home since the day he moved his family to La Jolla in 1984.

"We've been here for more than 20 years," said Spanos. "Susie and I have raised our kids here. This is our home."

Under Dean Spanos' leadership, the Chargers have played in the Super Bowl, won an AFC Championship and won two AFC West titles. In just the last two seasons, Spanos has seen the team win 21 games and an AFC West championship. The Bolts' 21 wins over the last two years are more than 27 of the league's 32 teams. Fans have flocked to grab a piece of the excitement, selling out QUALCOMM Stadium for 14 straight games and 15 of the last 16 games. The Chargers have accomplished this success with one of the NFL's youngest rosters, pointing to a bright and winning future for the team.

Spanos' personal relationship with San Diego has played a key role in the team's success. Dean and the Spanos family are recognized as one of pro football's most philanthropic families and one of Southern California's most active and caring contributors. His unending financial and emotional support of youth sports and education is unmatched in San Diego.

Spanos continues to drive toward two goals: build the Chargers into a perennial NFL powerhouse and solidify the team's future in San Diego. Despite the constant pressure to win now, Spanos stood behind the long-term plan that he, General Manager A.J. Smith and Head Coach Marty Schottenheimer had implemented. His confidence in the plan and his leadership team was rewarded with an AFC West title in '04 while Smith was named NFL Executive of the Year and Schottenheimer was named Coach of the Year.

SAN DIEGO'S TEAM.

Spanos' commitment to San Diego and the team is clear. He has dedicated millions of dollars to develop a plan to give San Diegans a modern football-only stadium and

DUAL PRESIDENCIES

Spanos takes an active role in every aspect of the football team as well as all Spanos corporate entities. He oversees all business and football operations of the Chargers. He also plays a prominent role in league affairs and serves on the NFL's Business Ventures Committee.

After his father purchased majority interest in the team on Aug. 1, 1984, Dean became the man behind the scenes for the Chargers while serving as president of all Spanos corporate entities and vice chairman of the AGS Financial Corporation. For 33 years, Dean has been working alongside his father in apartment construction and land development in the family-owned business. He shares the responsibility with his brother, Michael, for all construction operations nationwide and all financial matters relating to the acquisition and development of projects for the Spanos organization.

After Dean took the reins in early 1994, the Chargers didn't wait long to enjoy the benefits of his guidance. Less than a year later in January 1995, the Chargers were playing in Super Bowl XXIX in Miami, Florida.

CONTINUES TRADITION OF GIVING

In addition to running the football organization, Dean has continued the long-standing tradition of community support by the Spanos family and the Chargers.

In March 2000, he announced the creation of Chargers Champions, an education and fitness initiative benefiting San Diego County students and schools. Since its inception, 142 outstanding high school juniors have been selected for their outstanding leadership and awarded $7,000 tuition scholarships and laptop computers. Chargers Champions also makes a strong commitment to improving the health of the County's children by providing grants up to $75,000 for physical fitness improvements on school campuses. This commitment of more $400,000 annually in educational scholarships and grants—exceeding $2.5 million over seven years—is unmatched in San Diego.

Local students received a giant boost in 2000 when the Spanos family and Chargers Community Foundation supplied the initial funding to organize the first-ever freshman football and girls volleyball programs in the 16 San Diego City high schools. This major public-private partnership provides more than 1,000 extracurricular opportunities annually for students.

Dean also is a strong supporter of public safety organizations in the County, providing more than $600,000 in grants and direct assistance in just the last few years. Thanks to Dean's generosity, critical communications centers have been upgraded and new horse patrol trailers and mobile command units have been purchased. Wildfire fighting gear has been purchased as has other fire fighting equipment for local agencies. In response to the increase of child abduction cases, Dean hosted and paid for critical law enforcement training classes for the Sheriff's department.

A.J. SMITH

Executive Vice President—General Manager

22nd NFL Season, 8th with Chargers

General Manager A.J. Smith has solidified his reputation as one of the NFL's top evaluators of young talent. The NFL's 2004 Executive of the Year by Pro Football Weekly, the Professional Football Writers of America (PFWA), FoxSports.com and CBS Sportsline.com has put his personal stamp on a team that has won 21 games over the last two seasons.

Smith's most notable maneuver in 2005 was using the team's two first-round picks to acquire linebacker Shawne Merriman and defensive end Luis Castillo. Merriman went on to lead the team with 10 sacks, becoming the first-ever rookie to lead the team in sacks. He capped the year with a selection to the Pro Bowl while also being recognized as the NFL Defensive Rookie of the Year by the Associated Press, Pro Football Weekly and the PFWA, and the NFL Rookie of the Year by The Sporting News. Castillo helped anchor the NFL's top-ranked run defense from his spot at left defensive end. Castillo was fifth on the team with 3.5 sacks and third with six tackles for loss. He and Merriman earned All-Rookie honors from several national publications and organizations including Pro Football Weekly, the PFWA and NFL.com.

Smith has been masterful on draft day. In 2004, he selected Mississippi quarterback Eli Manning with the first overall pick and then traded him to the New York Giants for North Carolina State quarterback Philip Rivers, whom the Giants had acquired with the fourth-overall choice, along with New York's first and fifth-round picks in 2005, and a third-round choice in 2004. Smith used the Giants' 2005 first-round pick to acquire Merriman, and he traded the fifth-round pick to Tampa Bay to acquire starting left tackle Roman Oben. The third-round pick in 2004 was used to select kicker Nate Kaeding, who hit 87.5 percent of his field goal tries in 2005 (21 of 24) for the third-highest single-season conversion percentage in team history.

The Chargers anticipate equal results from the 2006 draft. Smith selected cornerback Antonio Cromartie from Florida State and tackle Marcus McNeill from Auburn in the first two rounds. In the third round, he grabbed second-generation NFL quarterback Charlie Whitehurst of Clemson.

When his close friend and longtime associate John Butler lost his battle with cancer on April 11, 2003, Chargers President Dean Spanos tabbed Smith to take the reins.

He spent the previous 27 years moving methodically through the ranks of professional football. Smith was a part-time scout, full-time scout, assistant director of scouting, director of scouting and assistant general manager before being promoted to executive vice president—general manager of the Chargers.

Indianapolis Colts President Bill Polian: "In football, A.J. has been there and done that with everything there is to do in the game, going back to the USFL days. He is a quintessential football man."

Baltimore Ravens G.M. Ozzie Newsome: "A.J. learned from Bill Polian (Buffalo). He learned from George Allen (USFL). He's been around successful people, so he's learned the right way to do things."

Smith began his second tenure with the Chargers Jan. 18, 2001 as assistant general manager and director of pro personnel. His duties included monitoring NFL transactions, evaluating pro talent, handling tryouts and free agent contracts.

Smith has worked in pro football since 1977, including three years in the United States Football League in the early 1980s. He spent 14 seasons (1987-2000) with the Buffalo Bills, joining the team as an area scout in 1987 before being named assistant director of college scouting in 1989. In 1993, Smith became director of pro personnel.

During his tenure with the Bills, referred to as the "Glory Years" in Bills history, Smith worked closely with Hall of Fame coach Marv Levy as assistant director of college scouting during Buffalo's appearances in Super Bowls XXV, XXVI and XXVII. Smith was promoted to director of pro personnel prior to the Bills' appearance in Super Bowl XXXVIII.

Smith served as the Chargers pro personnel director from 1985-86. He also held scouting positions with the USFL's Chicago Blitz (1982-83) and Pittsburgh Maulers (1984). He began his NFL career in 1977 as a volunteer part-time scout for the New York Giants under the direction of Jim Trimble and moved on to become a part-time scout for the New England Patriots (1978-1980) and Houston Oilers (1981).

Smith made his start in football as an assistant coach at Cranston West High School in Cranston, Rhode Island from 1971-76. He was the head coach of the Rhode Island Kings of the Eastern Football League in 1976 and an assistant coach at the University of Rhode Island in 1978.

Smith was born Feb. 28, 1949 and is a graduate of Bishop Hendricken High School in Warwick, Rhode Island. He was a standout on the football and track teams and was inducted into the school's hall of fame in 2003. Smith earned a degree in health and physical education from Kentucky Wesleyan College in 1971. In June 2005, Smith returned to his alma mater for the dedication and presentation of a plaque in his honor, which hangs in the new A.J. Smith Weight Room inside the Woodward Health and Recreation Center.

Smith played semi-pro football as a wide receiver with the Attleboro (Mass.) Kings of the Eastern Football League from 1972-74 and had a tryout with the Washington Redskins in 1974. He was inducted into the American Football Association's Minor/Semi-pro Football Hall of Fame in 1990. Smith also taught health and physical education in the Providence (R.I.) junior high school system from 1971-1985.

Smith and his wife, Susan, reside in Sorrento Valley. They have a daughter, Andrea, and a son, Kyle. Andrea graduated Cum Laude from Cortland State (N.Y.) with a degree in sports management. She was an honorable mention All-America in volleyball, as well as a conference and team MVP. Andrea now lives in Los Angeles and is the community relations coordinator for the Los Angeles Sparks of the WNBA. Kyle had an outstanding football career at Youngstown State. He was a wide receiver and punt returner who set a school record with a reception in 30 consecutive games. He also ranked ninth in school history with 101 career catches; 11th with 1,536 receiving yards and third with 56 punt returns and 377 punt return yards. As a senior, he was a team captain and selected as the team's Most Valuable Player. After the season, Kyle was invited to participate in the 2006 Hula Bowl all-star game in Hawaii and in April, he signed a free agent contract with the Minnesota Vikings.

MARTY SCHOTTENHEIMER

Head Coach

30th NFL Season, 5th with Chargers

Marty Schottenheimer has led the Bolts to 21 wins in the last two seasons. It is the team's most wins in consecutive seasons since 1980-81. Schottenheimer has more wins than any active coach in the NFL.

The Chargers won nine games in 2005, marking Schottenheimer's 13th winning season in 19 full years as an NFL head coach. Among the nine wins were four victories over teams that would qualify for the playoffs in 2005. Most notable were a 41-17 win over the defending Super Bowl Champion New England Patriots and a 26-17 win over the Indianapolis Colts. Both wins came on the road. The victory over the Patriots put an end to New England's NFL-record 21-game home winning streak, and the win over the Colts ended Indianapolis' perfect 13-0 start as well as their 12-game home winning streak. Schottenheimer is now tied with Chuck Noll for the third-most winning seasons in NFL history.

In beating the Colts, Schottenheimer logged his 186th career victory, moving him into a tie with Chuck Knox for seventh place on the NFL's all-time wins list. The win also put an end to only the fourth 13-0 start in NFL history.

With four wins in 2006, Schottenheimer will tie Dan Reeves for sixth place on the league's all-time wins list, and with seven wins, he'll move into a tie with Noll.

Two years ago, Schottenheimer led the Chargers to one of the greatest turnarounds in NFL history. He took a team that finished last in the AFC West (4-12) in 2003 and turned it into an AFC West Champion (12-4) in 2004. It was the franchise's first division title since 1994 and the Chargers became the 22nd team in NFL history to go from worst to first since 1967.

Schottenheimer was named NFL Coach of the Year in 2004 by the Associated Press, Pro Football Weekly, the Professional Football Writers of America, Sports Illustrated.com, American Football Monthly, The Dallas Morning News, CBS SportsLine.com and the NFL Alumni Association. He also was chosen as Professional Coach of the Year by the Maxwell Football Club and AFC Coach of the Year by the NFL 101 Committee in Kansas City.

The Chargers' playoff run marked the 12th time during Schottenheimer's illustrious career that he had taken his team to the postseason. It's tied for the third-most playoff appearances in NFL history with Noll and Bud Grant, both of whom are enshrined in the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

At the same time, Schottenheimer became the fifth NFL head coach to lead three different teams to the playoffs (Chargers, Chiefs and Browns). He joined a fraternity that includes Bill Parcells (Giants, Patriots, Jets and Cowboys), Dick Vermeil (Eagles, Rams and Chiefs) Knox (Rams, Bills and Seahawks) and Reeves (Broncos, Giants and Falcons).

Including playoffs, Schottenheimer has a combined record of 191-136-1 (.584) as an NFL head coach.

Guiding the Bolts to 12 wins in 2004 matched the second-highest single-season win total of Schottenheimer's career (Cleveland, 1986). His Kansas City teams won 13 games in 1995 and 1997. Since 1984, he has had only two losing seasons.

Schottenheimer's head coaching career began on Oct. 22, 1984 when the Browns named him head coach to replace Sam Rutigliano after a 1-7 start. Schottenheimer had been the team's defensive coordinator and defensive backs coach under Rutigliano. The results were immediate as he led the Browns to a 4-4 record in the second half of the '84 season.

Over the next four seasons (1985-88), Schottenheimer would lead the Browns to the playoffs four times. They captured three AFC Central Division titles and played in two AFC Championship Games (1986-87). Both times, the Browns were defeated in the AFC Championship Game by Denver. After the 1986 season, he was named AFC Coach of the Year by United Press International and Football News.

Schottenheimer resigned following the 1988 season. He finished his career in Cleveland with a record of 46-31 (.597), including playoffs.

On Jan. 24, 1989, Schottenheimer was named head coach of the Kansas City Chiefs, becoming the seventh head coach in Chiefs history. From 1989-1998, Schottenheimer's teams would average 10 wins a season and qualify for the playoffs seven times.

The Chiefs were dominant at home under Schottenheimer, where their 62-18 (.775) record from 1989-1998 was the third-best in the NFL behind San Francisco's 67-13 (.838) and Denver's 63-17 (.788). The Chiefs and 49ers were the only teams in the NFL to reach the playoffs seven times in the '90s. From 1989-1997, the Chiefs finished either first or second in the AFC West, a nine-year stretch matched only by the Pittsburgh Steelers (1971-79) since the AFL-NFL merger in 1970.

Schottenheimer had a strong hold on the AFC West during his 10 seasons as the head coach in Kansas City, as evidenced by his 55-28 (.663) record within the division. His success included an outstanding mark of 18-3 (.857) against the Raiders.

His Kansas City teams were known for their aggressive defense. From 1989-1998, the Chiefs had an NFL-best +99 turnover ratio and led the league in that category during the 1990, 1992 and 1995 seasons. The Chiefs ranked in the NFL's top-five in this category seven out of 10 seasons and set an NFL record by recording a +10 turnover ratio in six consecutive seasons from 1990-95.

In 1990, Schottenheimer coached the Chiefs to a record of 11-5 and into the playoffs. It was their most wins in a season since 1969 and their first playoff berth since 1986.

In 1993, he led the Chiefs to another 11-5 mark and the franchise's first-ever appearance in the AFC Championship Game.

In 1995 and 1997, he led the Chiefs to AFC-best records of 13-3, but both times they lost in the Divisional Playoff round. Following the '95 season he was named AFC Coach of the Year by Football News and following the '97 season, Football Digest named him NFL Coach of the Year and USA Today named him AFC Coach of the Year.

On Jan. 11, 1999, Schottenheimer retired from coaching, leaving Kansas City with a record of 101-58-1 (.634). He spent the next two years (1999-2000) with ESPN before re-joining the coaching ranks in 2001 when he was named head coach of the Washington Redskins. He spent just one season in Washington as the Redskins finished 8-8.

Schottenheimer's athletic career began at Ft. Cherry High School in McDonald, Pennsylvania, where he was an honors student and a standout on the football and basketball teams. He was an All-Western Pennsylvania linebacker and a center on the school's state championship basketball team.

Schottenheimer earned a scholarship to the University of Pittsburgh and became an All-America linebacker. In 1965, he was selected to play in the College All-Star Game at Chicago's Soldier Field. The All-Stars lost to the Cleveland Browns, 24-16. In the game, Schottenheimer played alongside future NFL greats Dick Butkus, Fred Biletnikoff, Roger Staubach, Bob Hayes and Bill Curry. Schottenheimer was later named to the University's All-Time Team.

After earning his degree in English from Pittsburgh, Schottenheimer was selected in the fourth round of the 1965 NFL Draft by the Baltimore Colts and the seventh round of the 1965 AFL Draft by the Buffalo Bills. He signed with the Bills and played in Buffalo from 1965-68. During his rookie season in 1965, the Bills defeated the Chargers, 23-0, to win the AFL Championship.

In 1969, he joined the Boston Patriots and played in Boston for two seasons. In 1971, the Patriots traded Schottenheimer to the Pittsburgh Steelers. After training camp ended in 1971, the Steelers dealt the young linebacker to the Colts, and he decided to retire shortly thereafter.

For the next four years (1971-74), Schottenheimer sold real estate in Miami and Denver.

Schottenheimer returned to the playing field in 1974, signing with the Portland Storm of the World Football League. A shoulder injury ended his playing career, but he remained with the team as an assistant coach, working with the team's linebackers.

In 1975, he landed his first NFL coaching job as the linebackers coach for the New York Giants. He held that position for two seasons until he was named defensive coordinator in 1977.

In 1978, Schottenheimer was hired as the linebackers coach for the Detroit Lions. In 1980, he was hired by the Browns as defensive coordinator and defensive backs coach.

Schottenheimer was born Sept. 23, 1943 in Canonsburg, Pennsylvania. He and his wife, Pat, have two children, Kristen and Brian, and four grandchildren, Brandon, Catherine, Sutton and Savannah. Brian is a former University of Florida quarterback who was on his father's coaching staffs with the

ASSISTANT COACHES

CAM CAMERON

Offensive Coordinator

8th NFL Season, 5th with Chargers

Cam Cameron has put a charge into San Diego's offense. For the first time since 1980-81, the Chargers scored more than 400 points in consecutive seasons. After the Bolts scored 446 points in 2004, Cameron was named Offensive Assistant Coach of the Year by Sports Illustrated.com.

In 2005, Cameron oversaw an offense that produced a 3,500-yard passer (Drew Brees), a 1,000-yard rusher (LaDainian Tomlinson) and a 1,000-yard receiver (Antonio Gates). It was the second time in team history that it happened and the first time since 1981. The Chargers were one of only six NFL teams to feature such a trio.

Also in 2005, the trio of Brees, Tomlinson and Gates was one of only four in the league to combine for 20 touchdown passes, 10 rushing touchdowns and 10 touchdown catches. It marked the second-consecutive year that the trio achieved that feat and the fifth time in team history.

All three players were selected to the Pro Bowl after the 2004 season.

Cameron's play-calling in 2003 led to a record-setting year for Tomlinson, who became the first player in NFL history to rush for more than 1,000 yards and catch 100 passes in the same season. Tomlinson racked up 2,370 yards from scrimmage, second-most in NFL history, and rushed for 1,645 yards, second-most in team history.

In 2002, Cameron's first season as offensive coordinator, Tomlinson rushed for a team-record 1,683 yards.

Cameron joined the Chargers after five seasons (1997-2001) as the head coach at Indiana University. In 2000, Indiana averaged 266.4 rushing yards per game, tops in the Big Ten and seventh in the nation.

One of Cameron's prize pupils at Indiana was quarterback Antwaan Randle El, a 2001 first-team All-America selection. Randle El finished his career as the NCAA Division I-A rushing leader among quarterbacks and was the only player in major college football history to rush and pass for 40 touchdowns.

From 1994-96, Cameron was the quarterbacks coach for the Washington Redskins, where he was credited with the development of quarterback Gus Frerotte, who was selected to the Pro Bowl following the 1996 season.

During Cameron's 10 seasons (1984-1993) as an assistant coach at Michigan, the Wolverines won six Big Ten titles and played in 10 bowl games, including five Rose Bowls. Cameron helped cultivate future NFL talents such as Jim Harbaugh, Elvis Grbac, Desmond Howard, Derrick Alexander and Amani Toomer.

For Cameron, the move into coaching was a natural fit. His stepfather, Tom Harp, was a head coach at Cornell (1961-65), Duke (1966-1970) and Indiana State (1973-77). Cameron and Harp each have the unique distinction of coaching a Heisman Trophy winner. Cameron coached Desmond Howard at Michigan, and Harp was an assistant coach at West Point when Pete Dawkins claimed the trophy in 1958.

Cameron had a successful collegiate career as a two-sport letterman in football and basketball at Indiana. He lettered two years at quarterback and three in basketball before a football knee injury during his senior year ended his playing career. Cameron graduated from Indiana in 1983 with a degree in business.

Cameron was born Feb. 6, 1961 in Chapel Hill, North Carolina. While his stepfather coached at Indiana State, Cameron was a prep standout at South Vigo High School in Terre Haute, Indiana. He was an All-America selection in football as a senior and earned all-state honors twice and all-county honors three times. He was named Vigo County's Athlete of the Year in 1978 and 1979. Cameron led his team to three consecutive state basketball finals, and in 1979 he was named the winner of the state's prestigious Trester Award for mental attitude. Also in 1979, he was named National Athlete of the Year by the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

Cameron and wife Missy have four children, sons Tommy, Danny and Christopher, and daughter Elizabeth.

WADE PHILLIPS*Defensive Coordinator

30th NFL Season, 3rd with Chargers

In two seasons as the Chargers' defensive coordinator, Wade Phillips has delivered outstanding (defensive coordinator) and San Diego (defensive coordinator).

Phillips has a wealth of NFL experience, both as a defensive coordinator and head coach. At the end of his two-year term (2002-03) as defensive coordinator in Atlanta, he served as the interim head coach for the Falcons' final three games of the '03 season after Dan Reeves was released from his contract on Dec. 10. Phillips posted a record of 2-1 as Atlanta's head coach, highlighted by a 30-28 victory at Tampa Bay that knocked the defending Super Bowl champions out of playoff contention.

Phillips' defense in 2002 mastered the big play. The team finished with 47 sacks, second-most in team history and tied for fourth in the NFL; 39 total takeaways, second in the league; and 24 interceptions, fourth in the league.

During the 1998-2000 seasons as head coach in Buffalo, the Bills compiled a record of 29-19. Phillips took the reigns after a disappointing 6-10 finish in 1997 and reversed the team's fortunes by leading it to a 10-6 record and the playoffs in 1998. His 1999 team led the NFL in total defense, went 11-5 and earned another trip to the postseason.

In the three seasons in Buffalo (1995-97) before he became head coach, he delivered solid returns as defensive coordinator. In 1996, the Bills led the NFL with 49 quarterback sacks and Bryce Paup was named MVP after leading the league with 17.5 sacks. Buffalo's defense allowed a league-low 22 touchdown passes and 3.4 yards per carry, while ranking second in sacks (48), yards per play (4.3) and opponent completion percentage (.520).

Phillips went 16-16 in two seasons (1993-94) as the head coach in Denver, but the Broncos failed to reach the postseason and he was let go following the '94 season.

Phillips' NFL coaching career began in results.

He is the architect of San Diego's 3-4 defense, and last season that defense led the NFL against the run, holding opponents to a mere 84.3 yards per game. Two years ago - Phillips' first in San Diego - the Bolts were even stingier, allowing only 81.7 yards per game to rank third in the league. Phillips' defense is centered around defensive tackle Jamal Williams, who was selected to play in his first-career Pro Bowl following the 2005 season.

One of the outstanding feats of Phillips' defense in 2005 was holding three different opponents to less than 40 yards rushing: Oakland (39 yards), Philadelphia (24) and Indianapolis (24). That hadn't happened in San Diego since 1965 and it was only the third time it occurred in team history.

The Bolts' aggressive defense also cranked out 46 sacks last season, its most since 1992. The Chargers and Indianapolis tied for the fifth-most sacks in the league. Rookies Shawne Merriman and Luis Castillo combined for 13.5 sacks in 2005, the most by any rookie duo in the NFL.

When the Chargers won the AFC West and qualified for the playoffs in 2004 on the heels of a 4-12 season in 2003, Phillips kept his streak intact of helping to turn teams with non-winning records into playoff participants the following year. The last six times Phillips has taken over as a defensive coordinator or head coach for a team that had a non-winning record, his new team went to the playoffs in his first year. The teams he helped turn around include Denver (defensive coordinator and head coach), Buffalo (defensive coordinator and head coach), Atlanta

Houston in 1976 under his father, longtime NFL coach Bum Phillips. Bum was the Oilers head coach from 1975-1980, and Wade coached linebackers for the Oilers in 1976 before taking over as defensive line coach from 1977-1980. Before becoming the head coach in Houston, Bum Phillips was a Chargers assistant coach from 1967-1973.

Wade Phillips was born June 21, 1947 in Orange, Texas. He was a three-year starter at linebacker for the University of Houston from 1966-68 after a standout career at Port Neches-Groves High School in Port Neches, Texas. Phillips and wife Laurie have one son, Wesley, and a daughter, Tracy.

ROB CHUDZINSKI

Tight Ends

3rd NFL Season, 2nd with Chargers

Rob Chudzinski had excellent results in his first season with the Chargers as Antonio Gates was voted to his second-straight Pro Bowl.

Under the man known as "Chud," Gates set new career highs in 2005 with 89 catches and 1,101 yards. His 89 catches tied Hall of Famer Kellen Winslow's team record for single-season receptions by a tight end and his 1,101 yards were the most by a tight end in team history since 1983 when Winslow racked up 1,172. Gates also snagged 10 touchdown catches in 2005 to become the first NFL tight end with 10 or more touchdown catches in back-to-back seasons. He is also only the second tight end in NFL history to register more than 1,100 receiving yards and 10 touchdown catches in the same season.

Chudzinski came to the Chargers from Cleveland. When Browns Head Coach Butch Davis resigned in 2004, offensive coordinator Terry Robiskie became the interim head coach and Chudzinski was promoted to offensive coordinator for the final five games.

Coincidentally, Chudzinski worked extensively with Winslow's son, Kellen II, as the tight ends coach in Cleveland and as an assistant coach at his alma mater, the University of Miami. In 2003, Winslow II won the John Mackey Award as the nation's top collegiate tight end before becoming a first-round pick of the Browns.

During his three seasons (2001-03) as offensive coordinator at Miami, the Hurricanes played in three Bowl Championship Series games, including two National Championship games. In 2001, his first as coordinator, the 'Canes went 12-0 and defeated Nebraska to win the National Championship. In 2002, Miami's offense set school records for points, total yards and rushing touchdowns. The 'Canes went 12-1 in 2002, their only defeat coming in overtime against Ohio State in the National Championship game.

Chudzinski also helped develop two other All-America tight ends at Miami, Bubba Franks in 1999 and Jeremy Shockey in 2001. Franks and Shockey both became first-round picks and Pro Bowlers with Green Bay and the New York Giants, respectively.

Chudzinski played tight end for the 'Canes from 1986-1990 and was a member of National Championship teams in 1987 and 1989. He graduated from Miami with a degree in business in 1990 and an MBA in 1996.

Chudzinski was born May 12, 1968 in Toledo, Ohio. He played football at Toledo St. John's High School. Rob and his wife, Sheila, live in San Diego.

STEVE CROSBY

Special Teams

29th NFL Season, 5th with Chargers

Steve Crosby's special teams were special again in 2005.

His leading tackler, safety

Hanik Milligan, was voted to the Pro Bowl as a special teams player and punter Mike Scifres was selected by the fans and his peers as a second alternate. Milligan led the team with 21 tackles and was one of five players to record double-digit tackle totals. Scifres averaged a solid 43.7 yards per punt and allowed only 26 of his 71 punts to be returned, fewest in the league among punters with at least 70 attempts.

Crosby's other featured charge, kicker Nate Kaeding, hit 21 of 24 field goal attempts for the third-highest single-season conversion percentage in team history.

Crosby also oversaw the development of rookie return specialist Darren Sproles, who racked up 1,528 kickoff return yards, third-most in team history, for an average of 24.3 yards per return.

In 2004, Scifres was named a first alternate to the Pro Bowl after ranking third in the NFL in net punting, and Kaeding earned all-rookie honors after setting a team rookie scoring record with 114 points.

Prior to joining the Chargers, Crosby spent four seasons (1998-2001) coordinating the offense at Vanderbilt University. Under his direction, the Commodores' passing offense improved each year.

In 28 years in the NFL, Crosby has spent three seasons as a player, four as a scout and 21 as a coach. He began his career in professional football as a player, spending the 1974-76 seasons as a running back with the New York Giants.

After retiring as a player, Crosby began his climb up the ranks as a scout for the Miami Dolphins. He coached special teams and linebackers and continued to work in the player personnel department. Crosby was part of the staff that guided Miami to the Super Bowl in 1983.

During his career as an NFL assistant coach, Crosby tutored numerous Pro Bowl players, including quarterbacks Steve Bartkowski, Bernie Kosar and Vinny Testaverde, and running backs William Andrews, Eric Metcalf, Gerald Riggs, Earnest Byner and Kevin Mack. Crosby is the last coach in the NFL to have two of his backs rush for more than 1,000 yards in the same season, which Byner and Mack did for Cleveland in 1985.

Crosby was an All-America running back at Fort Hays State in Hays, Kansas. He was twice named to the NAIA All-America team, and he was a three-time all-conference performer before being selected by the Giants in the 17th round of the 1974 NFL Draft.

Crosby was born July 3, 1950 in Great Bend, Kansas. He attended Pawnee Rock High School. Crosby earned bachelor's and master's degrees in physical education from Fort Hays State.

Steve and his wife, Lisa, have three children: sons Matthew and Jeffrey, and daughter, Lauren.

JOHN "JACK" HENRY

Offensive Line

13th NFL Season, 2nd with Chargers

Marty Schottenheimer called on a longtime NFL and college assistant coach to tutor the Bolts' offensive line when he hired John "Jack" Henry. He is in his second term with the Chargers, having coached the offensive line under former coach Bobby Ross in 1996.

Henry will work with a unit that has a blend of both young and veteran players that opened holes a year ago for the team to rush for 2,072 yards. The Bolts have eclipsed the 2,000-yard mark each of the last four seasons, tying Denver for the longest active streak in the NFL.

Henry has built a reputation as one of the game's most respected assistant coaches by stressing toughness, assignment responsibility and attention to detail. Under his direction in New Orleans, running back Deuce McAllister became the first player in club history to post three-straight 1,000-yard seasons (2002-04). Ricky Williams also posted back-to-back 1,000-yard seasons (2000-01) for the Saints, giving the team five-straight 1,000-yard rushers, a first in team history.

In 2003, the offensive front was one of the Saints' most consistent units despite a host of injuries. The line paved the way for 2,000 yards and allowed just 36 sacks, the club's lowest total since 1996. McAllister rushed for 100 yards in nine straight games and finished the year with 1,641 yards. In 2003, LeCharles Bentley became the first Saints guard voted to the Pro Bowl since 1987, but a knee injury prevented him from taking part in the all-star contest.

In 2004, Henry guided Bentley's transformation from guard to center, and Bentley was voted as an alternate for the Pro Bowl. Last season, Bentley finally got his long-deserved chance to play in Hawaii, starting at center for the NFC in the 2006 Pro Bowl.

Henry's coaching ability came to light with Detroit. In 1997, his first season as the Lions offensive line coach, Barry Sanders ran for 2,053 yards and the team ranked second in the NFL in rushing offense. One of his star pupils in Detroit was guard Jeff Hartings, who cracked the starting lineup in his first full NFL season in 1997. Since then, Hartings has been voted to two Pro Bowls as a center and been chosen as a first-alternate four times.

A native of Houston, Pennsylvania, Henry's first coaching job was at Blairsville (Pa.) High School. His first NFL assignment was to tutor the Pittsburgh Steelers' offensive line under Hall of Fame coach Chuck Noll. One of his players in Pittsburgh was center Dermontti Dawson, who played 13 seasons for the Steelers and was a seven-time Pro Bowl selection.

Henry played linebacker at Penn State from 1964-65. He transferred to Indiana University, Pa. and played guard for the Indians from 1967-68. Henry was the captain of the school's famed 1968 Boardwalk Bowl Championship team and graduated in 1969. He returned to his alma mater in 1986, serving as assistant director of athletics, associate head football coach and offensive coordinator. In 1997, he was inducted into the school's athletic hall of fame.

Henry and his wife, Carol, have two children. Their son Chad is an area scout for the Detroit Lions and his wife is Holly. Their daughter, Jacqueline, recently completed her MBA at the University of New Orleans.

JAMES LOFTON

Wide Receivers

21st NFL Season, 5th with Chargers

Hall of Fame wide receiver James Lofton is passing along his knowledge of the game to the Chargers' corps of receivers. One of the most prolific pass catchers in NFL history, Lofton was selected to the Pro Football Hall of Fame on January 25, 2003.

Under Lofton's watchful eye in 2005, Keenan McCardell caught more touchdown passes (nine) than he had in any of his previous 13 seasons, while fellow wide receiver Eric Parker continued to raise the bar, upping his career bests for the second consecutive year with 57 catches for 725 yards.

During an NFL career that spanned 16 seasons (1978-1993), Lofton caught 764 passes for 14,004 yards (18.3 avg.) and scored 75 touchdowns. His 764 career receptions rank 17th in league history, while his 14,004 receiving yards is third in NFL annals to only Jerry Rice (22,466) and Tim Brown (14,734). Lofton played in 233 games during his career.

Lofton entered the NFL in 1978 as a first-round draft pick (sixth overall) of the Green Bay Packers. He spent nine seasons (1978-1986) in Green Bay before moving to Los Angeles to play for the Raiders during the 1987-88 seasons. In 1989, Lofton signed with Buffalo, where he spent the next four seasons (1989-1992). In Buffalo, Lofton was part of three AFC Championship teams and played in three Super Bowls following the 1990, '91 and '92 seasons.

In 1993, Lofton played one game for the Los Angeles Rams and nine games with the Philadelphia Eagles before retiring after the '93 season. It was with Philadelphia that Lofton became the first player in NFL history to eclipse 14,000 receiving yards.

Lofton's finest NFL seasons came in 1983 and 1984 with the Packers. In 1983, he caught 58 passes for 1,300 yards and eight touchdowns, leading the NFL with an average of 22.4 yards per catch. The following year, he caught 62 passes for 1,361 yards and seven scores for an average of 22.0 yards per catch, also tops in the NFL.

Lofton joined the Chargers after spending eight years in broadcasting. From 1994-96, he was an analyst for CNN's NFL Preview Show. In 1997, he spent a year as an analyst on NFL games for NBC. In 1998, Lofton returned to CNN as a studio analyst for CNN-SI's coverage of the NFL. He spent three years (1998-2001) as a game analyst on FOX Sports Net's broadcast of Big 12 football games while also doing NFL games for CBS Radio on Westwood One. From 1995-2001, Lofton worked as an analyst for the Carolina Panthers on the team's preseason telecasts.

Lofton was born July 5, 1956 in Fort Ord, California. He attended George Washington High School in Los Angeles and Stanford University. His career receiving totals at Stanford included 68 catches for 1,216 yards (17.9 avg.). In 1977, he set the school single-season record with 12 touchdown catches. He was a three-year letterman (1975-77) for the Cardinal in football. He also had an outstanding career in track and field at Stanford where he was a four-time All-America selection. In 1978, he won the NCAA Championship in the long jump. Lofton graduated from Stanford in 1978 with a bachelor's degree in industrial engineering.

Lofton has competed in Master's track and field events since 1997. He won the 2003 and 2005 Pacific Association championship in the 400 meters and posted the fastest time in the world in the 300 meters for the 45-49 year old division. In 2002, Lofton won the Western Regional championship in the 400 meters, and in 2001 he captured the long jump championship. Lofton also won the championship in the long jump at the World Master's Games in 1999. His first titles were in 1997 in the 200 and 400 meters, and the long jump at the Texas State Master's.

James and his wife, Beverly, have three children, sons David and Daniel, and daughter Rachel. David is a fifth-year senior free safety at Stanford, who graduated in June, 2006 with a degree in urban studies. Daniel is a freshman wide receiver at the University of California. Rachel attends Westview High School where she runs track and was the number two ranked freshman in San Diego in the 100 and 200 meters in 2006.

GREG MANUSKY

Linebackers

18th NFL Season, 5th with Chargers

A former All-Madden Team selection, Greg Manusky has developed the Chargers' line-backing corps into one of the league's best.

Last season, the Chargers led the NFL in run defense and recorded 46 sacks, their most since 1992. For the fourth year in a row, linebacker Donnie Edwards led the team in tackles, while Randall Godfrey finished second. Rookie Shawne Merriman was named NFL Defensive Rookie of the Year and selected to the Pro Bowl after leading the team and outpacing all NFL rookies with 10 sacks. Merriman also ranked second on the squad with seven tackles for loss and he tied for fifth with 54 tackles.

The linebackers also showed their worth on special teams as Shaun Phillips and Matt Wilhelm tied for third on the team with 15 special teams stops, and four of the top seven tacklers on special teams were linebackers.

In 2004, en route to winning the AFC West title, the Bolts ranked third in the NFL against the run and Edwards led the team in tackles, interceptions and passes defended.

Steve Foley and Godfrey led the team with 10 sacks and eight tackles for loss, respectively.

In five years as a pro coach, Manusky has sent four players to the Pro Bowl, including Merriman, LaVar Arrington with Washington in 2001, and Donnie Edwards and Junior Seau with San Diego in 2002. Merriman, Arrington and Edwards all went to their first-career Pro Bowls under Manusky.

Manusky spent 12 years as an NFL player. He was known as a hard-nosed workhorse and a demon on special teams. Those characteristics enabled him to play in 113 consecutive games during his career, a streak that spanned more than seven seasons. Following the 1991 season, he was selected to the All-Madden Team put together by Hall of Fame broadcaster and former coach, John Madden.

Manusky's playing career included stops in Washington (1988-1990), Minnesota (1991-93) and Kansas City (1994-99). In each of his six seasons with the Chiefs, Manusky either led or tied for the team lead in special teams tackles.

After retiring from the NFL in 1999, Manusky spent the 2000 season as a volunteer at the Tampa Bay Buccaneers' training camp where he worked with the linebackers and special teams. One year later, he accepted a job as linebackers coach with the Redskins. The head coach in Washington was Marty Schottenheimer.

Manusky was born Aug. 12, 1966 in Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania. He prepped at Dallas High School in his hometown and then went on to Colgate University where he was a four-year letterman and an All-Colonial League selection. He was named the league's Defensive Player of the Year as a senior and graduated with degrees in education and geology. Greg and his wife, Laurie, have two sons, Colton and Jake, and two daughters, Logan and Chandler.

WAYNE NUNNELY

Defensive Line

12th NFL Season, 10th with Chargers

Considered one of the top defensive line coaches in the NFL, Wayne Nunnely has done an outstanding job with the Chargers' defensive line.

Last season was no exception as Nunnely watched nose tackle Jamal Williams earn his first invitation to the Pro Bowl. Williams anchored a Bolts' run defense that held opponents to 84.3 yards per game, best in the NFL, and held its opponents to 3.5 yards per carry, third-lowest in the league. Following the season, Williams showed his appreciation for Nunnely by inviting him and his wife to join him in Hawaii for the Pro Bowl.

Last season, Nunnely also helped develop rookie defensive end Luis Castillo, who earned all-rookie honors after a season in which he tallied 49 tackles, 3.5 sacks and six tackles for loss.

With nine seasons under his belt in San Diego, Nunnely will become the fifth-longest tenured assistant coach in team history in 2006, trailing only Earnel Durden (13 seasons), Joe Madro (12), Jackie Simpson (12) and Phil Tyne (11). Only Durden, Madro and Tyne coached in San Diego without interruption, making Nunnely's current stretch of 10 straight seasons as an assistant coach the fourth-longest in team history among the 128 Charger assistant coaches since 1960. Nunnely has been on the sideline for 144 consecutive regular-season games since joining the Bolts in 1997.

With Nunnely on board, the Chargers have featured one of the NFL's top rushing defenses. In 1998, the Chargers led the NFL in run defense allowing only 71.3 yards per game, the lowest in team history and the fifth-lowest in the NFL since the league went to a 16 game schedule in 1978. The Chargers also ranked third in the NFL in 1999 (82.6) and 2004 (81.7), fourth in 2000 (88.9) and seventh in 2001 (94.0). The Chargers also have led the NFL in yards per carry beginning in 1998 holding opponents to just 2.7 yards per carry, the lowest average allowed by any team in the league since 1970, and the lowest in team history. The Bolts also led the league in yards per carry in 1999 (3.1) and 2001 (3.3). They ranked second in 2000 (3.0), sixth in 2004 (3.7) and seventh in 1997 (3.7).

During Nunnely's nine seasons in San Diego, the Chargers have featured six of the top 10 run defenses in team history in terms of yards per game. Also featured are seven of the top 10 and four of the top five run defenses in yards per carry.

Nunnely's first NFL job was with the New Orleans Saints. He worked at the Saints training camp in 1994 as part of the NFL's Minority Coaching Fellowship Program and was hired full-time in 1995. In each of his two years in New Orleans, the Saints ranked in the top five in the NFL in sacks and sacks per play.

Nunnely spent nearly 20 years as a head coach, assistant coach and administrator on the college level. In 1986, Nunnely was named head coach at UNLV, a post he manned for four seasons. At the time of his appointment, he was the first African-American head coach on the West Coast and only the fifth in NCAA Division I-A history. In 1988, he and Cleve Bryant of Ohio University became the first African-American head coaches in NCAA Division 1-A history to coach against one another, with Nunnely's UNLV squad coming out on top 26-18. In 1990, Nunnely served in the administration at UNLV as the Director of Minority Student Affairs.

Nunnely played fullback and lettered in track at UNLV for two seasons (1972-73). He earned a bachelor's degree in physical education in 1975. The school's faculty voted him Most Outstanding Male Physical Educator.

Nunnely was born March 29, 1952 in Los Angeles, California. He played football and track at Monrovia High School in Monrovia, California. Wayne and wife Velda live in San Diego. They have four children: sons Steven, Channing and Aaron, and daughter Amber.

JOHN RAMSDELL

Quarterbacks

12th NFL Season, 1st with Chargers

John Ramsdell joins the Chargers this season in time to oversee the development of Philip Rivers, who is expected to take the reigns as the team's starting quarterback in 2006.

Ramsdell arrives from the St. Louis Rams, where he served as quarterbacks coach from 1999-2002 and from 2004-05. In six seasons with Ramsdell as quarterbacks coach, the Rams led the league in passing three times (1999-2001) and ranked no lower than fifth in passing offense including ranking second in 2002, fifth in 2004 and fourth in 2005.

Last season, starting quarterback Marc Bulger finished the year as the league's fifth-leading passer, despite missing eight games due to a shoulder injury. Under Ramsdell's direction, Bulger recorded three of the top six passing games in team history.

Ramsdell also tutored two-time NFL Most Valuable Player Kurt Warner during the Rams' two Super Bowl appearances including a victory over Tennessee in Super Bowl XXXIV. With Ramsdell as his quarterbacks coach, Warner played in three Pro Bowls. Wide receiver Torrey Holt also went to the Pro Bowl after the 2003 season with Ramsdell as his position coach.

Ramsdell spent a total of 11 seasons with the Rams, coaching quarterbacks, tight ends, H-backs and wide receivers. He and strength and conditioning coach Chris Clausen were the only coaches to remain with the Rams during the team's first 11 seasons in St. Louis.

Ramsdell is a veteran of 19 seasons as a coach on the collegiate level. In 12 seasons as an assistant coach at the University of Oregon, the Ducks played in four bowl games including the 1995 Rose Bowl after winning the Pac-10 Conference championship in 1994.

Ramsdell was born Aug. 16, 1954 in Lafayette, Indiana. He graduated from Manheim Township High School in Lancaster, Pennsylvania and went on to earn a bachelor's degree from Springfield College in Springfield, Massachusetts and a master's degree from San Francisco State. CLARENCE SHELMON*Running Backs

16th NFL Season, 5th with Chargers

Clarence Shelmon has made his mark as one of the top running back coaches in the National Football League, producing nine Pro Bowl rushers in the past 15 seasons.

His outstanding run of churning out all-star runners continued in 2005 when LaDainian Tomlinson was voted to his third-career and second-straight Pro Bowl, and fullback Lorenzo Neal was voted to his second-career Pro Bowl and first since 2002. Tomlinson broke Chuck Muncie's 24-year-old team record by scoring 20 touchdowns last season and he tied Lenny Moore's NFL record by scoring a touchdown in 18 consecutive games. LT finished the season with 1,462 yards rushing, third-most in team history. The versatile Tomlinson also threw three touchdown passes.

Under Shelmon's tutelage, Michael Turner added 335 yards and three touchdowns, including an 83-yarder that sealed a 26-17 win over the 13-0 Indianapolis Colts on Dec. 18.

The Bolts rushed for 2,072 yards in 2005, their fourth-straight 2,000-yard season, tying Denver for the longest active streak in the NFL.

In 2004, Tomlinson went to his second-career Pro Bowl following a 1,335-yard season in which he led the NFL with 17 touchdowns. He closed out the year by scoring a rushing touchdown in an NFL single-season record 12 straight games.

In Shelmon's first two seasons with the Chargers, Tomlinson posted the top two rushing seasons in team history. In 2003, he rushed for 1,645 yards. He also led the NFL with 2,370 yards from scrimmage, second-most in league history, and became the first-ever player to rush for more than 1,000 yards and catch 100 passes in the same season. In 2002, Tomlinson rushed for a team-record 1,683 yards and was selected to his first-career Pro Bowl.

Shelmon's unique coaching techniques include a ball-control drill that involves running to three different cones with a football attached to a giant bungee cord.

Prior to his arrival in San Diego, Shelmon spent four seasons (1998-2001) as the running backs coach for the Dallas Cowboys, where he worked with Tomlinson's idol, Emmitt Smith, who played in Pro Bowls following the 1998 and '99 seasons. During Shelmon's tenure, Smith accumulated 4,953 yards and in 2002 became the NFL's all-time leading rusher, moving past Walter Payton. Smith rushed for 1,000 yards or more in each of his four seasons under Shelmon.

Shelmon was the running backs coach for the Seattle Seahawks from 1992-97. During that time, the Seahawks finished among the NFL's top five in rushing four out of six seasons. Shelmon helped running back Chris Warren, the Seahawks all-time leading rusher, become a four-time 1,000-yard rusher (1992-95) and earn three trips to the Pro Bowl.

Shelmon began his NFL coaching career in 1991 as the running backs coach for the Los Angeles Rams.

He made the jump to the NFL coaching ranks after spending four seasons as an assistant coach at the University of Southern California. During Shelmon's tenure, the Trojans made three consecutive Rose Bowl appearances including a victory over Michigan in 1990.

Shelmon was born on Sept. 17, 1952 in Bossier City, Louisiana. He graduated from Airline High School and played collegiately at the University of Houston. He lettered twice as a running back. Shelmon graduated from Houston with a bachelor's degree in education. He also attended Long Island University where he worked toward a master's degree in guidance and counseling.

In 1999, Shelmon and his wife, Nancy, created a foundation in memory of his mother, Ruby Shelmon. The foundation annually helps fund the college education of two high-school seniors from his hometown.

BRIAN STEWART

Secondary

5th NFL Season, 3rd with Chargers

Brian Stewart's coaching has made a positive impact on the Chargers' secondary. Cornerback Quentin Jammer had a solid campaign in 2005, leading the team with 19 passes defended and ranking third with 72 tackles. Safety Clinton Hart led the team with two interception returns for touchdowns. The Bolts secondary came up with big plays in 2005 when the team needed it most including late in road wins over Indianapolis and the New York Jets.

Over the last two seasons with Stewart as the team's secondary coach, the Chargers have allowed only 38 touchdown passes after giving up a team record 36 in 2003.

The Chargers corners and safeties made rapid improvements in Stewart's first season in San Diego. They combined for 13 interceptions in 2004 after recording only 10 in 2003. They also allowed far fewer touchdowns, surrendering only 19 in 2004 after giving up a team-record 36 in 2003. Also in 2004, the Chargers had the NFL's ninth-lowest opponent passer rating of 76.6 after ranking last in the league in this category in 2003 (94.3), an improvement of 17.7 points.

Stewart initially made his mark as a coach on the collegiate level. When he coached at Syracuse in 2001, the Orangemen went 10-3 and had the second-most turnovers in the Big East Conference. They finished the season ranked 14th in the nation and defeated Kansas State in the Insight.com Bowl. At Missouri, he mentored two-time All-Big 12 free safety Julian Jones, who led the conference with six interceptions in 1999. And in 1998 at San Jose State, the defensive backs Stewart coached recorded 20 interceptions and produced 1998 All-Western Athletic Conference selections Lyle West and Omar Smith, who led the conference with seven interceptions each.

Stewart found his way to the NFL through the League's Minority Coaching Fellowship Program, working at training camps with both the Seattle Seahawks and Washington Redskins.

Stewart was born Dec. 4, 1964 in San Diego and attended Nogales High School in La Puente, California. He began his collegiate career at Northern Arizona University, transferred to Santa Monica City College for two seasons, and then returned to NAU where he graduated with a degree in criminal justice. Stewart played both cornerback and safety in college. Brian and his wife, Kimberly, have one daughter, Leila.

HAL HUNTER*Assistant Offensive Line

1st NFL Season, 1st with Chargers

Hal Hunter begins his NFL career working with the Chargers' offensive line.

He brings a wealth of experience as a college assistant coach, most recently at the University of North Carolina. During the 2003-04 seasons, the Tar Heels' offense averaged more than 150 rushing yards per game. In 2004, UNC averaged 176.3 yards per game and received an invitation to play in the Continental Tires Bowl.

Hunter was the offensive coordinator at Indiana University from 2000-01. The Hoosiers head coach at that time was current Chargers offensive coordinator Cam Cameron. Indiana ranked in the top 20 nationally in total offense during both of Hunter's seasons in Bloomington. Hunter helped tutor former Big Ten Player of the Year and first-team All America quarterback Antwaan Randle El, who went on to become a second-round pick of the Pittsburgh Steelers and a starter on last season's Super Bowl XL championship team. In 2000, Indiana ranked seventh in the nation in rushing offense and 12th in total offense. In 2001, they ranked fourth in rushing and 19th in total offense.

Hunter spent five seasons at LSU and was promoted to assistant head coach in 1999. At the end of the '99 season, he became an interim head coach for one game after Gerry DiNardo was let go by the school, and he led the Tigers to a 35-10 win over rival Arkansas. One of Hunter's star pupils at LSU was two-time All-America Alan Faneca, who went on to become a first-round pick of the Steelers in 1998. Faneca started at left guard on the same Super Bowl championship team as Randle El.

Hunter was born July 8, 1959 in Canonsburg, Pennsylvania. He was a dean's list student at Northwestern, graduating with a 3.6 GPA while earning a degree in communications. He played linebacker for the Wildcats in 1978, but a neck injury ended his playing career prematurely. Following the injury, he stayed on with the team, working with the defensive line and serving as a strength coach. He and his wife, Tracy, have two sons, Hal IV and Andrew. Hunter's father, Hal Sr., is a retired NFL coach.

team's outside linebackers.

In 2005, Pagano oversaw the development of rookie Shawne Merriman, who was named NFL Defensive Rookie of the Year by the Associated Press after leading the team and all NFL rookies with 10 sacks. Merriman also pitched in with seven tackles for loss, second-most on the team, and 54 tackles. The rookie played a huge hand in the Chargers 26-17 win over the 13-0 Indianapolis Colts, racking up two sacks and three tackles for loss. Fellow outside linebacker Shaun Phillips also had a breakout season, collecting seven sacks, second-most on the squad. 2005 marked the second year in a row that an outside linebacker led the team in sacks. In 2004, newcomer Steve Foley set a career high and led the team with 10 sacks. Phillips, a rookie in 2004, racked up four sacks, tied for second-most on the team.

Before joining the Chargers, Pagano spent four seasons as a defensive assistant with the Indianapolis Colts, coaching the secondary and assisting in all areas of defensive preparation.

ADMINISTRATION

JIM STEEG

Executive Vice President—Chief Operating Officer

Jim Steeg, the man responsible for turning the Super Bowl into the world's premiere sporting event, was named executive vice president and chief operating officer for the San Diego Chargers on Nov. 15, 2004.

Not even two years into his tenure in San Diego, Steeg has been instrumental in the team's success away from the field. He has worked to enhance the fan's game-day experience at Qualcomm Stadium. He also helped the team make a smooth transition to host training camp at Chargers Park, returning it to its roots in San Diego. On the business side, Steeg has helped develop new and stronger relationships with the team's TV and radio partners. He initiated a drive to completely revamp the team's website, Chargers.com, and he's watched the team's revenue streams grow through sponsorships and record sales of tickets, club seats and suites.

In addition to overseeing all business operations for the Chargers, his responsibilities include the development of a new, Super Bowl-caliber stadium for San Diego. Over the years, he has worked hand-in-hand with communities across the country developing stadiums to play host to the Super Bowl as well as consulting with many teams on their new stadiums.

In his 31 years with the NFL, including 26 in charge of the league's special events department, the Super Bowl grew from a championship football game to a four-day extravaganza that emphasizes the participation and inclusion of the local game-site community at the business, educational and charitable levels.

Steeg was responsible for all aspects of the Super Bowl including stadium build-out and operations; practice-site preparation; pregame and halftime shows; National Anthem performers; team, media, corporate and fan accommodations; corporate hospitality; television broadcasting; telecommunications; transportation; security; logo design; decorations and signage; ticketing; the NFL Commissioner's Party and the Super Bowl Concert Series. He also oversaw the local community Super Bowl Host Committee.

During his Super Bowl tenure, Steeg implemented many of the Super Bowl's signature events. He created the concept of the NFL Experience and oversaw its metamorphosis. This and many of the other event-related elements that he helped conceptualize have become staples throughout professional and Olympic sports. One such element was the use of Jumbotron video screens within the stadium venue. He also enhanced audio-TV broadcasts throughout the stadium and introduced individual radios featuring the national TV and radio broadcasts at every seat, entertainment plazas throughout the stadium and parking lots, an expansive corporate hospitality village, parking lot and transportation innovations, environmental recycling, ADA enhancements, media interview and workroom areas/services, children's clothing shops in the stadium, and all-encompassing stadium, hotel and host city decorations. His innovations also include in-stadium promotions, including individual stadium seat cushion giveaways, special pro football trading cards, panoramic cameras, collectibles and unique stadium collection and locker room-only merchandise.

Steeg was the driving force behind the league-sponsored Super Bowl charitable events off the field. These events raised more than $50 million dollars for the host communities over the past 20 years and impacted thousands of children, thanks to programs such as the NFL's Youth Education Town (YET) Center, the NFL Youth Football Clinic, the NFL Cheerleading Spirit Clinic, the Super Bowl College Lecture Series, "The Taste of the NFL," Habitat for Humanity's "Super Bowl Blitz," "Gridiron Glamour" and the NFL Charities Golf Classic.

Steeg also launched and championed the Super Bowl Minority and Women-Owned Emerging Business Program in the early 1990s, mandating that, whenever possible, the league and its various vendors and corporate clients work with local minority- and women-owned businesses. It was the first-of-its-kind emerging business program in professional, collegiate and Olympic sports.

Beyond his Super Bowl duties, Steeg, whose title was Senior Vice President, Special Events for the NFL, was in charge of a 26-member department. From 1990-95, he organized the American Bowl Games in Berlin, Germany and Barcelona, Spain. His duties also included the Pro Bowl in Honolulu, the NFL Draft, the NFL's entire postseason schedule, the NFL-Sr. PGA Tour Golf Tournament, NFL owners' and all other League meetings and all of the made-for-TV NFL events. These included "The Quarterback Challenge," "The Ultimate Defender," "The Pro Bowl Skills Challenge" and "The Alumni Beach Challenge." Steeg also planned and executed the closing of Times Square in New York and the Mall in Washington D.C., for the inaugural Kickoff Celebrations in 2002 and 2003, respectively.

Steeg was the NFL's chief liaison to the Pro Football Hall of Fame in Canton, Ohio and helped choreograph all of the enshrinement weekend events. He chaired the NFL's league-wide 75th Anniversary celebration in 1994, which featured the initial wearing of throwback uniforms, and helped organize "Pro Football's Greatest Reunion" in 2000 in which 117 living Hall of Famers returned to Canton.

Steeg was among the inaugural class inducted into the Special Events Hall of Fame in 2002 and was recognized as 2005 Celebrity of the Year by the Mad Anthony's, a charitable organization of 275 business and professional people in northern Indiana. He is a recent member of the San Diego Chamber of Commerce Executive Committee, and currently serves on the boards of the United Way of San Diego, the Downtown YMCA of San Diego and the San Diego Hall of Champions. He has been a longtime board member of Wake Forest University's Babcock Graduate School of Management, the George B. Young Memorial Scholarship Committee, Hunger Related Events and the NFL Youth Education Towns in Houston, New Orleans and Miami.

Prior to joining the league office in New York in 1979, Steeg was the business manager/controller for the Miami Dolphins from 1975-78.

Born in Boston, Steeg, grew up in Ft. Wayne, Indiana. He received an MBA from Wake Forest University and a bachelor's in political science from Miami University. His wife, Jill, is a senior writer for USA Today. His son, Bryce, 26, is a former college quarterback who graduated from Duke University in 2002. Bryce would continue on to graduate from the London School of Economics in 2003 and Harvard Law School in 2006. He currently works in the law firm of Wilson, Sonsini, Goodrich and Rosati in Palo Alto, California. His daughter, Darcy, 24, is a 2003 graduate of Princeton, who is working toward her master's of economics at George Washington University in Washington D.C. CHARGERS IN THE COMMUNITY

Mike Nowak

CHARGERS IN THE COMMUNITY

For more than 45 years, the San Diego Chargers have been a vital part of the fabric of this community, supporting hundreds of charitable organizations each year and assisting in causes that are critical to our community.

The Chargers Community Foundation, created over 10 years ago by the Spanos family, continues to provide additional resources to impact key areas in the community and make a lasting impact on the future. Whether it's ongoing Foundation programs such as "Chargers Champions," which has provided more than $2 million dollars to local youth and schools for scholarships and grants during the last seven years, or the creation of relief efforts to help those suddenly in need, the San Diego Chargers and the Chargers Community Foundation are always willing to lend a helping hand.

In the aftermath of Hurricane Katrina, the Spanos family, along with Chargers players and fans stepped forward to donate and raise funds to assist the victims struggling with the hurricane's devastation. Thanks to a lead gift of $150,000 by Alex Spanos and funds donated by Chargers players and fans at the first home game following the storm, nearly $400,000 was raised for relief efforts. This partnership between the Spanos family, the players and our generous fans proved that San Diegans have a huge heart and are willing to give when others are in need.

When it comes to supporting our courageous men and women in uniform, the San Diego Chargers are at the front of the line. In June, the team visited Camp Pendleton and held one of its offseason practices before several thousand Marines and their families at a practice field located on the base. San Diego's history is tied directly to the growth of the military in our region, and throughout the team's history, the Chargers have been proud to support the men and women who bravely defend our country. Each year, the Chargers host numerous events and make special visits to show their continuing support for our local soldiers and sailors as well as their families. Events like the one at Camp Pendleton and long-standing traditions like the team's annual Salute to the Military are testaments to the tradition of supporting these brave men and women of the United States Armed Forces.

Another community event that just keeps getting better every year is the Chargers Annual Blood Drive, which celebrates its 28th anniversary in 2006. The Blood Drive has set the standard for events of its kind and is responsible for raising badly needed pints of blood each year at the start of the busy holiday season. Recognized by the Governor of California as well as the American Association of Blood Banks for its major contributions, Chargers Blood Drive XXVIII again will attract thousands to the Town & Country Hotel and Convention Center on November 21, 2006 to selflessly give the ultimate gift - the gift of life.

CHARGERS COMMUNITY FOUNDATION TOPS $6 MILLION IN SUPPORT!

Since its creation by Alex Spanos in 1995, the Chargers Community Foundation has been a leader in assisting San Diego schools, supporting youth sports and providing monetary resources to non-profit organizations. Along the way, the Foundation has invested millions of dollars to assist with a wide range of programs and services that directly affect youth and families in our county. The Foundation's largest ongoing program, "Chargers Champions," was created in 1999 to provide college scholarships and grant assistance to San Diego County's students and schools.

The Foundation also runs several other successful programs, including the Junior Charger Girls. This program gives young women ages 7-15 the opportunity to perform at Qualcomm Stadium with the NFL's best dance team, while promoting self-esteem, community awareness and fun. Most importantly, the Junior Charger Girls have raised more than $400,000 for charity, with the biggest beneficiary of their hard work being the Make-A-Wish Foundation.

CHARGERS CHAMPIONS TOPS $2 MILLION

"Chargers Champions" just completed its seventh year of providing scholarships and grants to San Diego students and schools. Created by Alex and Dean Spanos, the program has awarded more than $2.4 million in grants and scholarships to 142 students, 46 educators and 52 schools since its inception. In 2006, 16 high school juniors from throughout the county received $7,000 tuition scholarships and laptop computers.

Chargers President Dean Spanos, along with Keenan McCardell and Antonio Cromartie, presented the scholarship winners from the Chargers Champions "Class of 2006."

The students were chosen based on their outstanding leadership, service, citizenship and their commitment to their schools and communities.

The largest component of "Chargers Champions" continues to be its focus on improving fitness in San Diego County schools by providing grants for athletic, physical fitness and nutrition programs. Ten schools received grants in 2006, ranging from $2,000–$80,000 to improve student health and activities.

To assist with the selection process, "Chargers Champions" solicits the assistance of key business, community and educational leaders to serve on the Chargers Champions Leadership Team. The Leadership Team also receives input from the County Office of Education and the instructors and administrators who oversee San Diego County's very successful AVID program.

GIVING KIDS A CHANCE TO PLAY

Imagine having the opportunity to stand on the sideline during the national anthem at a Chargers home game, alongside Head Coach Marty Schottenheimer and your favorite players. Then imagine having the chance to scrimmage on the field at QUALCOMM Stadium in front of more than 60,000 cheering fans. The Chargers have made both of these dreams possible for many of San Diego County's youth football players. It will happen again for more than 2,000 local youth football players when the Chargers host the Seattle Seahawks on August 26, 2006. It promises to be a day they will never forget!

THE IMPORTANCE OF GOOD COACHING

The Chargers recognize the importance of quality coaching in youth football. In May, the Chargers welcomed more than 300 youth football coaches to Chargers Park for the second annual Chargers Coaching Academy. The coaches received classroom education and hands-on instruction from Chargers coaches and NFL players. With the help of USA Football and the San Diego Hall of Champions, this year's academy was another phenomenal success.

THE CHARGERS AND HIGH SCHOOL SPORTS

The Chargers support high school sports in San Diego County in many facets. Whether it's individual high school teams, the High School Sports Association of San Diego, the CIF-San Diego Section or the National Football Foundation, the Chargers continue to be a strong partner in high school athletics.

Each year, San Diego County's best high school football players are invited to play in the Alex Spanos All-Star Classic, the longest-running high school all-star football game in California. In July, the All-Star Classic celebrated its 16th anniversary. The players had a chance to visit Chargers Park for their initial team meeting, at which time they received a special behind-the-scenes tour of the Chargers year-round training facility and an opportunity to meet NFL Defensive Rookie of the Year Shawne Merriman. The Chargers are proud to work with the High School Sports Association of San Diego each year to make this game possible.

Along with the All-Star Classic, the Chargers continue to sponsor the CIF Championship Games, played annually at QUALCOMM Stadium. Thanks to the Chargers and the Spanos family's support, thousands of high school student-athletes have had the opportunity to chase their championship dreams on the field at QUALCOMM Stadium.

Since 1997, the Chargers have participated in the NFL High School Coach of the Week program. Each week during the high school football season, one coach is named the high school coach of the week and receives a $1,000 donation to his school's football program. At the end of the year, one coach is selected as the High School Coach of the Year and receives a $2,000 donation to his football program.

Last year's Coach of the Year was Dave Hostetler of Valhalla High School. Hostetler and each of the 2005 coaches of the week were honored before the Chargers' final regular-season home game against Denver. Following is a list of each of the high school coaches of the week from 2005.

JUNIOR CHARGERS TRAINING CAMPS

Even if you don't play on an organized team, kids can still have fun and learn football in the Junior Chargers Training Camps. These FREE football skills camps are held weekly during the season at recreation centers and schools throughout San Diego County. The Junior Chargers Training Camps are sponsored by Gatorade and held in coordination with STAR/PAL-San Diego's Police Athletic League. They provide boys and girls an opportunity to learn football and life skills from Chargers players and law enforcement officers. A project of the Chargers Rookie Club, these football camps are designed to teach children the basics of football and sportsmanship.

CHARGERS COMMUNITY CORNER

tickets to each game are made available in the Chargers Community Corner. Each child who attends a game in the Community Corner receives a T-shirt and a coupon for a free hot dog and soda. Because of the generosity demonstrated by Spanos and the players, thousands of San Diego's children have been able to experience the thrill of a Chargers football game in person.

CHARGERS AND CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL GO HAND IN HAND

Since the Spanos family arrived in San Diego, the Chargers have nurtured an ongoing relationship with Children's Hospital and Health Center. From the creation of the Brooke Humphries Fund, the Toss for Tots pledge program, the annual Teddy Bear Drive to Children's Hospital and Kids News

Day, Children's Hospital remains one of the top recipients of the team's support. The Brooke Humphries Fund was created by the Spanos family to honor Stan Humphries and his family for their contributions to San Diego. A sizeable contribution was given to establish the "Brooke Humphries Field of Champions," a specially-designed waiting area in the hospital that is visited annually by more than 25,000 orthopedic patients.

The Fund also supports various programs and specialized technology so that Children's Hospital and Health Center can continue providing San Diego's children the medical care they need. In 1999, the Chargers and Children's Hospital strengthened their partnership by creating the "Toss for Tots" pledge program. Fans sign up to make donations to Children's Hospital for each touchdown the Chargers score during the season. Top donors receive a special behind-the-scenes tour of Chargers Park and an invitation to attend a special Mini Camp Tailgate Party. This year's top donors had a chance to meet Philip Rivers, Antonio Gates, Lorenzo Neal, Keenan McCardell and Nate Kaeding. For more information or to sign up for "Toss for Tots," visit www.chargers.com.

CHARGERS BLOOD DRIVE CELEBRATES 28 YEARS OF SUPPORTING COMMUNITY

The team's longest-running community event is the annual Chargers Blood Drive. Created in partnership with the San Diego Blood Bank, the Chargers Blood Drive helps provide an adequate blood supply during the holiday season. Since its humble beginnings 28 years ago, the Blood Drive has collected more than 40,000 pints of blood to benefit San Diego's citizens.

The Chargers Blood Drive began as a call to help kicker Rolf Benirschke, one of the most popular players in team history. Rolf required more than 50 pints of blood during surgery for ulcerative colitis. The enthusiastic response to that blood drive was the genesis of this nationally recognized program. Benirschke returns each year to join current players in greeting and assisting donors. The day-long blood drive features entertainers, including the Time Out Band featuring players and Chargers staff members, and a fashion show starring Chargers players and their families. In 2004, the team received a special commendation from California's First Lady, Maria Shriver, for its commitment to ensuring the health and well-being of San Diego County residents. The First Lady even took time to donate blood herself!

Under the direction of Susie Spanos, the Chargers Blood Drive also supports the Cord Blood Donor Program. This program encourages pregnant women to donate their umbilical cord upon delivery so that the blood can be used to help save lives.

GIVING FROM THE HEART

Kassim and his teammates sold silverware, signed autographs, fetched meals and anything else they could think of to help raise funds for the program.

On Thursday evenings during the season, Chargers players, coaches and staff work with the Salvation Army to provide hot meals to San Diego's homeless population in the downtown area.

This October, the Chargers again will team up with Payless Shoe Source to distribute 1,000 pairs of shoes to youngsters in grades K-6. The most deserving youth are selected from throughout San Diego County by their schools and are teamed with individual players on this special day to pick out a new pair of school shoes.

In December, the Chargers again will work with Lift Up America to distribute tons of poultry and dry goods to the many wonderful organizations in San Diego County

Also in December, the Chargers and Union Bank will sponsor The Festival of Wishes, an annual event that brings the magic of the holidays to children from low-income families. The families are treated to music, food, magic and visits from their favorite Chargers players, and of course, Santa Claus.

CARING CITIZENS FOR SAN DIEGO

Throughout the year, the Chargers are among the most caring citizens in San Diego and the football season is no exception. During the season, many players venture into the community on their day off to participate in a wide range of community events. It is not uncommon to see players visiting schools, libraries, military bases, local hospitals or nonprofit organizations to help raise badly needed resources. They do it from their hearts and they do it because they understand that they are a vital part of the fabric of this great community.

The tradition of service that began over 45 years ago is as strong today as ever. The San Diego Chargers are proud of this tradition and will continue their work to be a leader in the community. To learn more about the team's work in the community, visit www.chargers.com.

DAVID BINN

13th NFL Season

California
DOB: 2/6/72
Free Agent - '94
San Mateo, Calif.

Embarking on his 13th season in San Diego, David Binn is the longest-tenured player on the Chargers' roster. In 2006, he is expected to set the team record for most games played as a Charger. The record is currently shared by Junior Seau and Russ Washington with 200 games played. Binn has earned a reputation as one of the top long snappers in the league with pin-point accuracy. He also is one of the league's most durable players, having missed only one game due to injury in 12 seasons.

Binn is an avid golfer whose handicap hovers in the low single digits. He has been invited to compete in golf tournaments around the country. In 1999, he won a trip to Hawaii in a hole-in-one contest sponsored by a local golf venue.

Binn has visited many interesting places, including Hawaii, Australia, Europe and Costa Rica. He also is preparing for his future as he traveled to Pennsylvania this offseason to participate in an NFL-sponsored internship program at the Wharton School of Business at the University of Pennsylvania.

Since his arrival in San Diego, Binn has been a supporter of the local military. In May 2003, he and linebacker Donnie Edwards visited the aircraft carrier USS Abraham Lincoln at sea as the ship and its crew returned to San Diego from the war in Iraq. Aboard the ship, they were joined by President George W. Bush, who had also flown to the carrier to deliver a speech to the nation declaring an end to the hostilities in Iraq. Binn and Edwards posed for pictures with the nation's Commander in Chief. In 2000, he received a special invitation to fly in an F-18 with the Navy's Blue Angels.

Throughout his NFL career, Binn has been one of the Chargers' most active players in the community. In 1998, he started the David Binn Foundation to support environmental education and scholarship programs. The foundation supports several worthy causes including the annual "Teddy Bear Drive to Children's Hospital," in which Binn joins forces with the Coronado Police Department to deliver stuffed animals to young patients.

Binn makes his home year-round in Pacific Beach. His pet is a two-year-old Rhodesian Ridgeback named Kingston.

LUIS CASTILLO

Defensive End
6-3, 290
2nd NFL Season
2nd with Chargers

Northwestern
DOB: 8/4/83
Draft 1B - '05
Garfield, N.J.

2005 was quite a year for Chargers rookie defensive end Luis Castillo. The first-round draft pick earned his way into the starting lineup Week 2 and his consistent play throughout the year helped him earn All-Rookie honors from Pro Football

Weekly, the Professional Football Writers of America and NFL.com. Luis' outstanding play contributed to the Chargers finishing with the league's top-ranked run defense. He and fellow rookie Shawne Merriman combined for 13.5 sacks last season, the most combined sacks by any rookie tandem in the league.

Luis wants to be even better this season. He has shed more than 10 pounds and plans to play this season around 290. He believes the lighter frame will make him quicker off the edge. Following the team's offseason practices, Luis was routinely one of the last players off the practice field as he worked to improve his pass-rushing technique.

Luis is fluent in Spanish. He was born in Brooklyn, New York and moved to the Dominican Republic with his mother, Maria, when he was a child. They returned to the States when he was 5, and the family settled in New Jersey. After the 2005 season ended, Luis returned to the Dominican Republic where he is revered as a national icon. He is the first-ever Dominican player to be drafted and start in the National Football League. During his trip, Luis hosted a youth football clinic and he and his mom were interviewed on almost every notable sports and variety television show in the country. Luis was honored with the Youth of the Year Award for excellence outside of the Dominican Republic. The award ceremony was attended by many of the country's highest-ranking political dignitaries, including the President of the Dominican Republic. Before leaving the Dominican, Luis and his mother hosted a grand party to thank the media and the government for the warm welcome.

Luis' mother is his inspiration. She was raised in a small village in the Dominican that had no running water or electricity and few educational opportunities. Today, she runs a multimillion-dollar company in New York that imports hair-care products from her homeland.

With a year on the practice squad under his belt, Markus Curry looks to see his first regular-season action with the Chargers in 2006. He comes from an athletic family as his brother, Julius, who also played at Michigan, enjoyed a brief NFL career. Julius spent time on Detroit's active roster and on the practice squads in Detroit and Green Bay.

Julius is now out of football and is the owner and founder of Curry Racing, Inc., a NASCAR Craftsman Truck Series racing team. Markus' oldest brother Raymond helps out with the team. Curry Racing is the first African-Americanowned racing team in the history of NASCAR. Veteran driver Chase Montgomerly sits behind the wheel of the team's No. 8 Dodge Ram, sponsored by EQ Energy Drink.

Markus tries to spend as much time as possible with his family in Michigan. He returns home often to be with his brothers, his mom and his daughter, Maryah. His father, Raymond, Sr., passed away in 2005 and the loss was very difficult for the entire Curry family.

Markus enjoys quiet time away from football with interests like studying the Bible, listening to music, reading and going to the beach. He also likes bowling and playing pool.

No newcomer to the starting line-up made a greater impact in 2005 than guard Kris Dielman. Admired by coaches and teammates for his tenacity and toughness on the field, Dielman manned the left guard spot for the final 14 games and helped the Chargers rush for more than 2,000 yards for the fourth-consecutive season, tied with Denver for the longest active streak in the NFL.

Dielman's football story is certainly one marked by perseverance. Prior to coming to the NFL, he played tight end and defensive tackle for Chargers offensive coordinator Cam Cameron at Indiana University. Kris arrived in San Diego as an undrafted free agent defensive lineman, but before long he was moved to the offensive line where he has found a home.

The Chargers think so highly of the former Hoosier that they extended the restricted free agent a first-round tender in 2006 and signed Dielman to a one-year contract in March.

A non-football highlight of Dielman's career happened in 2004 when he and other teammates flew out and spent a night aboard the nuclear-powered aircraft carrier USS Carl Vinson. The players observed flight operations, toured the entire carrier and signed numerous autographs for the service personnel.

Dielman recently purchased a home in Pacific Beach. His new pad has a stunning panoramic view of San Diego from the La Jolla coast to Mexico.

Kris is an avid sports fan. He is good friends with several San Diego Padres and regularly attends their games. In 2005, he caught a foul ball while attending a game. Other sports he enjoys watching are rodeos and ultimate fighting bouts. Dielman is also a fan of country music.

Donnie Edwards had yet another

All-Pro-caliber season in 2005, his fourth with the Chargers. Going into his 11th season, Donnie is one of the NFL's most durable players at one of its most physically-demanding positions. In the last nine seasons, Donnie's missed only one game due to injury and he's started 121 consecutive games dating back to the 1998 season. It's the seventh-longest active streak in the NFL.

Last season, Donnie led the Chargers and ranked second in the NFL in tackles with 154 stops, the second-highest total of his career. In 2004, Donnie led the entire NFL with 151 stops, though his best individual season was 2003, when he ranked third in the league with a career-high 162 stops.

Edwards is one of the Chargers' most well-rounded performers on and off the field and has received many accolades for the time he devotes to the people of San Diego. In March he was honored by San Diego's ABC affiliate, KGTV, for his work in the community. Donnie is the creator of "Jump for Life," a fun and innovative program that educates children in San Diego about nutrition, physical fitness and setting goals. Aside from overseeing "Jump for Life," Edwards serves as executive commissioner of the San Diego chapter of the "After-School All-Stars," a program created by Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger to give inner-city youth positive alternatives to drugs, gangs and violence through after-school programs.

Proper nutrition has been an important issue for Edwards because there are numerous foods that he is allergic to and must stay away from. Interestingly, he also is allergic to grass, which makes his challenge of being a professional football player greater.

Community involvement has been a staple of Edwards' career since the Kansas City Chiefs selected him in the fourth round of the 1996 NFL Draft. In 2002 Edwards channeled his charitable activities by creating the Donnie Edwards Best Defense Foundation. The foundation's signature event is "Dad's Day with Donnie." It takes place at SeaWorld every year around Father's Day and is an opportunity for Edwards and other professional athletes to spend a day with kids who don't have a father figure in their lives.

One of the first major projects that his foundation committed to was the construction of a new $40,000 weight room for his alma mater, Chula Vista High School. In 2003, Donnie was inducted into the school's Hall of Fame and, in 2000, he had his number retired by the school. Donnie is also recognized in the Sweetwater Union School District's Hall of Fame, which recognizes excellence in all professional fields including athletics.

Included among the many organizations Edwards is actively involved with are the Boy Scouts, the Boys and Girls Clubs, San Diego's Sharp Hospital and Read Across America. A Boy Scout himself, Donnie carries the rank of Star Scout and serves on the San Diego board of directors for the Boy Scouts. Edwards was honorary chairman for Scout Fair 2003 and has donated memberships, uniforms and camping trips to the South Bay Boy Scouts and the National City Boys and Girls Club.

Another passion of Edwards' is the military and its history. He has a sister who served in the Navy and his grandfathers served in World War II and the Korean War. At his home in Rancho Santa Fe, he has an extensive collection of military artifacts including uniforms and helmets.

Donnie is a member of the 101st Airborne 506 E-Company Paratroopers, a group of military historians who participate in combat reenactments both in the United States and abroad. In January he participated in a WWII reenactment at Camp Roberts in Paso Robles, California, and in May, he traveled to Europe for another reenactment camp and a tour of numerous WWII battle sights in Holland, Belgium and France. Coincidentally, one of his grandfathers was stationed at Camp Roberts in the 1940s.

Donnie has traveled extensively throughout Europe and his interests in World War II keep him busy in the off-season. He traveled to Normandy, France in June, 2004 to commemorate the 60th anniversary of D-Day, and as part of the trip, he toured several WWII battlefields with veterans of the war.

His passion for the military and its history have taken him around the world. During a business trip to Korea in 2005, he visited the infamous DMZ with a retired Two-Star General from the Republic of Korea Army. In 2003 he and teammate David Binn flew to the aircraft carrier USS Abraham Lincoln, spending two days with troops returning home from the war in Iraq. During their visit to the carrier, President Bush spent a night on board and it was from the Lincoln that he delivered his speech to the nation declaring an end to hostilities in Iraq. Edwards had the opportunity to meet the President and was present on the deck of the carrier during the historic speech. In 2003 he experienced being a Marine recruit for a day and in 2001, he was invited to fly in an F-18 with the Navy's Blue Angels.

Donnie travels abroad with his wife, Kathryn. In 2005, the couple vacationed in the Italian countryside and during a visit to Rome, they happened to be at the Vatican at the very moment that the white smoke was released from the Sistine Chapel's chimney announcing to the world that Pope Benedict XVI had been chosen to succeed deceased Pope John Paul II.

Besides community involvement, travel and the military, Edwards' other interests include reggae music, paintball, basketball and spending time at the beach with he and Kathryn's three Labrador retrievers: Bear, Scout and Bess. In June, Donnie participated in a celebrity paintball event in Hawaii where he competed with and against celebrities from the NFL, NBA and the TV and film industry.

Following football, Edwards would like to pursue a career in an NFL front office, private business or in television. He has worked for the NFL Network as a studio anchor and sideline reporter. Donnie also is working toward a master's degree in education from UCLA.

Feeley grew up in Ontario, Oregon, a town with a population of about 11,000 and located on the eastern edge of the state midway between Salt Lake City and Portland. His father is a math teacher at Ontario High School and is the head of baseball officials for the Scenic West Athletic Conference. His mother is an elementary school principal.

A.J. has been an active member of the community in every city where he has played and, in 2005, he started his own nonprofit charitable foundation, "Future for Kids."

A.J.'s girlfriend, Heather Mitts, was a defender on the 2004 U.S. Women's Olympic soccer team, which won the Gold Medal.

DRAYTON FLORENCE

Cornerback

4th NFL Season
4th with Chargers

Tuskegee
DOB: 12/19/80
Draft 2A - '03
Ocala, Fla.

Having to prove himself is nothing new for Drayton Florence. A former second-round draft choice from Tuskegee University in Alabama, Florence has faced challenges his entire NFL career. The talented athlete from the small college has met all the challenges and proven his status as a starting NFL cornerback.

With Florence in the starting lineup, the Chargers' pass defense has steadily improved the last two years. In 2003 the Bolts surrendered a team-record 36 touchdown passes and won only four games. Florence moved into the starting lineup during the 2004 season and the touchdown total dropped to 19 in '04 and 20 in '05. In the last two years the Chargers have combined to win 21 games.

One of the keys to Drayton's success is his offseason workout regimen. Aside from his work in the Chargers' offseason conditioning program, Florence has spent the last five years training in Florida with All-Pro wide receiver Randy Moss at the Randy Moss Speed Academy. The workouts last two to three hours, five days a week in Florida's heat and high humidity. Drayton also has hired a personal trainer with whom he practices yoga and Pilates, and he works out three times a week at the Reyes Boxing Gym in Chula Vista.

Drayton has become an active member of the community. In the fall, he will purchase 20 tickets in the Chargers Community Corner that he will distribute to inner-city youth through the Boys and Girls Clubs of San Diego.

In 2004 he started the Drayton Florence Foundation to develop programs to help disadvantaged youth in his hometown of Ocala, Florida. For each of the last two years he has hosted a football camp at his alma mater, Vanguard High School, and a celebrity golf classic. This year, he also hosted a celebrity basketball shootout.

Away from football Drayton enjoys spending time with his son Jaden and daughter Jaelynn. He's become an addicted golfer and is an avid pool player who has a table in his home. He also likes to play Texas Hold 'em poker for fun on the Internet.

Drayton is one of the team's biggest supporters of the military. His dad, Drayton, Sr., spent 20 years in the Army and retired with a rank of E7. Drayton's sister Lakisha is currently serving in the Army and is stationed in San Antonio, Texas. She carries the rank of E4.

Wide Receiver
6-5, 225

3rd with Chargers

Wyoming
DOB: 9/8/81
Free Agent - '04
Sacramento, Calif.

With nearly two full years on the practice squad under his belt, Malcom Floyd has worked hard to earn playing time in 2006. He's added nearly 25 pounds of muscle to his frame through an intense workout and conditioning program, and he hopes the extra size will lead to passes being thrown his way when the regular season rolls around.

Malcom has an NFL pedigree as his older brother, Malcolm, played wide receiver for the Houston Oilers during the 1994-97 seasons. He is now an elementary school principal in Sacramento.

Malcom's hobbies include playing basketball, boogie boarding at Mission Beach and playing the newest video games. He was an all-conference basketball player in high school and his team won an intramural championship while he was in college at Wyoming.

STEVE FOLEY

Linebacker
6-4, 265
9th NFL Season
3rd with Chargers

Louisiana-Monroe
DOB: 9/11/75
UFA (Houston) - '04
Little Rock, Ark.

Steve Foley would like to put the 2005 season and the abdominal injury that dogged him for most of the year in his rearview mirror. He has his sights set on a season like the one he had in 2004 when he set career highs with 10 sacks and five forced fumbles.

Foley grew up in Little Rock, Arkansas, the youngest of nine children. He has four older brothers and four older sisters and times were tough for the Foley family when Steve was growing up. Football has given him a chance to help take care of his parents and siblings. One of the things he's looking into is opening a family-owned soul food restaurant and bakery in Little Rock.

Foley maintains close ties to his hometown. In June, Foley and several other prominent athletes who also grew up in the area returned to Little Rock to host a community event and three-on-three basketball tournament at Hanger Hill Park. It marked the fourth year in a row that they staged the event, which Foley hosted along with NBA stars Joe Johnson and Corliss Williamson and professional boxer Jermain Taylor. The event has drawn well over 100 youngsters each year, most from the inner city. The event is free and each child receives a T-shirt, an award and plenty of food. Steve and his fellow athletes close out the event by speaking to the kids on a variety of topics including faith in God and the dangers of drugs and gangs.

Steve is in the process of setting up a charitable foundation in Little Rock.

In the offseason, Foley splits his time between San Diego, Houston and Little Rock. At his home in Houston, Steve has a large aquarium that is home to eels, sharks and other fish. It is also where he keeps his dog, Red, a red-nosed pit bull.

One of Steve's best friends is Jermain "Bad Intentions" Taylor. Jermain is the undisputed world middleweight boxing champion. He is currently 25-0-1 with 17 wins by knockout. In June, Steve attended Jermain's most recent fight against Ronald "Winky" Wright at the FedEx Forum in Memphis, Tennessee.

Steve's hobbies include playing golf, tennis, basketball, fishing, watching movies and restoring classic cars. Steve and his dad, Robert, share a 1971 Cutlass Supreme that they restored together.

Simply put, Antonio Gates is the most skilled tight end in the NFL today. A Pro Bowl starter and a consensus first-team All-Pro the last two seasons, Gates set new career highs in 2005 with 89 catches and 1,101 yards. He tied Kellen Winslow's team record for the most receptions by a tight end and his yardage total was the most by a Bolts' tight end since Winslow racked up 1,172 yards in 1983. Gates led the team and led all NFL tight ends in 2005 in receptions, receiving yards and touchdown catches.

Since returning from Hawaii in February, Gates dedicated himself to improving his physical stature and conditioning. Working with the team's strength and conditioning coaches, Gates worked on his upper-body strength in an effort to become a better blocker in 2006. He also spent time in the film room, studying with secondary coach Brian Stewart, hoping to gain a better understanding of what opposing defenses are doing to try to stop him.

Gates caught 10 touchdown passes in 2005. It was the second consecutive year in which he had at least 10 touchdown catches. He's the first tight end in the NFL (since 1970) with consecutive seasons of 10 or more touchdown catches and his 23 touchdown catches during the 2004-05 seasons are the most ever by any NFL tight end in a two-year stretch. They are also the second-most touchdown catches by any NFL player over the last two seasons. Only Indianapolis' Marvin Harrison (27) had more.

In 2005 Gates became only the second player in NFL history to rack up at least 1,100 receiving yards while catching at least 10 touchdown passes. The only other player who can make the same claim is former Los Angeles Raider Todd Christensen, who had 1,247 receiving yards and 12 touchdown catches in 1983.

For his career Gates has seven 100-yard receiving games and five multi-touchdown games. The Chargers are 5-2 when Gates goes over the century mark and a perfect 5-0 when he racks up more than one score.

Gates' unique route to the NFL is well-chronicled. When he signed with the Chargers in 2003, he had not strapped on shoulder pads since his senior season at Central High School in Detroit. He began his collegiate career at Michigan State under the assumption that he could play both football and basketball. When the school's football coach relented, Gates decided to focus on hoops and decided it was best to leave the East Lansing campus. An up-and-down start to his basketball career sent Antonio bouncing to three different schools before he finally found a home at Kent State. In two seasons for the Golden Flashes, he helped lead the team to back-to-back conference championships and the "Elite Eight" in the 2002 NCAA Tournament. Gates left the Kent, Ohio campus as the school's sixth all-time scorer. Labeled as a classic "teen-er" coming out of college and not likely to be drafted into the NBA, Gates opted to give football another shot and that led to his signing with the Chargers.

Gates still follows college basketball closely and often participates in pickup games in the open gym at nearby San Diego State. In 2005 he attended his first-ever Final Four, traveling to St. Louis to cheer on Michigan State. For the last two years he also has served as honorary chairman for the Shoot to Cure HD, a speed free-throw shooting event that raises money for the Huntington's Disease Society of America.

Gates enjoys live comedy shows. He often travels to Los Angeles comedy clubs to watch some of the West Coast's top comedians. Among his favorites are Mike Epps and Alex Thomas.

Recently he was photographed displaying some of the latest apparel from the urban clothing line, Live Mechanics.

AKBAR GBAJA-BIAMILA

San Diego State
DOB: 5/6/79
Free Agent - '06

Akbar Gbaja-Biamila (AWK-bar ba-zsa-BEE-aw-mee-la) has returned home to Southern California looking for a fresh start. Akbar spent the 2003-04 seasons with the Oakland Raiders and was waived prior to the start of the 2005 season. After spending a year away from the game, Gbaja-Biamila is eager to play in the stadium he once called home as a collegian.

Returning to Southern California was one of the best things that could have happened for Akbar. In 2002 his mother, Bolatito, was killed in a tragic car accident, and his father, Mustapha, was recently diagnosed with Parkinson's disease. Since signing with the Chargers in January, Akbar estimates he's logged about 4,000 miles driving back-and-forth from San Diego to Los Angeles to spend time with his father.

In January Akbar and his brother, Kabeer, took an incredible trip with their father. They returned to Mustapha's native Nigeria to visit with family they had never met. Both of the boys' parents are from Nigeria. Their mom emigrated in 1969, their father in 1974, and they met in Los Angeles. His father had not been back since fleeing the country. During the boys' trip to Nigeria, they met their paternal grandmother, who hadn't seen Mustapha in nearly 32 years. They also met uncles and cousins and communicated by speaking Yoruba, the official language of Nigeria.

Akbar's full name has a story of its own.

He has an older brother and sister who are twins: Kabeer, who is a starting defensive end for the Green Bay Packers, and Kubrat. Akbar's full name is Akbar Oluwakemi-Idowu Gbaja-Biamila. Akbar is Arabic and means "great." His middle and last names are Nigerian. The middle names, Oluwakemi means "child of God" and Idowu means "born after twins." His last name, Gbaja-Biamila means "big man come save me." This name comes from his paternal great-great-grandfather who stood seven feet tall and was the village moderator in the Nigerian village in which he lived.

During his trips to L.A. to see his father, Akbar often returns to visit his alma mater, Crenshaw High School. While a student, he was part of a grass-roots program called "Food from the Hood" in which students grew organic vegetables that were used to make a salad dressing sold throughout the United States. In 1995 the program was nationally recognized by Newsweek magazine and Kabeer was featured on the cover. When Akbar was named the Oakland Raiders' Man of the Year in 2004 for community service, he donated the money that came from the award back to Crenshaw High.

In his career and life, Akbar is well traveled. Though he's traveled the world, including a high school trip to Ghana in 1996, one of his goals is to visit all 50 U.S. states. So far he has been to more than 30.

If any player in the Chargers' locker room is looking for inspiration, they need look no further than Randall Godfrey.

Last November, while Randall was preparing for the Chargers' game against the New York Jets, he got a call that would change his life. His best friend and younger sister, Deidra Miller, had died in a car accident after she had been shot while fleeing from an ex-boyfriend. It was a devastating blow to Randall and his entire family. Randall returned home to mourn with his family and shortly after the funeral, he returned to San Diego to join his teammates. He finished the year like a true professional, and toward the end of the season his teammates selected him as the Chargers Most Inspirational Player and recipient of the Ed Block Courage Award.

This was not the first time in his life that Randall has had to deal with an untimely death. In 2004 his cousin and college teammate, Brice Hunter - a former NFL wide receiver - was murdered in Chicago. Before Brice's passing, he and Randall hosted an annual camp at Lowndes County High School in Georgia, raising more than $10,000 each year for Randall's foundation. In Brice's memory, Godfrey still hosts the camp with the proceeds being used to help at-risk youths. He also helps athletes who are planning to attend college to prepare for SATs and ACTs.

When the 2005 season ended, Randall returned home to Valdosta, Georgia to spend time with his family and ponder retirement. It wasn't the first time he'd thought about hanging up his cleats. In early February, Randall realized he wasn't ready to walk away from the game and his teammates so he decided to return for one final season. With Godfrey back in the fold, the Chargers could be poised for a deep playoff run. He was the second-leading tackler a year ago on the NFL's top-ranked run defense.

Randall now makes his home in San Diego, but still maintains close ties to Valdosta. He and his father are overseeing the construction of a 20,000-square-foot recreation center that will open in 2007 and feature a gym, indoor track and playground.

Godfrey's hobbies include fishing and collecting sports memorabilia. Twice a year he and several family members travel to Panama City, Florida to go deep-sea fishing and this summer he took a group of teammates on a fishing excursion in the waters off San Diego. His sports memorabilia collection includes more than 30 autographed jerseys.

Randall is also a business owner. In 2004, he and his cousin, Rodney, opened the Godfrey Funeral Home in Valdosta. Rodney had been in the business and convinced Randall that it was a good investment. The Godfreys help families with the necessary arrangements for funerals including embalming and memorial services.

Randall and his wife, Rhonda, have three sons: Billy, R.J. and Grant. Randall owns a mini Doberman named Zeus and a Boxer named Tyson.

When Mike Goff signed with the Chargers in 2004, he immediately assumed a leadership role on the offensive line. He took rookies Nick Hardwick and Shane Olivea under his wing; he opened his Pacific Beach home to second-year guard Kris Dielman and regularly hosted every member of the offensive line at his house for dinner. The camaraderie paid huge dividends as the individuals excelled as a unit. In both of Goff's first two seasons in San Diego, the Chargers have ranked in the NFL's top 10 in rushing offense. Due in large part to the play of the offensive line, the Chargers have strung together four consecutive 2,000-yard rushing seasons, the longest such streak in team history and tied with Denver for the longest active streak in the NFL.

At right guard, Goff plays one of the more physically demanding positions on the football field. He's the only offensive lineman to start all 16 games each of the last two seasons, and he comes into the 2006 season with a string of 58 consecutive starts.

Outside of football, Goff's hobbies include reading, movies, golf, fishing and traveling, but his favorite hobby is cooking.

He learned to cook by watching The Food Network and enjoys having teammates over to the house to sample his many specialty dishes. Goff has mastered many culinary specialties, but lists among his favorites: Creole tomato soup with croutons, stuffed jumbo shrimp with crabmeat dressing, lamb chops and pork Wellington. In May Goff donned his apron and participated in a Battle of the Chefs event to help raise money for teammate Kassim Osgood's Team KO foundation.

Earlier this year, Goff, former college and Chargers teammate, Tim Dwight, and several friends spent a week on a sailboat traveling around the U.S. Virgin Islands.

When he's not slaving over a hot stove or touring the globe, Goff helps his father, Lyman, run a trucking business the two own in Columbus, Ohio. Their company hauls outdoor materials, including gravel and bedrock.

Before being drafted by the Bengals in 1998, he posted score of 38 on the Wunderlich intelligence test. It was the second-highest score among offensive linemen tested at the '98 NFL Combine.

NICK HARDWICK

Center
6-4, 295
3rd NFL Season
3rd with Chargers

Purdue
DOB: 9/2/81
Draft 3B - '04
Indianapolis, Ind.

Nick Hardwick's route to the NFL is not a common one. A standout prep wrestler, Hardwick enrolled at Purdue University intent on wrestling for the Boilermakers. But that all changed after Drew Brees led Purdue to the 2001 Rose Bowl and Hardwick saw the excitement that it generated on the West Lafayette, Indiana campus. The following fall, he decided to walk on to the school's football team. A year after earning a spot as a defensive tackle on the scout team, he became the team's starting center and earned all-conference honors. In 2004, the Chargers made him a third-round draft pick.

Hardwick has started all 27 games he's played for the Chargers. He's responsible for calling out the blocking schemes for the offensive line and his consistent play at center is a big reason the Bolts have rushed for 2,000 yards each of the last two seasons.

Nick has had an exciting offseason. In June, he and the Chargers agreed to terms on a new six-year contract that will keep him in San Diego through 2011. And in March he proposed to his longtime girlfriend, Jayme Biamonte, a former soccer player at Purdue. Shortly after she said yes, the couple vacationed on the North Shore of Oahu, Hawaii.

Nick enjoys a wide range of extreme sports including surfing, snowboarding and skateboarding. The 300-pound Hardwick often can be seen paddling out on his 10-foot Ace longboard at Tourmaline Street, one of San Diego's premier longboard surfing spots. He learned to ride a snowboard this past winter in Big Bear and fell in love with the sport. He spent several days riding the trails at Snow Summit. The Point Loma resident also enjoys skateboarding and often rides his long skateboard on the boardwalks of San Diego's beaches. One of his newest purchases is a 1975 Chrysler Cordoba that had just 24,000 miles on it.

One of Nick's closest friends on the team is tackle Shane Olivea. During the Chargers' bye week in 2004, Hardwick invited Olivea to travel with him to West Lafayette to attend the Purdue-Ohio State game, and the pair stayed with then-Boilermakers quarterback Kyle Orton. Hardwick attended Purdue and Olivea is an alumnus of Ohio State.

CLINTON HART

DOB: 7/20/77

Clinton Hart's route to the NFL took him down a path few have taken. Hart never donned a helmet or shoulder pads in college. He is similar to Antonio Gates, who played basketball in college, however Clinton's sport of choice was baseball.

At Sumter South High School in Bushnell, Florida, Hart played both football and baseball, but after graduating, he enrolled at Central Florida Community College to play baseball and be near his family. At the time his father and older brother were both incarcerated and Clinton wanted to stay close to home so he could be near his mother, Kathy, and help look after his younger brother, Keanu.

In many respects, it seems Hart was always destined to play football. During college, he used to bring a football to baseball practice to warm up his arm. The coaches teased him that he was playing the wrong sport.

In 2000, Hart had a tryout with the Tallahassee Thunder of the AFL2 and made the team. Hart earned just $162 per week and had to endure bus rides of up to 20 hours. In 2001, he signed with the Tampa Bay Storm of the AFL and had a breakout season that ended with him earning AFL Rookie of the Year honors.

Hart's success in the Arena League landed him a contract offer from the Philadelphia Eagles in 2002. Once signed, he was allocated to NFL Europe where he played for the Rhein Fire and Amsterdam Admirals. Upon returning to the states, he went to training camp with the Eagles, but was released toward the end of camp.

Philadelphia later signed him to their practice squad.

Hart's career took off in 2003. Still with the Eagles, he was called upon in midseason to replace injured Pro Bowl safety Brian Dawkins. Hart filled in admirably, leading the Eagles to a 7-2 mark in games that he started.

In the last year, things have really come together for Hart and his family. Last summer, Clinton, Sr., was released from jail and he's currently working in Florida. The indiscretions of the past are behind him and he's looking forward to this season and the chance to see his son play in person for the first time. The chances of that happening are very good as the Chargers signed Clinton to a new three-year contract in February.

Clinton has not forgotten his roots in Florida. He hosts a youth football camp and donates time and resources to the Webster Sports Complex near his hometown of Bushnell, Fla. He recently helped rebuild the roof on the church he and his family attended in Webster.

Clinton has always enjoyed working with kids. He worked as a counselor and recreation specialist at the Marion Youth Development Center in Ocala, Fla. This year Clinton will have a child of his own to look after as he and his longtime girlfriend from college, Kelli Fuqua, are expecting a child in November.

One of Hart's favorite hobbies is watching DVDs of "Sanford and Son" and the movie "Rocky." He even keeps a statue of Rocky Balboa in his locker. Hart is also an accomplished barber and has a barber's license.

Vincent Jackson is confident that this will be the year he begins to turn heads around the National Football League. San Diego's second-round pick in the 2005 NFL Draft earned valuable playing time as a rookie and believes that will help him in his sophomore season.

Vincent joins tight end Antonio Gates as a standout college basketball player excelling on the gridiron. As a collegian at Northern Colorado, Jackson was a two-sport standout for the Bears. He rewrote most of the school's football records, was a two-time All-America selection and became the highest NFL draft choice in school history. On the hardwood, he played two seasons for NCU and earned All-Independent honors following his junior season after leading the team in points and assists.

Vincent has settled in nicely in San Diego after spending much of his childhood in Louisiana. His father, Terence, was an Army medic and the family also lived in Phoenix, Arizona and Grafenwoher, Germany before settling in Colorado Springs. Vincent recently purchased a home in San Diego and spent a lot of time in the offseason fixing up his purchase. He also picked up a new hobby – golf – and like football, his potential appears unlimited.

choice Quentin Jammer has emerged as one of the team's most consistent defenders. The secondary has steadily improved and Jammer is coming off a season in which he set career highs in tackles and passes defended.

Quentin will once again lend support to the American Cancer Society with each interception. In honor of his grandfather, Gylum Diggs, who died of cancer when Quentin was in the eighth Nate Kaeding has enjoyed a rapid ascent in San Diego. Just two seasons into his young career, he is well on his way to establishing himself as one of the top kickers in team history.

Through his first two seasons, Nate has been successful on 41 of 49 field goal attempts (.837). This success rate is higher than each of the top three kickers in team history through their first two seasons. Rolf Benirschke was 35 of 45 (.778) during his first two NFL seasons in 1977-78. John Carney was 38 of 50 (.760) in his first two full seasons (1990-91), though Carney didn't begin kicking full-time until 1990, his third season in the league. And Dennis ParTEE hit on just 32 of 54 (.593) during his first two seasons (1971-72).

Last season, Kaeding connected on 21 of 24 field goal attempts. His conversion percentage (.875) was the third-highest in team history, it tied for the seventh-highest in the league among kickers with at least 20 field-goal attempts, and he finished the year with seven straight made field goals. Kaeding also finished the season riding a string of 71 consecutive made PATs, just 16 shy of the team record.

In the Chargers 26-17 win over the 13-0 Indianapolis Colts on Dec. 18, Kaeding was at his very best, hitting all four of his field-goal attempts, including a 48-yarder in the third quarter and a season-long 49-yarder in the fourth quarter. His four made field goals were a career high. Following the game he was named Very Special Teams Player of the Week by FOXSports.com and the Chargers Alumni Player of the Week.

Kaeding is an avid golfer and frequently tees off with fellow special teams players David Binn and Mike Scifres. This year Kaeding transferred some of his golfing experience onto the football field. He enlisted the services of a local golf professional to videotape and analyze his leg swing. The golf pro attended several of the team's offseason workouts to film Nate while he was kicking. Afterward the two would look at the tape to help Nate improve on his kicking mechanics.

Nate is still renowned in his native Iowa City where one local restaurant, Bob's Your Uncle Pizza and Cafe, named a pizza after the former Hawkeye standout. The Nate "Kato" Kaeding pizza is decked out with sausage, pepperoni, mushrooms and onions.

In July, Nate returned to Iowa City to host a three-day camp with former Hawkeye offensive tackle and current Oakland Raider, Robert Gallery. Several Chargers, including guard Mike Goff and defensive end Derreck Robinson, flew to Iowa to offer instruction at the camp. Kids who attended the camp received instruction in football, soccer and basketball, all sports in which Nate excelled during his prep career at West High School.

Nate is married to his longtime girlfriend Samantha Gervich. Samantha is currently a school teacher in San Diego.

KEENAN MCCARDELL

Wide Receiver
6-1, 191
15th NFL Season
3rd with Chargers

Nevada-Las Vegas
DOB: 1/6/70
Trade (Tampa Bay) - '04

Like fine wine, Keenan McCardell keeps getting better with age. In his last two full seasons, the 36-year-old McCardell has posted the two highest single-season touchdown tallies of his career. With 825 career regular-season catches, the saavy McCardell comes into the 2006 season ranked 10th on the NFL's all-time receiving list. Those 825 catches have amassed 10,680 regular-season receiving yards, 19th-best in NFL annals, as he embarks on his 15th season of professional football.

There was no letup in McCardell's game in 2005. He was the team's second-leading receiver behind Antonio Gates. McCardell finished the season with 70 catches for 917 yards and a career-high nine touchdowns. Keenan and Antonio combined to catch 19 touchdown passes in 2005, the most TD catches by a Chargers duo since 1980 when John Jefferson (13) and Kellen Winslow (9) caught 22.

In the Chargers thrilling 26-17 win over the then-unbeaten Indianapolis Colts, McCardell had a milestone afternoon. He caught three passes against the Colts at the RCA Dome to extend his streak of consecutive games with a catch to 100. His first catch of the game, which enabled him to reach the milestone, was a 29-yard touchdown that gave San Diego a 7-0 lead. Later in the fourth quarter, McCardell made a great play to get open and caught a season-long 54-yard pass that would prove to be one of the team's biggest offensive plays of the season. It bailed the Chargers out of a third-and-nine from their own nine-yard line and it helped set up the field goal that gave San Diego a 19-17 lead that they would not relinquish.

With catches in both of the season's final two games, Keenan now heads into the 2006 season riding a streak of 102 consecutive games with a catch. The last time he was held without a catch in a game was Dec. 20, 1998.

McCardell is a five-time 1,000-yard receiver. He has 27 career 100-yard receiving games and 11 career multi-touchdown games. Not bad for a guy who was a 12th-round pick and was the 45th of 46 wide receivers chosen in the 1991 NFL Draft.

McCardell's longevity in the National Football League is no surprise. Last season, Keenan was one of only seven Chargers to start all 16 games, and since 1995 he has missed only six games due to injury.

Keenan and his wife Nicole have four children. When he's not busy with football, Keenan often takes on the role of Mr. Mom, driving the kids to and from school, ballet lessons and gymnastics. In between, he manages to squeeze in a few rounds of golf.

In February 2005, he was inducted into the Hall of Fame at his alma mater, Nevada-Las Vegas.

Keenan is an admitted video game junkie. In 2002 he won the Game Before The Game, sponsored by PlayStation, at Super Bowl XXXVII. In 2003 he competed in the 989 Quarterback Challenge.

McCardell is one of the league's most active participants in community outreach. He is the founder of the Touching Hands Foundation. It is based in Jacksonville, Florida, where he played from 1996-2001. Last December he hosted Keenan's Holiday Shopping Spree in San Diego, taking 10 underprivileged children on a shopping spree at a local toy store. He hosted similar events in Tampa Bay in 2002 and '03. The foundation also supports breast cancer awareness and education. He created a program that provides breast cancer screenings for women in low-income areas, and annually he awards college scholarships to high school juniors and seniors. In 2000 Keenan was the Jaguars' Walter Payton/NFL Man of the Year for his active role in the Jacksonville community.

From 1997-2004 Keenan and recently-retired Jaguars wide receiver, Jimmy

Smith, co-hosted football camps in Jacksonville. In 2004 Keenan hosted a camp of his own at Eckerd College in St. Petersburg, Florida.

When his playing career comes to an end, McCardell plans to continue his work in the community. He also has expressed interest in a career as an investment banker or in the personnel department of an NFL front office. While playing in Jacksonville, Keenan spent two-and-a-half years as an intern at Merrill Lynch, learning about the investment banking industry.

DOB: 3/17/77

Daytona Beach, Fla.

The Chargers biggest acquisition in the 2006 free agent pool may have gone mostly unnoticed, but the AFC West and the Chargers' 2006 opponents will quickly get to know safety Marlon McCree.

Marlon joined the Chargers from the Carolina Panthers, runners-up in the NFC in 2005. He was the Panthers starting strong safety and is fresh off a season in which he was the team's second-leading tackler with a career-high 95 stops. This season, McCree will be an outstanding complement to returning starters Terrence Kiel and Bhawoh Jue in the defensive secondary.

Marlon's hobbies include bowling, playing pool and watching movies. He also is a fan of boxing and has been to a couple of championship fights in Las Vegas. He enjoys different kinds of movies but says "Forest Gump" is his favorite.

Marlon is the youngest child in the McCree family. He has four older brothers and three older sisters.

In 2005, Marlon started the nonprofit foundation "Help a Child - Save a Dream," in his hometown of Orlando, Florida. One of the foundation's basic principles is to help underprivileged kids obtain necessary school supplies including books and computers. In June the city's mayor honored Marlon for his work in the community by presenting him with an honorary key to the city.

In July Marlon hosted the Marlon McCree Celebrity Weekend to raise money and awareness for the foundation. The weekend included a free football camp for kids ages 10-17 at Jones High School in Orlando, a John Madden Football video game tournament featuring kids and NFL players, and a golf tournament at the Bay Hill Country Club in Orlando.

SHAWNE MERRIMAN

Linebacker
6-4, 272
2nd NFL Season
2nd with Chargers

Maryland
DOB: 5/25/84
Draft 1A - '05
Upper Marlboro, Md.

56

Shawne "Lights Out" Merriman took the NFL by storm in 2005. He was a consensus choice as the NFL's Defensive Rookie of the Year; he was selected to play and start in the 2006 Pro Bowl; and he earned All-Pro and All-Rookie Team honors from several national publications and internet media outlets.

When the Associated Press named Shawne as its defensive rookie of the year, he became only the second Charger to win the award, joining Leslie O'Neal, who was so awarded in 1986. And when he was selected to the Pro Bowl, he became the franchise's first rookie linebacker to be selected and the first rookie outside linebacker selected since the late Derrick Thomas of Kansas City in 1989. In fact, Merriman is only the second Chargers rookie ever to be voted to the Pro Bowl, joining wide receiver John Jefferson, who was selected following the 1978 season.

Merriman capped off his outstanding rookie season with a team-leading 10 sacks. He is the first rookie to ever lead the team in that category and his 10 sacks were the most by a Chargers rookie since Chris Mims in 1992. Shawne and fellow 2005 first-round pick, Luis Castillo, combined for 13.5 sacks, the most by any rookie duo in the NFL in 2005.

Though he played well throughout the season, Shawne's national coming-out party took place on Dec. 18 when the Chargers rolled into the RCA Dome and knocked off the 13-0 Indianapolis Colts. He was involved in three sacks, recording one solo and two assists, and was also credited with three tackles for loss. Following the game he was awarded an ESPN NFL Prime Time Game Ball by Chris Berman, and he was named AFC Defensive Player of the Week, Rookie of the Week by FOXSports.com and Defensive Player of the Week by SportsIllustrated.com.

Since returning from the Pro Bowl in February, Shawne has maintained a very busy schedule. He is a workout fiend who spends many hours in the gym. He also has incorporated boxing into his regimen and trains at the Boxing Club of La Jolla. He was inspired to train in the boxing ring by his uncle, Henry "Sugar Poo" Buchanan, who boxes professionally and is one of the nation's top light heavyweight fighters with a professional record of 13-0 and 11 wins by knockout.

Shawne appeared on numerous national sports-talk and entertainment television and radio shows this offseason. In early April he spent three days as a guest analyst on the NFL Network and at the end of the month, he was a guest panelist on ESPN's coverage of the NFL Draft.

Shawne enjoys riding Jet Skis. He also likes baseball and basketball. In April the San Diego Padres invited him to throw out the ceremonial first pitch before a game at PETCO Park and in late March, ESPN asked him to be a celebrity judge during the McDonald's High School All-America game's slam dunk contest. Merriman played basketball in high school and one of his teammates at Frederick Douglass High School was Eric Arrington, the younger brother of New York Giants line-backer LaVar Arrington.

The question Shawne is most often asked is where the nickname "Lights Out" originated. He was given that nickname during his sophomore season in high school after he knocked out four players in the first half of a game against Fort Meade. He was such a ferocious hitter in high school that his coaches didn't even allow him to participate in contact drills with his teammates. On his right forearm is a tattoo of a light switch in the off position and the words "Lights Out," and his Mercedes G500 has the "Lights Out" logo emblazoned on its headrests and floor mats.

Despite all of the notoriety that comes with being a first-round draft choice and an All-Pro, Shawne has not let go of his past and the tough upbringing he endured as a child. Several times when money was tight for the family, Shawne found himself living in one of the many homeless shelters in Maryland and the District of Columbia. He knows how important those shelters can be so, in March, he contributed $7,500 to keep a homeless shelter operational in San Diego. In January he returned to his alma mater, the University of Maryland, to host a coat collection drive for the Community for Creative Non-Violence Shelter in Washington D.C. It marked the third-consecutive year he hosted the drive and in those three years, he's collected more than 10,000 coats and jackets for families living in shelters.

Hanik Milligan's career got a big boost in 2005 when he was selected to the Pro Bowl as the AFC special teams player. It was a great honor for the player whose teammates affectionately refer to as "The Birdman" for his patented dance that energizes the home fans at Qualcomm Stadium. Milligan led the squad with 21 special teams tackles and became the first player in Chargers history selected to the Pro Bowl as a special teams player.

Hanik is not the only professional athlete in the family. His brother, Hamin, is a defensive specialist for the Dallas Desperados of the Arena Football League. Hanik was born in the Virgin Islands of the United States, where his father, a retired fireman, still lives. Pound for pound, Lorenzo Neal is the preeminent fullback in the National Football League today. A long-overdue starter in the 2006 Pro Bowl, Neal's credentials speak for themselves. He's been a lead blocker for nine straight 1,000-yard rushers and he's cleared the way for LaDainian Tomlinson each of the last three seasons.

A veteran of 13 seasons in the league, Neal has distinguished himself with his durability, having played in 192 consecutive regular-season games dating back to the 1994 season. One of the keys to his longevity is a strict training regimen that includes boxing workouts with former IBF Junior Middleweight Champion Paul Vaden and Ultimate Fighting Light Heavyweight Champion Chuck "The Iceman" Liddell. Neal also has trained in the past with Jennifer Alcorn, a Lightweight World Champion in women's boxing. Lorenzo's brother Eddie is a professional boxer who has a record of 5-1 with four wins by knockout in the Heavyweight division.

Neal enjoys a wide range of outdoor activities, including golf, fishing, horseback riding, dirt bike riding, water skiing and riding Jet Skis.

Wrestling is his indoor sport of choice. An All-America wrestler in college, Neal returns to Fresno State during the offseason and stays in shape by working out with some of the nation's top collegiate wrestlers.

Through his travels as a professional athlete, Lorenzo has become a collector of sports memorabilia. Boxing gloves worn by Muhammad Ali and Joe Frazier are among his most prized collectibles. He also owns two classic cars: 1971 and '72 Cutlass Supremes.

Neal and close friend Major Rodgers established the "Changing a Generation Foundation" to help youth from Fresno High School learn to set and achieve goals while working toward a college education.

He also owns a commercial real estate business, M & N Service Inc., which manages apartment complexes around Fresno.

Lorenzo is interested in pursuing a career in sports broadcasting after he retires. In March, he spent three days co-hosting NFL Total Access on the NFL Network.

has had a year he'd like to forget. Just days after signing a two-year contract extension last October, Roman was diagnosed with a foot injury that would end his season after eight games. His leadership and experience were missed. With Roman in the lineup, the Bolts surrendered only 12 sacks. With him out, they allowed 19. The foot continued to bother him even after surgery and Roman spent almost the entire 2006 offseason rehabilitating his foot to be ready to play this season.

It was evident that football was in Roman's future at a young age. As a teenager, he sold hot pretzels during Washington Redskins games at RFK Stadium in Washington D.C.

A native of Cameroon, West Africa, Roman moved to the United States on Jan. 4, 1977. He was 4 years old and moved with his mother, Marie, who came to the states to work for the Cameroon embassy. In March 2004, Oben returned to Cameroon to visit schools and an orphanage, providing them with much-needed textbooks and financial assistance. It was the third time he'd returned to his native country.

In 2003, Oben was honored by the Vincent T. Lombardi Foundation as a Vince Lombardi Champion for community service in his hometown of Washington D.C. Roman supports many worthy causes including the United Way, Special Olympics and the fight against illiteracy and hunger. Oben has also hosted football camps at Westview High School in San Diego and at his alma mater, Gonzaga High School in Washington.

Roman is the founder of the Roman Oben Foundation. Its mission is to promote positive development of youth through football, literacy and other community outreach projects.

Growing up in the nation's capital spurred a natural interest in politics. While working toward a master's degree in public administration from Fairleigh Dickinson University, Oben completed internships with Democratic Congressmen Bill Pascrell of New Jersey and Dennis Kucinich of Cleveland. Kucinich was a 2004 presidential candidate.

Shane Olivea has been a key contributor along the Chargers' offensive line. A starter his first two years in the league, this former seventh-round draft choice has missed only one game due to injury. With Shane anchoring the right side of the offensive line, the Chargers have rushed for more than 2,000 yards and passed for more than 3,500 yards each of the last two seasons.

Heading into 2006, Shane worked to improve his stamina and conditioning. In addition to training in the team's offseason conditioning program, Shane spent five weeks working with a personal trainer at Athletes Performance, an intensive training facility for serious competitive athletes in Tempe, Arizona.

Shane is a huge baseball fan and his favorite team is the New York Yankees. He collected baseball cards when he was younger, especially those of his favorite player, former Yankees' first baseman Don Mattingly.

The last two years Shane has played right tackle opposite Roman Oben. As a high school freshman in 1996, Shane attended his first-ever New York Giants game, a preseason game against the New York Jets. That happened to be Oben's first-ever game as a rookie tackle with the Giants.

Shane is the youngest of four children. His older brother Jason was a Division-III All-America defensive end at Marietta College in Ohio in the 1990s. His parents now reside in Ft. Lauderdale, Florida. Shane's father Al is a retired New York City fireman and his mom works as an interior designer.

Shane attended Long Beach High School in Long Beach, New York, the same school attended by actor Billy Crystal and basketball coach Larry Brown.

Shane recently purchased a new home in San Diego, though he frequently travels to spend time with his family in Florida and his friends in New York. For each of the last two years, he has returned to Columbus, Ohio during the Chargers bye week to watch the Buckeyes play. Two years ago he and teammate Nick Hardwick, a former Purdue center, went to the Ohio State-Purdue game during the Bolts' bye week.

One of the strongest players in the National Football League, Igor Olshansky (E-gor, ol-SHAN-ski) has helped make the Chargers' defensive line one of the league's best. His sturdy play helped the Bolts finish the 2005 season atop the league rankings for run defense, allowing only 84.3 yards per game. In 2004, when Igor started as a rookie, the Chargers finished third in the NFL in rushing defense, allowing only 81.7 yards per game.

Igor is proud of his Jewish heritage. He has many tattoos, including two of the Star of David. In May, Igor attended the Yom Ha'atzma'ut (Israel Independence Day) Festival at the Lawrence Family Jewish Community Center in La Jolla. Igor is regularly featured in Jewish news publications locally and nationally.

Igor is the first player from the former Soviet Union to be drafted by an NFL team. He was born in Dnepropetrovsk, Ukraine and his family immigrated to the United States from the Ukraine when he was 7 years old, settling in San Francisco. The Olshansky family spoke virtually no English when they arrived in the States, but the Jewish community in San Francisco embraced them and they quickly assimilated in their new home. For several years Igor attended the Chabad-run Hebrew Academy, where he developed a strong Jewish identity. Igor also stayed true to his family's Russian heritage and speaks fluent Russian.

Initially Igor played basketball in high school. His dad, Yury, played basketball in the Russian Army and Igor followed in his footsteps. He did not play football until his junior year of high school, yet he was good enough to earn a scholarship in the Pac-10 at the University of Oregon. After an outstanding career for the Ducks, Igor left school following his junior season. He was one of the strongest rookies in the league. At the 2004 NFL Combine, Igor bench-pressed 225 pounds an amazing 41 times. At Oregon, he set a team record with a 505-pound bench press and during his on-campus pre-draft workout, Igor increased his 225-pound bench press to 43 reps.

Perhaps some of Olshansky's strength rubbed off from his grandfather, Abraham Rubashevsky, who fought for the Red Army in World War II and was wounded 11 times, leaving his left hand disabled. Due in part to the influence of his grandfather, Igor still studies military history and martial arts.

Last July Igor married the former Liya Rubinshteyn. The couple lives in San Diego and has two Schnauzers named Nika and Caesar.

Kassim Osgood is making the most of his opportunities.

On the field, Osgood was the Chargers leading special teams tackler and a player thought by many to be headed to his first-career Pro Bowl until a freak injury in the Chargers' Dec. 4 game against Oakland revealed a torn pectoral muscle, prematurely ending his season. Teammate Hanik Milligan ended up leading the team in special teams tackles and was rewarded with a trip to the Pro Bowl. All was not lost however for Osgood, who was still recognized by his teammates as the squad's Special Teams Player of the Year.

In January the team rewarded the San Diego State alum with a new four-year contract.

Off the field, Osgood has taken full advantage of the platform that football has afforded him. He is jokingly referred to by his teammates as "The Mayor of San Diego" for his numerous contacts in the business and nonprofit communities. Kassim oversees the Team K.O. Athletes for Education Foundation. In May he hosted a celebrity golf tournament and a Battle of the Chefs event to raise money and awareness for the foundation. Kassim and teammate Mike Goff partnered with a local restaurant to prepare a great meal for the guests in attendance.

As part of his commitment to local youth through Team K.O., Osgood donates 50 tickets to each Chargers' home game for San Diego City School students to sit in the Chargers Community Corner. The students will be selected by a committee of teachers based on outstanding academics and citizenship.

Boxing, basketball and acting are a few of Kassim's passions. He boxes at the Reyes Gym in Chula Vista to stay in shape and prepare his body for the physical toll of professional football. He still plays basketball in the student activity center at San Diego State to maintain his cardiovascular conditioning. And he became hooked on acting after taking an acting class while a student at Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo. He was an extra in the movie "We Were Soldiers" and has appeared in several television commercials. He has been offered several other opportunities to appear in upcoming films and television programs.

ERIC PARKER

Wide Receiver
6-0, 180
5th NFL Season
5th with Chargers

Tennessee
DOB: 4/14/79
Free Agent - '02
Shorewood, Ill.

Originally an undrafted free agent, Eric Parker keeps getting better and better each year. He had an outstanding season in 2005, setting career highs with 57 catches and 725 yards.

The numbers don't lie as nearly one-third of Parker's catches last season (17 of 57) came on third down and nearly two-thirds (35 of 57) resulted in first downs. After the 2005 season, the Chargers brass locked up Parker with a new contract that will keep him in Lightning Bolts through the 2010 season.

Few players have had to work as hard as Parker to overcome obstacles during their career. Coming out of college at Tennessee, he was labeled as injury-prone and, as a result, he was passed over in the NFL Draft. Eric was invited to join the Houston Texans as a free agent. After going through mini camp with the Texans, Eric didn't see much of a future for himself in the NFL. With a young son to feed, Eric decided to leave football and go in search of a new career with a steady income.

He returned to Knoxville to work part-time as a fitness trainer and was searching for a full-time sales job when the Chargers called and invited him to training camp just two days before it was set to open. Coincidentally, the day he accepted the Chargers' offer, three job offers in sales came up.

Eric comes from an athletic family. His father, Sam, was a national champion Greco-Roman wrestler and his brother, Sam, was an NCAA champion wrestler at Southern Illinois. Eric competed in wrestling through high school. He also played baseball, lining up in center field and at shortstop. When Parker was 15, his baseball team won the 1993 Pony League World Series in Washington, Pa., defeating a squad from Puerto Rico.

In April Eric climbed into the cockpit of an F-16 Fighting Falcon with the U.S. Air Force Thunderbirds Demonstration Squadron. He enjoyed an hour-long flight over the Eastern California and Southern Nevada deserts with Thunderbird No. 8, Major Tad Clark. The pair pulled a handful of maneuvers including a turn at more than 7 g's, which is more than seven times the force of gravity.

CARLOS POLK

Linebacker

6th NFL Season
6th with Chargers

Nebraska
DOB: 2/22/77
Draft 4 - '01
Rockford, Ill.

Carlos Polk is chomping at the bit. Less than a year after having his 2004 season cut short because of a shoulder injury, Polk was preparing for the 2005 season when he suffered a torn Achilles' tendon during an offseason practice. The injury would require months of rehabilitation and as a result, Polk missed the entire season. He was the Chargers' Special Teams Player of the Year in 2002 and 2003, and Carlos is anxious to get on the field. The Chargers showed their faith in Polk by re-signing him to a one-year contract in January.

Polk considers his father, John Moore, his biggest influence. A construction worker by trade, Moore commuted to and from Chicago for work, leaving the house at 4 a.m. and often times returning home after 9 p.m. It is from his father that Polk inherited his tireless work ethic and family values.

Carlos and his father enjoy working on classic cars. Carlos' first car was a Pontiac Firebird that he and his dad spent weekends restoring before Carlos was old enough to drive. Over the years, the two have also restored a 1947 Ford Coupe and a 1949 Plymouth.

PHILIP RIVERS

Quarterback
6-5, 228
3rd NFL Season
3rd with Chargers

North Carolina State
DOB: 12/8/81
Trade (NY Giants) - '04
Athens, Ala.

The Philip Rivers era is officially under way in San Diego. With incumbent Drew Brees leaving San Diego to sign with the New Orleans Saints, Rivers takes over in 2006 as the Chargers starting quarterback.

Growing up in Alabama, Rivers did not attend his first professional football game until he signed with the Chargers. He wears number 17 in honor of his father, Steve, who wore the same number in high school. Philip has worn it since the ninth grade. Philip's number was retired before his final home game at North Carolina State.

Philip married his childhood sweetheart, Tiffany, after his freshman season at N.C. State when he was just 19 years old. He asked North Carolina State Head Coach Chuck Amato for his permission before asking Tiffany to marry him. Philip's dad was the best man in the wedding. The couple has three daughters, Halle, Caroline and Grace.

Philip's name, spelled with one "l," comes from the Bible. He prefers to be called "Philip" but will answer to "Phil." In college, his nickname was "Cheese" as in a Phil(ly) cheese steak sandwich. His favorite meal is meatloaf, fried okra and cabbage, and he enjoys a wide range of music from country music to the band OutKast.

Rivers' favorite quarterbacks are Joe

Montana, Dan Marino, John Elway, Troy Aikman and Brett Favre. When he was in kindergarten, he worked as a water boy at Decatur High School in Decatur, Alabama, where his dad was the head coach. As part of a fifth-grade project, he had to make a poster about his dreams and aspirations. On the poster, he pasted his face over that of a Minnesota Vikings player who had appeared on a cover of Sports Illustrated.

Derreck Robinson was one of only two 2005 undrafted rookies to make the Chargers' opening day 53-man roster.

Though he saw only limited playing time, the year on the active roster was valuable for the former Iowa Hawkeye, and Robinson should see more playing time in 2006.

Derreck graduated from Iowa as a double major with degrees in art and film. He enjoys drawing in his free time and is an accomplished artist who would like to work in film and animation when his football career is over.

Derreck lives in San Diego with his younger brother, Aaron, who recently graduated from the University of Arizona. Derreck's parents still make their home in Minneapolis. His father, Willie Robinson, is a probation and parole officer, and his mom, Nedra, is a counselor at Concordia College in St. Paul, Minnesota.

Derreck's great uncle, Curtis Jones, was a guard for the Chargers in 1968. He's currently the defensive coordinator at the University of Missouri. Derreck's cousin is Corby Jones, a former quarterback for the Tigers.

Aside from drawing, Derreck enjoys cooking, playing video games and listening to music. He has a CD collection that numbers about 400-500 and his favorite genre of music is '90s rap and hip-hop.

4th NFL Season
4th with Chargers

Western Illinois
DOB: 10/8/80
Draft 5 - '03
Destrehan, La.

Mike Scifres (SIGH-furs) is one of the top punters in the NFL today. His net average over the past two seasons is second only to Mitch Berger of the New Orleans Saints. Mike's career average of 43.4 yards per punt is already the second-highest in team history.

In 2005 Scifres was selected as a second-alternate to the Pro Bowl after a season in which only 26 of his 71 punts were returned. It was the fewest in the league among punters with at least 70 attempts.

In 2004 he was a first-alternate to the Pro Bowl after having only 23 of 69 punts returned, fewest in the league among punters who played in all 16 games.

Scifres lived in Bakersfield, California from ages 5-13 while his father worked for Shell Oil. He was born in New Orleans and returned there to attend high school. He went to college at Western Illinois upon referral from a close family friend, Dan Neal, who once coached at the school. At the time, Neal was an assistant coach with the New Orleans Saints and recently coached the tight ends for the Buffalo Bills.

AARON SHEA

Tight End
6-4, 250
7th NFL Season
1st with Chargers

Michigan
DOB: 12/5/76
UFA (Cleveland) - '06
Ottawa, Ill.

The Chargers added unrestricted free agent tight end Aaron Shea to the roster in 2006. The former Cleveland Brown hopes to increase the production of the Chargers' very talented corps of tight ends.

Shea's career has been marred by a variety of nagging injuries. However when healthy, he has proved to be a tremendous weapon as both a receiver and blocker. The Chargers are confident in Aaron's abilities and signed him to a three-year contract.

One Charger who is familiar with Aaron Shea is guard Mike Goff. The two grew up in neighboring towns in Illinois and attended rival high schools. Another NFL player who's quite familiar with Shea is New England Patriots quarterback Tom Brady. The two were teammates at Michigan and they were neighbors all through college. They still talk at least once a week, and last year Brady invited Shea to be his guest at the 131st running of the Kentucky Derby.

Growing up in Illinois, Aaron played basketball. He was a huge fan of Michael Jordan and the Chicago Bulls. Aaron got the chance to meet his basketball hero years later when Jordan was playing for the Washington Wizards and was in Cleveland to face the Cavaliers for the final time. After the game, Aaron was introduced to Jordan by Wizards athletic trainer Steve Stricker, who had been Aaron's athletic trainer at Michigan, and coincidentally there was another young fan there to meet Jordan that night as well, a young LeBron James.

When Aaron isn't working, he enjoys spending time at home with his family and watching movies. He and his wife Caitlin have two daughters, Cadence and Ireland. Aaron has a boxer named Jordan, named after his basketball idol.

Wes Sims spent the majority of his rookie season watching and learning while on the practice squad and as a reserve on the active roster. The former Oklahoma Sooner is one of the Chargers' strongest players, having bench-pressed a school record 450 pounds in college.

Sims describes himself as an "ol' country boy" whose hobbies include fishing and hunting. His brother owns a boat and the boys often fish together at Lake Texhoma and Lake Eufala. They enjoy fishing for catfish and Wes' biggest catch was 30 pounds. When Wes isn't fishing you will often find him skimming the lake behind the boat in an inner tube. Wes' favorite hunts include deer, duck and quail. Sims' other hobbies include golf and watching movies.

At the family home in Weatherford, Oklahoma, Wes has an expansive collection of baseball cards. He began collecting full season sets in the 1980s, but has some cards that date back to the 1950s. He estimates that his collection numbers somewhere near 200,000 cards.

DARREN SPROLES

Running Back
5-6, 181
2nd NFL Season
2nd with Chargers

Kansas State
DOB: 6/20/83
Draft 4 - '05
Olathe, Kan.

Darren Sproles, the Chargers' fourth-round choice in 2005, was one of the NFL's most outstanding rookies. Utilized primarily for his return skills, Sproles ranked sixth in the NFL with 1,528 kickoff return yards. It was the third-highest single-season total in team history. Sproles added 108 yards as a punt returner and his 1,636 combined yards for the season went down as the second-highest total in team history. Sproles was a workhorse, racking up 63 kickoff returns, tied for the fourth-most in the league.

Coming out of Kansas State, Sproles was one of the most prolific runners and all-purpose performers in college football history. He set nearly every school record imaginable - 23 in all - and he is regarded by many as the best player in the 110-year history of Kansas State football.

Darren now plays the game with a heavy heart and an angel on his shoulder. On April 25, 2004, Darren lost one of his greatest supporters when his mom, Annette, died at the age of 41 after a five-year battle with colon cancer. To honor their late mother, Darren and his brother Terence wear charms that read "RIP Mom."

Darren further honored his mother when he bypassed potential NFL riches following his junior season and returned to Kansas

State to complete his degree in speech pathology. In college, school officials arranged for him to work with a speech pathologist because he was uncomfortable and stuttered during interviews. Darren also spoke with basketball great and San Diego native Bill Walton, who had a stuttering problem many years ago and is now an NBA analyst.

Darren's nickname is "Tank," which came from his family because he weighed 10 pounds at birth. The first time Tank picked up a football in a game at the age of 9, he ran 80 yards for a touchdown in a Pop Warner game.

Darren still maintains close ties to Gene Wier, his former high school coach at Olathe North High School. During the summers while he was in college, Darren would return to his alma mater to volunteer at football camps and lift weights with the players. Darren has said that he would like to coach high school football after his playing career comes to an end.

LaDAINIAN TOMLINSON

Running Back
5-10, 221
6th NFL Season
6th with Chargers

Texas Christian
DOB: 6/23/79
Draft 1 - '01
Waco, Tex.

21

There is no question that

LaDainian Tomlinson is the preeminent ball carrier in the National Football League today.

The Waco, Texas native has wowed football fans across the country with moves not seen on the field since the likes of Hall of Famers Emmitt Smith (his boyhood idol), Barry Sanders and the late Walter Payton. In just five seasons in the NFL, Tomlinson has completely rewritten the Chargers' record books and he's on pace to receive a bust in the Pro Football Hall of Fame in Canton, Ohio.

Tomlinson's No. 21 jersey has already made its way to Canton. The Hall of Fame requested LT's jersey last season after he set an NFL record by scoring a rushing touchdown in 14 consecutive games. He set the mark in the Chargers' Week 2 game at Denver. Tomlinson went on to score a touchdown in 18 consecutive games, tying the NFL record, which was set by former Baltimore Colt Lenny Moore.

LT was selected to his third-career and second-straight Pro Bowl last year. It was probably his most satisfying selection though, as he was joined in Hawaii by his backfield mate, and a man who is under-appreciated, yet thought by many to be the top fullback in the NFL today, Lorenzo Neal. The two also treated their running backs coach, Clarence Shelmon, to join them in the Hawaiian Islands.

When the season ended, there were more awards to be handed out. He was named first-team All-Pro by The Sporting News and his teammates selected him as their Most Valuable Player and co-Offensive Player of the Year. During the season, Tomlinson earned three Game Balls from ESPN's NFL Prime Time; five FedEx Ground NFL Player of the Week Awards; a CBS-Westwood One Radio Amtrak Player of the Week Award and two AFC Offensive Player of the Week Awards.

Tomlinson finished the season as the league's sixth-leading rusher with 1,462 yards on the ground, the third-highest single-season total of his career. He helped the Bolts rush for 2,072 yards as a team, marking the fourth year in a row that the unit had eclipsed the 2,000-yard mark, a team record and tied with Denver for the longest active streak in the NFL.

Tomlinson is a true student of the game and its history. Last season he had the chance to stand alongside two of the greats in Chargers history. In the 2005 season finale against the Denver Broncos, LT scored a touchdown on a six-yard run in the second quarter. It was his 20th touchdown of the season, breaking Chuck Muncie's 24-year-old team record for the most touchdowns in a season, a mark which Muncie established way back in 1981. Coincidentally, Muncie was at the game that day and afterwards he greeted LT on the sidelines to congratulate the team's new touchdown king. Tomlinson also shared the spotlight that day with another Chargers great. On the fourth play of the above-mentioned touchdown drive, LT had a 28-yard run. With that carry, he was able to pass Lance Alworth to become the team's all-time leader in career yards from scrimmage. Though Alworth wasn't at the game to congratulate LT, the two met earlier in the season when Alworth had his No. 19 jersey retired at the Nov. 20 Chargers-Bills game. Tomlinson finished the 2005 season with 9,753 career yards and now comes into 2006 needing just 247 yards to become the 63rd player in NFL history to post 10,000 career scrimmage yards.

Now that Tomlinson owns one of Alworth's former marks, another is within sight in 2006. LT comes into the season with 80 career touchdowns, just three behind Alworth, who is the franchise's all-time leader with 83. It took LT just 79 games to score his 80th career touchdown. He and Emmitt Smith are the second-fastest players in NFL history to reach that mark. The fastest was Jim Brown, who needed just 76 games to score 80 touchdowns.

Tomlinson has scored at least 15 touchdowns in each of the last four seasons. It's the second-longest active streak in the NFL, behind Seattle's Shaun Alexander, who has done so the last five seasons. In 2005, LT, Alexander and Kansas City's Larry Johnson each scored more than 20 touchdowns. It was the first time in NFL history that three different players scored more than 20 TDs in the same season.

On the field, Tomlinson distinguished himself last season with yet another talent: passing the football. A threat to score every time he touches the ball anyway, Tomlinson found the ball in his hands in passing situations four different times last year and he responded with three touchdown passes. It equaled the second-most touchdown passes by a running back or fullback in the NFL since 1970. For his career, the multi-talented Tomlinson has now scored 72 rushing touchdowns, eight receiving touchdowns and he's thrown four touchdown passes. He's only the third player in NFL history with at least 70 rushing touchdowns, five touchdown catches and four touchdown passes. The other two, Payton and Marcus Allen, are both enshrined in the Hall of Fame.

Tomlinson's career has been marked by as much success off the field as he has enjoyed on it. He is the consummate family man and an endearing figure in the community. Since his arrival in the NFL in 2001, he's dedicated himself to helping kids in San Diego and his home state of Texas. Based in San Diego, LT oversees the Tomlinson Touching Lives Foundation. The foundation hosts events throughout the year, including youth football camps in San Diego and Texas, a golf tournament, a Thanksgiving program in which he provides more than 1,000 San Diego families with complete holiday dinners and a Christmas program in which he gives away more than 1,500 holiday gifts to the patients at San Diego's Children's Hospital and Health Center. One of the football camps he hosts in Texas takes place at Baylor University in Waco. He is able to host the camp with the help of Walter Brown, his former running backs coach at University High School. Nearly 300 kids have attended each of LT's football camps.

At each Chargers' home game, Tomlinson hosts a group of kids known as "The 21 Club." He invites 21 kids from San Diego youth groups and nonprofit organizations to attend each game. After the game, LT takes the kids to a local restaurant for dinner and a night of entertainment. Each child goes home from "The 21 Club" with a goodie bag filled with school supplies, books and games.

Education has always been a staple in the Tomlinson household. Proceeds from his annual golf tournament help support the "LT School is Cool" scholarship fund. Last year, Tomlinson fulfilled a personal commitment that he made to his mom by earning his degree from TCU. Tomlinson left college a year early, but he stayed on track and earned a degree in general studies with minors in psychology, sociology and radio/TV/film.

Tomlinson is still a hero on the Fort Worth campus. Last November during the Chargers' bye week he was honored with "LT Day" at TCU's Amon Carter Stadium. At halftime of the team's game against UNLV, a ceremony was held at midfield during which LT was joined by nearly 50 former teammates. His No. 5 Horned Frogs jersey was honored so that no other player will ever be allowed to wear that number without Tomlinson's approval. During the ceremony, a highlight video was shown and Tomlinson was serenaded by the capacity crowd with an LT chant.

Away from football, Tomlinson enjoys quiet time with his wife, LaTorsha. They own a beautiful home in the San Diego suburb of Poway where they live with their three dogs: Coco, Fendi and Sweetness. Coco is a teacup poodle; Fendi is a miniature Yorkshire terrier, and Sweetness is a pit bull. A superstar's house wouldn't be complete without a sports memorabilia room and LT's includes autographed helmets from some of his favorite NFL players, Jim Brown, Walter Payton and Barry Sanders.

LT and LaTorsha enjoy traveling and going to the movies for their weekly date nights. Past travels have included trips to Hawaii and Jamaica, and this offseason the couple spent their anniversary in San Jose Del Cabo, Mexico. They also like the hustle and bustle of New York City and twice this year visited the Big Apple.

Tomlinson's individual hobbies include playing basketball and golf. He competes in pickup basketball games at local gyms and is a member at the Maderas Golf Club in Poway. As a longtime basketball fan, LT often makes the two-hour commute to Los Angeles to watch the nine-time NBA Champion Lakers play at Staples Center.

Like many of his teammates, Tomlinson has an interest in classic cars and owns a restored 1964 cherry-red Chevy Impala, complete with a hydraulic lift kit.

MICHAEL TURNER

Running Back
5-10, 237
3rd NFL Season
3rd with Chargers

Northern Illinois
DOB: 2/13/82
Draft 5B - '04
Chicago, Ill.

Michael Turner has made a name for himself in the NFL as a more than capable complement to Pro Bowl rusher LaDainian Tomlinson. When called upon, Michael filled in admirably and helped the Chargers rush for more than 2,000 yards for a team-record fourth-consecutive season. Michael made one of the biggest plays of the season on Dec. 18 when he rumbled 83 yards for a touchdown to help seal the Bolts win over the 13-0 Indianapolis Colts at the RCA Dome. His run, which was the third-longest in team history and the longest since 1962, put the finishing touches on the 26-17 win.

Away from football, Michael enjoys watching movies and spending time with his family back in Chicago. He also recently took up hunting. Michael has five brothers. One of his brothers, Damon, went to Illinois State on a football scholarship and younger twin brothers, Kevin and Keith, recently graduated from the University of Illinois.

One of Michael's most recognizable features is the 3-4 inch goatee that he's grown since before the 2004 NFL Draft.

JAMAL WILLIAMS

Defensive Tackle
6-3, 348
9th NFL Season
9th with Chargers

Oklahoma State
DOB: 4/28/76
Draft 2 (Supp.) - '98
Washington, D.C.

Jamal Williams finally got his just rewards in 2005. Long overlooked and obscured by playing in the middle of the Chargers' defensive line, Williams was finally recognized as the best at his position when he was selected by the fans and his peers to start in the 2006 Pro Bowl. It was one of a host of awards that were lavished on the 348-pound Williams, the anchor of the NFL's No. 1 ranked run defense in 2005.

Williams' long-overdue Pro Bowl selection was accompanied by All-Pro honors from the Associated Press, Sporting News, and ESPN.com. His teammates selected him as both their Defensive Player of the Year and Lineman of the Year, and Pro Football Weekly and The Professional Football Writers of America named him to their All-AFC roster.

Williams was a beast in 2005. He started all 16 games, led the team with eight tackles for loss and led the defensive line with 53 tackles, tying his career high. Williams anchored San Diego's top-ranked run defense, which held its opponents to a mere 84.3 yards per game on the ground. With Jamal at the forefront, the defense held three different opponents to less than 40 yards rushing. It's something that has only happened three times in team history and not since 1965.

Williams is widely regarded as one of the most physically imposing defensive tackles in the NFL. It's natural, considering he comes from a family in which he was the second oldest of seven boys all raised by his mother, Harriet, a single parent. She recently retired after working as a correctional officer at a juvenile facility in Louisville, Kentucky. Jamal's younger brother, Kwesi, recently finished his career as a cornerback at Morehead State and had a free agent tryout with the Bolts in May.

RASHAUN WOODS

Wide Receiver
6-2, 202
3rd NFL Season
1st with Chargers

Oklahoma State
DOB: 10/17/80
Trade (San Fran.) - '06
Oklahoma City, Ok.

Rashaun Woods is ready for a fresh start with the San Diego Chargers and a chance to resurrect his NFL career.

Acquired in an April trade with the San Francisco 49ers for cornerback Sammy Davis, Woods has returned to 100 percent health after a thumb injury hampered him in 2005. Chargers fans may remember Woods' outstanding showing in the final preseason game of '05 at Qualcomm Stadium when he caught a game-high eight passes for 89 yards for the Niners.

Rashaun comes from a large family. He has three brothers and two sisters. Two of his brothers, D'Juan and Donovan, both followed in Rashaun's footsteps and are playing football at Oklahoma State. D'Juan is a senior wide receiver who started opposite Rashaun during his senior year, and Donovan is a junior safety. Rashaun was a two-time All-America at Oklahoma State and he is one of only seven players in school history who can make such a claim. Two of the others who share that distinction are Hall of Fame running back Barry Sanders and former Chargers defensive end and six-time Pro Bowl selection Leslie O'Neal.

Rashaun is a fishing fanatic who has aspirations of becoming a professional bass fisherman. He owns a 21-foot fishing boat and while residing in San Francisco, Rashaun was a member of the Santa Clara Bass Busters fishing club. He has fished in several tournaments with its members. His biggest catch to date is a 9.5-pound bass that he caught on the California Delta. Rashaun is so into fishing that he watches it on TV, tuning in to the Bassmaster Classic on ESPN and the FLW Tour series on Fox Sports Net.

QUALCOMM STADIUM

QUALCOMM Stadium, the stadium that the Chargers have called home since 1967, underwent an expansion in 1997 that included the addition of 11,500 seats, a club level, 37 new suites and a new west-end Jumbotron screen.

The centerpiece of the renovated stadium is the Chargers Club level. Chargers season ticket holders who purchase seats on the former loge level of the stadium enjoy amenities exclusive to Club members. The 7,800 Club seats are wider, padded and come equipped with an attached drink holder. To enhance the Club experience, members have wait service at their seats, featuring a menu complete with a variety of food specialties. Members also enjoy the comfort of four fan-friendly lounges where they can relax in an air-conditioned setting before, during and after the game. Restrooms on the Club level also have been upgraded.

The former Jack Murphy Stadium was renamed QUALCOMM Stadium after the QUALCOMM Corporation contributed $18 million for naming rights. Additionally, the total number of parking spaces at the stadium was increased to 19,000, including 461 handicapped spaces, making the parking lot at QUALCOMM Stadium the second-largest in the National Football League. There was a significant increase in restroom capacity at the stadium, with the number of women's facilities almost doubled and the men's restroom capacity increased by 33 percent.

San Diego Stadium was originally built in 1967 as a home for the Chargers at a cost of $27 million. It was dedicated at a Chargers-Lions game on August 20, 1967, before a crowd of 45,988. The 1997 renovation marks the second major facelift to occur at the stadium. Originally built to a capacity of 52,000, the stadium was expanded in 1984 to increase seating capacity to 60,100. The most recent renovation increased the seating capacity at the stadium to 70,000.

The team played before its first-ever sell-out crowd on December 3, 1967, when 52,661 turned out to see the Chargers battle the Oakland Raiders. Last season, the Chargers played before the biggest home crowd in team history when 68,537 fans filled the stadium for a Monday Night Football game against the eventual Super Bowl Champion Pittsburgh Steelers.

ANTONIO CROMARTIE

Cornerback
6-2, 203
Rookie NFL Season
1st with Chargers

Florida State
DOB: 4/15/84
Draft 1 - '06
Tallahassee, Fla.

Antonio Cromartie left Florida State after playing just two seasons in Tallahassee. His career started with great promise as he was one of only a handful of true freshmen to letter in 2003. He delivered another solid season in 2004, earning first-team All-ACC honors despite starting only one game. Then in 2005, while preparing for the season during a voluntary workout, he injured his knee while defending a pass in a one-on-one drill, and the injury required surgery, forcing him to sit out the entire season.

After the injury, Antonio worked diligently in his rehabilitation and exceeded the medical timetable that the doctors and trainers had set for him. He actually begged and pleaded with the medical staff at FSU to let him return to the field last season, but as a precautionary measure, he was held out of late-season games and the Seminoles' bowl game. At the time, Antonio was planning to return to Florida State for the 2006 season, but days before his team played in the 2006 Orange Bowl, he got a phone call from his mom, Cassandra, informing him that she'd been diagnosed with breast cancer. With his mom facing a life-threatening illness, and a young son, Alonzo, at home, Antonio decided it was best for his family if he were to leave Florida State and make himself available for the 2006 NFL Draft. The Chargers are glad that he did and they demonstrated it by making him the 19th selection of the first round of the draft.

Antonio is now completely recovered from the injury that cost him his junior season at Florida State and he is looking forward to resurrecting his football career in San Diego.

Antonio grew up in Tallahassee so it was only natural that he enrolled with the hometown Seminoles. Funny thing is though, he had never been to a game at Doak Campbell Stadium until he was recruited by Florida State.

Antonio's hobbies include playing basketball, watching movies and collecting trading cards. He estimates that his collection numbers around 2,000 pieces and one of his best cards is that of Chargers Hall of Fame quarterback Dan Fouts. Antonio also likes to look after his four pit bulls: Noah, Bear, Serena and Diamond.

2005 GAME SUMMARIES

Dallas Cowboys 28, San Diego Chargers 24

Sunday, September 11, 2005 - QUALCOMM Stadium (San Diego, CA)

The 2005 season began in disappointing fashion for the San Diego Chargers, who came away empty-handed after having numerous chances to win the game in the waning moments of the fourth quarter before a record Opening Day crowd of 67,679 at QUALCOMM Stadium. Trailing 28-24 with 3:01 remaining in the fourth quarter, Drew Brees led a 12-play, 69-yard drive that advanced as far as the Cowboys' seven-yard line. The drive included a seemingly-miraculous 33-yard pass to Eric Parker on a fourth-and-14 play from the 40-yard line. Unfortunately for San Diego, Brees was unable to find an open receiver, and on fourth down, Aaron Glenn intercepted a pass in the end zone to seal the victory for Dallas. The loss spoiled an outstanding individual performance by Keenan McCardell, who caught two touchdown passes as part of a nine-catch, 123-yard afternoon. LaDainian Tomlinson scored a touchdown on a two-yard run in the first quarter to tie the NFL record of 13 consecutive games with a rushing touchdown. San Diego hurt their chances to win the game with costly penalties. In total, San Diego was flagged eight times for 62 yards. Two of those penalties occurred on third down plays during Dallas scoring drives. In the third quarter, Luis Castillo was flagged for roughing the passer to wipe out an apparent sack and eight plays later the Cowboys capitalized by scoring a touchdown to tie the game at 21-21. Then in the fourth quarter with San Diego ahead 24-21, Quentin Jammer was called for defensive holding on a third-and-16 play to give Dallas a first down. Six plays later, the Cowboys scored a touchdown to take the lead for good. The Chargers were led defensively by Donnie Edwards' 11 tackles. Four different players had sacks, including Sammy Davis, who had the first sack of his career. Steve Foley, Ben Leber and Shaun Phillips each added sacks.

Denver Broncos 20, San Diego Chargers 17

Sunday, September 18, 2005 - Invesco Field (Denver, CO)

The Chargers suffered their second-consecutive heart-breaking loss to open the season when Denver's Jason Elam kicked a 41-yard field goal as time expired to deal the Bolts a 20-17 loss before 75,310 at Invesco Field. The game was a tale of two halves. The Chargers outplayed the Broncos on both sides of the ball in a first half that included two long scoring drives, both of which ended with LaDainian Tomlinson touchdown runs. Those drives covered 80 and 83 yards. Tomlinson's first touchdown set a new NFL record, marking his 14th consecutive game with a rushing touchdown. The tone for the first half was set on the opening drive of the game when Randall Godfrey forced a fumble by Mike Anderson at the Chargers' two-yard line. After that, all Denver was able to muster offensively in the opening half was a 45-yard field goal by Elam and the Bolts led 14-3 at the break. It was a different story when the teams emerged from the locker room to start the second half. On the first play of the third quarter, Champ Bailey stepped in front of a pass intended for Keenan McCardell and 25 yards later he went untouched into the end zone and San Diego's lead was trimmed to 14-10. The Chargers had multiple opportunities to pull away in the second half but were unable to take advantage of a Bhawoh Jue interception and two missed field goals by Elam. The Broncos stayed the course and made the Chargers pay for their inability to generate any offense in the second half, outgaining San Diego in total yards 169 to 41. Early in the fourth quarter with the score still 14-10, Denver got a 12-yard sack from safety John Lynch that pinned the Chargers back to their own four-yard line and forced a punt. Rookie Darrent Williams took the ensuing punt return 61 yards for an apparent touchdown, but it was called back because Denver had too many men on the field as several players left the bench to celebrate during the return. It didn't matter though because the Broncos still got the ball at the Chargers' 29-yard line, and two plays later they scored a touchdown on a three-yard run by Kyle Johnson and claimed a 17-14 lead. Brees finally got the Bolts' offense moving after the touchdown and drove the offense to the Denver 24-yard line from where Nate Kaeding kicked a 42-yard field goal to tie the game at 17-17 with 5:21 left in the fourth quarter. But with one last drive, Denver's offense traveled 57 yards in 12 plays, including a fourth-and-one conversion with 57 seconds left, and on the final play of the game as time expired, Elam hit the 41-yarder to win the game.

San Diego Chargers 45, New York Giants 23

Sunday, September 25, 2005 - QUALCOMM Stadium (San Diego, CA)

The Chargers finally earned their elusive first win of the season in grand fashion, routing the New York Giants 45-23 before a crowd of 65,373 at QUALCOMM Stadium and a national television audience on ESPN. QUALCOMM Stadium was as charged up as any game in recent memory with the arrival of Giants quarterback Eli Manning, who snubbed San Diego in the 2004 NFL Draft by publicly stating his desire to not play for the Chargers. San Diego's defense set the tone early. A short-yardage stop on third down on the opening series of the game held the Giants to a field goal and San Diego's offense responded with a 21-0 run that included a one-yard touchdown run by LaDainian Tomlinson, a 15-yard touchdown pass from Drew Brees to Keenan McCardell and a three-yard scoring run by Tomlinson. Brees was nearly flawless in the first half. He completed his first eight passes of the game and finished the half 13-of-16 for 140 yards and the touchdown. A 17-0 run by the Giants at the end of first half narrowed San Diego's lead to 21-20, but it would be a short-lived run as San Diego came firing out of the gates in the third quarter. Tomlinson started the fireworks with a 26-yard touchdown pass to McCardell on a halfback option play to cap a four-play, 70-yard drive. On the touchdown catch, McCardell surpassed the 10,000 career receiving yards plateau, becoming the 23rd player in NFL history to reach the milestone. After a defensive stop with the home crowd worked into a frenzy, Brees led the offense 77 yards in 11 plays, connecting with Antonio Gates on a 14-yard touchdown pass to increase the Bolts lead to 35-20. During the drive, Brees was a perfect 5-of-5 for 42 yards and Darren Sproles helped set up the score with a 21-yard run on a third-and-two play late in the drive. All the Giants could muster in the second half was a field goal by Jay Feely, while San Diego's offense capped the night with a five-yard touchdown run by Tomlinson and a 44-yard field goal by Nate Kaeding to close out the victory. Tomlinson ended the night tying his career high with three touchdown runs, while McCardell tied his own career high with the two touchdown catches. San Diego finished the game with 268 yards rushing, the third-most in team history.

San Diego Chargers 41, New England Patriots 17

Sunday, October 2, 2005 - Gillette Stadium (Foxborough, MA)

The Chargers shocked the football establishment by rolling into Gillette Stadium and knocking off the two-time defending Super Bowl Champions, 41-17, before a capacity crowd of 68,756 in Foxborough, Massachusetts. The Chargers were led by the tria of Drew Brees, LaDainian Tomlinson and Antonio Gates. Brees was nearly flawless throughout, completing 19-of-24 (.792) with two touchdowns and no interceptions, while Tomlinson logged 134 yards and two scores on the ground, and Gates caught six passes from Brees for 108 yards. The first half was a virtual dead heat as the teams went to the locker room tied at 17-17. Everything changed though in the second half. A tackle for loss by defensive end Jacques Cesaire helped force a Patriots punt on the opening series of the third quarter. Nine plays and 80 yards later, Tomlinson scored the second of his two touchdowns on the day and the Chargers took a 24-17 lead. Then a tackle for loss by Donnie Edwards on New England's next series led to a three-and-out and another punt. Eight plays and 75 yards later, Brees found Reche Caldwell in the back of the end zone for a 28-yard touchdown pass and San Diego was suddenly up 31-17. San Diego broke New England's spirit in the fourth quarter when Brees led a 15-play, 72-yard drive that consumed 8:55 on the play clock and ended with a 21-yard field goal by Nate Kaeding. The Chargers scored one last time when Edwards intercepted backup quarterback Matt Cassel and then pitched the ball to safety Clinton Hart who went untouched 40 yards into the end zone for the final points of the game. In total, the Bolts outscored the Patriots 24-0 in the second half. After misfiring on his first two third-down passes of the game, Brees then completed his last seven, going 7-for-9 for 99 yards and a touchdown for a 149.5 third-down passer rating for the game. Tomlinson's first touchdown of the game in the second quarter was a thing of beauty. From eight yards out, he broke three tackles on his way to the end zone and dragged a Patriots defender with him across the goal line. Tomlinson added 34 yards as a receiver and finished the game with 168 total yards from scrimmage. Of Gates' six catches on the day, three of them took place on third-down plays resulting in first downs to sustain scoring drives.

Pittsburgh Steelers 24, San Diego Chargers 22

Monday, October 10, 2005 - QUALCOMM Stadium (San Diego, CA)

The Chargers suffered a heartbreaking defeat in their first Monday Night Football game played in San Diego since 1996. A record crowd of 68,537 and a national-television audience on ABC watched Pittsburgh's Jeff Reed kick a 40-yard field goal with six seconds left in the fourth quarter to negate a furious comeback that saw the Chargers overcome an early 14-0 deficit and take a 22-21 lead with 4:42 left in the game. San Diego began that comeback with an 11-yard touchdown pass from Drew Brees to Antonio Gates that cut the Steelers lead in half before intermission. In the third and fourth quarters, San Diego's offense had to settle for field goals on three consecutive possessions when they were unable to capitalize on three scoring drives, including two that took them inside the 20-yard line. Nate Kaeding was successful on all three of his attempts to set a new career high, and the Bolts took a brief 16-14 lead. After Pittsburgh reclaimed the lead, 21-16, LaDainian Tomlinson capped an 11-play, 62-yard drive with a two-yard touchdown run to put the Chargers back on top, 22-21. Unfortunately though, the Chargers went for the two-point conversion and Tomlinson was stopped shy of the goal line, keeping the lead at one point and setting up the Steelers' game winning drive. Tomlinson was held to 62 yards rushing, but he added 68 through the air for 130 total yards from scrimmage. One of his catches was a 41-yarder that was a season long and helped set up one of Kaeding's three field goals. Donnie Edwards paced the Bolts defense with a season-high 15 tackles, and Jamal Williams had a season-high six stops, including two tackles for loss. Linebacker and top draft pick Shawne Merriman had his first-career sack.

San Diego Chargers 27, Oakland Raiders 14

Sunday, October 16, 2005 - McAfee Coliseum (Oakland, CA)

The Chargers evened their record at 3-3 with a convincing 27-14 over the arch-rival Oakland Raiders in front of a crowd of 52,666 at the McAfee Coliseum. LaDainian Tomlinson picked up the team and carried it on his back, accounting for 18 of the team's 27 points by catching a touchdown pass, scoring a rushing touchdown and throwing a four-yard touchdown pass to Justin Peelle. Tomlinson put the Bolts on the board first with a 35-yard touchdown catch from Drew Brees. After Shawne Merriman pressured Raiders quarterback Kerry Collins into an interception by Bhawoh Jue, the Chargers scored a touchdown on a seven-yard run by Tomlinson only six plays later and staked out to a 14-0 lead. Before the half would end, Nate Kaeding would add a 32-yard field goal, one of two on the day, and Tomlinson would throw the touchdown pass to Peelle and the Bolts led 24-7 at the break. By halftime the Chargers had dominated the stat sheets, outgaining the Raiders 273 yards to 98; accumulating 18 first downs to the Raiders' five, and possessing the ball 22:19 to the Raiders' 7:41. The Raiders attempted to rally in the second half, but could get no closer than 27-14 as the Chargers held on for the win. San Diego's defense was outstanding throughout. The Chargers held the Raiders to a total of 39 yards rushing. Collins completed 24-of-48 for 292 yards, but he had the pass intercepted by Jue, and the Bolts' defense racked up four sacks, 11 passes defended and numerous quarterback pressures.

Philadelphia Eagles 20, San Diego Chargers 17

Sunday, October 23, 2005 - Lincoln Financial Field (Philadelphia, PA)

The Chargers lost a game in stunning fashion when cornerback Matt Ware scooped up a blocked field goal and returned it 65 yards for a touchdown to give the Philadelphia Eagles a 20-17 win over the Chargers before a capacity crowd of 67,747 at Lincoln Financial Field. The Chargers watched the Eagles erase a 17-10 fourth quarter deficit with a 40-yard field goal and the blocked kick return. Despite the shocking turn of events, the Chargers regrouped and were driving for a potential game-winning or game-tying score when Philadelphia's Sheldon Brown stripped the ball from Reche Caldwell's grasp at the Eagles' 19-yard line and the Eagles recovered the loose ball and ran out the clock for the victory. The Chargers fell behind 10-0 early in the game but rallied with two second-half touchdowns to take a 14-10 lead. The first was a 19-yard touchdown catch by Keenan McCardell that capped off a 13-play, 74-yard drive. During the drive, Drew Brees completed 7 of 9 for 75 yards and the score. After a three-and-out by the defense, Brees led another drive, this one covering 43 yards in seven plays, and an eight-yard touchdown pass to Antonio Gates gave the Bolts the 14-10 lead. On the Eagles' first play of their next drive, Jamar Fletcher intercepted a pass off of Donovan McNabb and returned it to the 14-yard line. The Chargers advanced as far as the Eagles' one-yard line, but a holding penalty and a sack kept them out of the end zone and forced a field goal that set the stage for Philadelphia's comeback. Both teams defenses played outstanding. The Chargers held the Eagles to 24 yards rushing and intercepted McNabb twice. Philly meanwhile held Chargers All-Pro running back LaDainian Tomlinson to a career-low seven yards rushing and held the Bolts to only 21 yards total on the ground. The teams combined for 46 yards rushing, the third-lowest combined total in NFL history. Each team's defense also recorded three sacks.

San Diego Chargers 28, Kansas City Chiefs 20

Sunday, October 30, 2005 - QUALCOMM Stadium (San Diego, CA)

The Chargers evened their record at 4-4 at the midway point of the 2005 season with an impressive 28-20 win over the Kansas City Chiefs before 65,750 fans at QUALCOMM Stadium. Antonio Gates tied his career high with three touchdown catches while setting new career highs with 10 catches and 145 yards receiving and LaDainian Tomlinson threw his third touchdown pass of the season to lead the Bolts to the victory. The Chargers top two picks in the 2005 NFL Draft both had outstanding showings. Shawne Merriman had two sacks and a forced fumble, while Luis Castillo added 1.5 sacks for the defense. The Chargers came into the game without three defensive starters as line-backers Steve Foley and Randall Godfrey and cornerback Drayton Florence did not play due to injury. The Chargers jumped out to a 21-3 lead at the half as Gates caught scoring passes of 19 and 20 yards, and Eric Parker found himself wide open in the end zone on the receiving end of a halfback option pass from Tomlinson. The Chiefs made a game of it in the second half. Early in the fourth quarter, Kansas City cut the deficit to 21-13, but Gates caught his third touchdown pass of the game, a 35-yarder from Drew Brees, and the Chargers held on for the victory. Brees threw for 324 yards and three touchdowns, his first 300-yard game of the season. Florence's replacement, Sammy Davis and Donnie Edwards paced the defense with 11 tackles apiece.

San Diego Chargers 31, New York Jets 26

Sunday, November 6, 2005 - The Meadowlands (East Rutherford, NJ)

The Chargers took a 5-4 record into their bye week after handing the New York Jets a 31-26 loss before a sellout crowd of 77,662 at The Meadowlands in East Rutherford, New Jersey. The Bolts rode the shoulders of LaDainian Tomlinson, who scored four touchdowns on the day, three rushing and a fourth on a 25-yard pass from Drew Brees. Tomlinson helped the Chargers stake out to a 21-10 lead at the half with three touchdowns, including the catch and runs of four and one yard. At the break, the Bolts had out-gained the Jets in total yards, 281 to 139, and first downs, 19 to five. The Jets refused to go away and climbed to within eight points in the third quarter, but Tomlinson's fourth touchdown of the day, another one-yard run, opened the lead up to 28-13. New York continued to fight and they clawed their way back into the game late in the fourth quarter. A touchdown catch by Laveranues Coles cut the Chargers lead to 31-26, but Jerry Wilson batted down the attempted two-point conversion and the Bolts maintained their five point lead. On the Chargers' next possession, Brees was sacked and he fumbled at the Chargers' 40-yard line. The Jets recovered and drove to San Diego's three-yard line in the final two minutes, but the Bolts put up a furious goal-line stand that included pass breakups by Jamar Fletcher, Jamal Williams and Quentin Jammer as the Chargers held on for the win.

San Diego Chargers 48, Buffalo Bills 10

Sunday, November 20, 2005 - QUALCOMM Stadium (San Diego, CA)

The Chargers came firing out of the gates following their bye week, jumping out to a 35-10 halftime lead and cruising to a 48-10 victory over the Buffalo Bills before a crowd of 65,602 in San Diego. It was a historic day in San Diego as the Chargers took the field wearing their Collegiate Blue Throwback uniforms and the team retired number 19 at halftime in honor of Hall of Fame wide receiver Lance Alworth. The present-day Bolts rode the right arm of Drew Brees, who had a career day, passing for 339 yards and four touchdowns while completing nearly 85 percent of his pass attempts against the Bills as part of a 28 for 33 day. The Chargers racked up 35 points in the first half, their highest point total in a half since 1987. LaDainian Tomlinson gave San Diego a 7-0 lead on the opening drive of the game on a one-yard touchdown run. After a Buffalo field goal narrowed the lead to 7-3, the Chargers went on a 21-point run with Brees throwing touchdown passes to Antonio Gates, Eric Parker and Lorenzo Neal to boost the lead to 28-3. After Buffalo stopped the run with a late second quarter touchdown, the Chargers took all of 46 seconds to get it right back as Brees hooked up with Keenan McCardell for a 29-yard touchdown pass right before the break. By halftime, the Chargers had outgained the Bills in total yards 314 to 73 and led 35-10. The second half was all Chargers as they added two field goals and a late touchdown run by Michael Turner. San Diego's defense held the Bills to 202 yards of total offense and generated six sacks, their most in a game since 2002. Shawne Merriman led the way with two sacks. The total yardage differential for the game (276) was the Bills most since 1992.

San Diego Chargers 23, Washington Redskins 17 (OT) Sunday, November 27, 2005 - FedEx Field (Landover, MD)

The Chargers made their fourth trip of the season to the East Coast a memorable one as they erased a 10-point fourth-quarter deficit to defeat the Washington Redskins 23-17 in overtime. LaDainian Tomlinson capped off a stellar afternoon with a 41-yard touchdown run on the second play of the overtime session to win the game. It was his third touchdown of the afternoon. The game was closely contested throughout much of the afternoon. Washington staked out to a 10-7 lead at the half and extended that lead to 17-7 late in the third quarter. Nate Kaeding, who missed field goals from 42 and 46 yards earlier in the game, bounced back and kicked a 48 yarder early in the fourth quarter that brought the Bolts back to within seven points. After a couple of defensive stands, the Chargers went on a three-play, 67-yard drive that ended with Tomlinson's second touchdown run of the day from 32 yards out to tie the game at 17-17 with just over three minutes remaining. A three and out by the 'Skins gave San Diego the ball back at their own 29-yard line with 2:29 left in the fourth quarter. The Bolts started to drive, but an apparent first down across midfield was negated by a tripping penalty and two plays later, Drew Brees was intercepted and Washington took over possession at the Chargers' 31-yard line. Fortunately for the Chargers, the Redskins were called for holding during their drive and as a result, a 52-yard field goal try with 35 seconds left went wide to the right and the game stayed tied. A "Hail Mary" by the Chargers on the last play of regulation fell incomplete and the teams were headed to overtime. When the captains gathered at midfield, Brees called tails and the Chargers won the toss and elected to receive. The first play of overtime was a 24-yard pass to Antonio Gates and on the second, Tomlinson followed a block by guard Mike Goff and bounced to the outside for the game-winning 41-yard score.

San Diego Chargers 34, Oakland Raiders 10

Sunday, December 4, 2005 - QUALCOMM Stadium (San Diego, CA)

The Chargers used a balanced attack, rushing for 126 yards, passing for 148 yards and adding a 70-yard interception return for a touchdown for good measure in handing the Oakland Raiders a 34-10 defeat in front of a crowd of 66,436 at QUALCOMM Stadium and a national-television audience on ESPN. Drew Brees continued his hot streak, passing for 160 yards and two touchdowns while completing 77 percent of his throws. Safety Clinton Hart, starting for an injured Terrence Kiel, helped account for 14 of the team's points. In the second quarter of a 3-3 game, Hart forced a fumble against Oakland's LaMont Jordan and the Bolts recovered at the Raiders' 34-yard line. Seven plays later, Brees and Antonio Gates hooked up on a six-yard touchdown pass and the Bolts took a 10-3 lead. Later in the first half after Oakland had tied the game again at 10-10, Brees led a 13-play drive that ended with a two-yard touchdown run by Michael Turner and the Bolts took a 17-10 lead at the half. In the third quarter, during which the Bolts outgained the Raiders in total yards 129-to-2, Brees and Eric Parker capped off another 13-play drive with a one-yard touchdown pass and the lead was extended to 24-10. Then, midway through the fourth quarter with the Bolts up 27-10, Hart intercepted a pass from Kerry Collins and returned it 70 yards for a score and the final points in the victory. It was the Chargers' fifth win in a row over their arch rivals. DeQuincy Scott led a furious defensive effort with two sacks.

Miami Dolphins 23, San Diego Chargers 21

Sunday, December 11, 2005 - QUALCOMM Stadium (San Diego, CA)

The Chargers 2005 season hit a swoon as a result of a 23-21 loss to the Miami Dolphins before a crowd of 65,026 in San Diego. The loss ended a five-game winning streak and left the Bolts scrambling for their playoff lives. The Chargers took a 7-0 lead in the first quarter on an eight-yard touchdown pass from Drew Brees to Keenan McCardell and led 7-3 at the half. In the third quarter though, Miami outscored the Bolts 17-0 to take a 20-7 lead. The Dolphins scored on three consecutive possessions and were aided by a Darren Sproles fumble on a kickoff following a field goal drive that opened the second half. Down 20-7, the Bolts rallied and climbed within six points at 20-14 after Brees scored on a four-yard run to cap a 13-play, 73-yard drive. On Miami's next possession, they drive to the San Diego one-yard line, but Ronnie Brown fumbled at the goal line and it remained a six-point game. The Chargers advanced to the 36-yard line on the ensuing possession with just over two minutes remaining, but Brees was sacked and stripped of the football as he attempted to throw a pass. The Dolphins recovered and tacked on a field goal to extend the lead to nine points at 23-14. The Chargers scored a late touchdown on an eight-yard pass to Antonio Gates, but Miami recovered the onsides kick and held on for the win.

Sunday, December 18, 2005 - RCA Dome (Indianapolis, IN)

The Chargers did what many people didn't think was possible, ending the Indianapolis Colts' perfect 13-0 start by handing them a 26-17 loss before a capacity crowd of 57,389 at the RCA Dome. The Chargers dominated the first half of the game in jumping out to a 13-0 lead. They scored on a 29-yard touchdown catch by Keenan McCardell and three field goals by Nate Kaeding, including a 48-yarder. In the first two quarters, the Colts shut out the Colts and outgained them in total yards 249 to 94. They also ended Indianapolis' NFL-record streak of scoring in 31 consecutive quarters. Shawne Merriman was a disruptive force in the first half as he was involved in two sacks and three tackles for loss. The first play of each of Indianapolis' first three drives of the game either ended in a sack or a tackle for loss. Merriman made a huge play in the second quarter with the Bolts hanging on to a 10-0 lead. On a fourth-and-goal at the one-yard line, he tackled Peyton Manning for a six-yard loss and on the ensuing possession, the Chargers drove 91 yards in 18 plays for the field goal that gave them the 13-0 edge at the half. In the third quarter, the face of the game completely changed. A Merriman sack on third-down on the Colts' first series of the third quarter helped the Chargers get a field goal to extend their lead to 16-0, but then Indianapolis went on an improbable 17-0 run. It started with a field goal that cut the lead to 16-3. Then on San Diego's next possession, Drew Brees was intercepted by Gary Brackett and two plays later a touchdown run by Edgerrin James cut the lead to 16-10. The Chargers got the ball back and facing a third-and-13 from his own 12, Brees was sacked and stripped of the ball and the Colts recovered at the four-yard line. Three plays later, Manning threw a one-yard touchdown pass to Dallas Clark and the Chargers lead was gone as Indy surged ahead 17-16. After an exchange of punts, San Diego was seemingly in trouble again. Keenan McCardell mistakenly fielded a punt at his own one-yard line and was tackled at the eight. Three plays later though, while facing a third-and-nine, McCardell made arguably the biggest play of the season as he slipped behind the Colts defense to catch a 54-yard pass which led to a season-long 49-yard field goal by Kaeding that gave the lead back to the Chargers at 19-17. On the ensuing kickoff with under seven minutes left in the fourth quarter, Matt Wilhelm stripped the ball from Dominic Rhodes and the Chargers recovered at the 29-yard line and the Chargers had a chance to put the game away. But just two plays later, Brees was intercepted on a pass in the end zone intended for Reche Caldwell and again the Colts had life down by two. Indianapolis responded by driving all the way to the Chargers 23-yard line but an intentional grounding penalty and a three-yard sack by Luis Castillo on back to back plays forced a punt instead of a potential field goal. It was just what the Chargers needed as two plays after the punt, Michael Turner, who was in the game for an injured LaDainian Tomlinson took a handoff from Brees and raced 83 yards to the end zone with 2:09 left in the quarter to put the game away and end the Colts hopes of a perfect season.

Kansas City Chiefs 20, San Diego Chargers 7

Saturday, December 24, 2005 - Arrowhead Stadium (Kansas City, MO)

Just one week after collecting one of the biggest wins in franchise history, the Bolts suffered one of the most disappointing defeats, falling to the Kansas City Chiefs 20-7 at Arrowhead Stadium in a game that officially knocked them out of the 2005 AFC playoff race. In a game played in a steady rain on a sloppy field, the Chargers were their own worst enemy. They dropped passes, committed costly penalties and turned the ball over at critical times. The Bolts were also unable to generate much of a running game as Kansas City held LaDainian Tomlinson to 49 yards, while Larry Johnson ran for 131 yards and a touchdown on his way to becoming the first player to run for more than 100 yards against San Diego's defense on the season. The Chargers did make a game of it early. After the Chiefs jumped out to a 7-0 lead, Drew Brees capped a 10-play drive with an 18-yard touchdown pass to Antonio Gates that tied the game at 7-7. That's as close as the Bolts would get though. On Kansas City's very next series, Trent Green led the Chiefs down the field and his 42-yard touchdown pass to Samie Parker gave them a 14-7 lead in the second quarter. Later in the second quarter, there was a critical turn of events. Just before the two minute warning, Steve Foley stripped Johnson of the ball, but it bounced right back to him and the Chiefs maintained possession. Two plays later, Johnson got loose down left sideline, breaking several tackles along the way, and he scored on a 28-yard touchdown run. The extra point was missed and the lead was extended to 20-7. The Chargers started their next drive with good field position, but on a third-and-two play near midfield, a wide open Gates dropped a pass and the Bolts were forced to punt and went to the locker room down 20-7 at the half. The Chargers again came out fighting on the opening drive of the third quarter and moved to the Chiefs' 17-yard line, but a pass intended for Tomlinson went through his arms and Patrick Surtain was there to intercept it and dash the Bolts' hopes once again. San Diego fought gamely in the second half, but the Chiefs defense held them in check and held on for the 20-7 victory that knocked the Chargers out of the playoff hunt.

Denver Broncos 23, San Diego Chargers 7

Saturday, December 31, 2005 - QUALCOMM Stadium (San Diego, CA)

The Chargers 2005 season ended in disappointment with a 23-7 loss before a crowd of 65,513 on a rainy afternoon at QUALCOMM Stadium. One of the highlights of the afternoon was LaDainian Tomlinson's six-yard touchdown run in the second quarter. It was his 20th of the season, setting a new team record. During the touchdown drive, he had a 28-yard run that helped set up the score and on that play he passed Hall of Fame wide receiver Lance Alworth to become the team's all-time leader in total scrimmage yards. On the drive right before Tomlinson scored his record-breaking touchdown, quarterback Drew Brees injured his right shoulder. After being sacked and stripped of the ball at his own one-yard line, Brees dove after the loose ball and Denver's Gerard Warren landed right on top of him. It was determined that he had suffered a torn labrum in his shoulder and he would have surgery within days of the game. Philip Rivers repaced Brees at quarterback and on his first offensive series, he led the team on a 10-play, 69-yard drive that culminated with the Tomlinson touchdown. During the drive, he completed three-of-six for 39 yards, including a 22-yard completion to Eric Parker on a second-and-20 play to keep the drive alive. In the end though, the Chargers wouldn't be able to overcome a three-touchdown performance by the Broncos' Tatum Bell as Denver went on for the victory.

TRAINING CAMP AT CHARGERS PARK

On Dec. 16, 2004, the Chargers announced that beginning in 2005, training camp would take place at Chargers Park, the team's year-round training facility that opened in 1997.

Chargers Park is one of the newest and most state-of-the-art training facilities in the National Football League. It has three practice fields, including two 100-yard natural-grass fields and a 60-yard FieldTurf synthetic turf field. Chargers President Dean Spanos invested more than $100,000 to install the FieldTurf in April 2005.

Chargers Park is the ninth training camp site in the 45-year history of the San Diego Chargers. The team held its initial training camp in 1960 at Chapman College in Orange, California, before moving to the University of San Diego from 1961-62. In 1963, the team trained at Rough Acres Ranch in Boulevard, Calif., located in the rugged hills east of San Diego. The Chargers also trained in Escondido (1964-68), the University of California-Irvine (1969-1973), United States International University (1974-75), the University of California-San Diego (1976-2002) and the Home Depot Center in Carson, California (2003-04).

AFC Wild Card Playoff Game

New York Jets 20, San Diego Chargers 17 (OT)

Saturday, January 8, 2005 - QUALCOMM Stadium (San Diego, CA)

The Chargers' 2004 postseason came to an early end when they were knocked out of the AFC Playoffs after suffering a 20-17 overtime loss to the New York Jets in a Wild Card Playoff Game at QUALCOMM Stadium. A sellout crowd of 67,536 braved the elements as Drew Brees led a furious fourth quarter comeback during which the Chargers outscored New York 10-0 in the fourth quarter to send the game into overtime. Given new life by a roughing-the-passer penalty on what appeared to be San Diego's last play of the game, Brees found Antonio Gates in the end zone for a one-yard touchdown pass with 11 seconds left to send the game to the extra period. It was only the second overtime playoff game in team history. Both teams traded possessions in the extra period before Nate Kaeding's 40-yard field-goal attempt sailed wide right, opening the door for New York to drive down and kick the game winner with five seconds left in overtime. Keenan McCardell scored the game's first touchdown on a 26-yard pass play. He was initially ruled out of bounds, but San Diego challenged the call and the ruling was reversed. It was McCardell's sixth-career touchdown catch in the postseason. Brees opened the game by completing his first eight passes. On the McCardell touchdown drive, Brees was five of five for 61 yards and the touchdown. He finished the game 31 of 42 (.738) to set team postseason records for completion percentage in a game (min. 10 att.) and for a career (min. 40 att.). His 31 completions were the second-most in a game in team playoff history and his two touchdown passes tied for the second-most. Eric Parker led the team with nine catches for 93 yards, tied for the third-most in a playoff game in team history. LaDainian Tomlinson equaled Parker with nine catches for 53 yards. He also led the team with 80 yards rushing on 26 carries, a team record for rushing attempts in the postseason.

Super Bowl XXIX

San Francisco 49ers 49, San Diego Chargers 26

Sunday, January 29, 1995 - Joe Robbie Stadium (Miami, FL)

The Chargers were no match for the high-powered San Francisco offense as the 49ers scored early and often en route to handing San Diego a 49-26 defeat. San Francisco quarterback Steve Young passed for four first-half touchdowns, including two to Ricky Watters and one each to Jerry Rice and William Floyd as the 49ers jumped out to a 28-10 lead at halftime. The barrage continued in the second half as Young connected with Rice for two more scores and Watters added a nine-yard touchdown run. Young finished with 325 yards and six touchdown passes while completing 24 of 36 attempts, and Rice caught 10 passes for 149 yards and three touchdowns. Young also added 49 yards on five rushes and was named the game's MVP. The Chargers' offense was forced to play catch-up most of the game, and as a result, quarterback Stan Humphries passed 49 times, completing 24 for 275 yards, one touchdown and two interceptions. Running back Natrone Means became the youngest player in Super Bowl history to score a touchdown when the 22-year-old dived over the 49ers' defense for a one-yard scoring plunge in the first quarter. Chargers rookie Andre Coleman tied a Super Bowl record for the longest kickoff return when he went 98 yards for a touchdown in the third quarter. Following the kickoff return, Humphries passed to Mark Seay for the first two-point conversion in Super Bowl history. Following a 30-yard Humphries to Tony Martin touchdown pass late in the fourth quarter, Humphries completed his second two-point conversion of the game, this time to Alfred Pupunu. Linebackers Dennis Gibson and Junior Seau led the Chargers with 11 tackles a piece, and Seau added one sack. Defensive end Raylee Johnson paced the Chargers with two sacks.

1994 AFC Championship Game San Diego Chargers 17, Pittsburgh Steelers 13 Sunday, January 15, 1995 - Three Rivers Stadium (Pittsburgh, PA)

The Chargers advanced to the Super Bowl for the first time in franchise history with a stunning 17-13 upset victory over the heavily-favored Pittsburgh Steelers in Three Rivers Stadium. San Diego started the game slowly and Pittsburgh led the Bolts 10-3 at the end of the first half, while outgaining San Diego in total yardage, 229 to 46. The Steelers opened the scoring in the second half with a 23-yard Gary Anderson field goal to extend the lead to 13-3. Later in the quarter, Stan Humphries connected with Al Pupunu on a 43-yard touchdown strike to close the gap to 13-10. The score remained as such until late in the fourth quarter when Humphries threw another 43-yard touchdown pass, this one to Tony Martin, and the Bolts claimed their first lead of the game at 17-13. Pittsburgh took the ensuing kickoff and drove to the Chargers' nine-yard line with two minutes left in the game, but San Diego's defense stopped the Steelers on downs, including a dramatic pass defended on fourth down by linebacker Dennis Gibson.

1994 AFC Divisional Playoff Game

San Diego Chargers 22, Miami Dolphins 21

Sunday, January 8, 1995 - Jack Murphy Stadium (San Diego, CA)

The Chargers advanced to the AFC Championship Game with a 22-21 victory over the Miami Dolphins in front of a San Diego-record home crowd of 63,381 fans. The win moved the Chargers to the AFC title round for only the third time in team history and the first time since 1982. Dan Marino threw three first-half touchdown passes and the Dolphins led 21-6 at the half. San Diego's offense came alive and dominated the third quarter. The Chargers took the opening drive of the second half and marched 15 plays to the Dolphins' one-yard line before losing the ball on downs. But on Miami's first play from scrimmage, Reuben Davis stopped Bernie Parmalee in the end zone for a safety to make the score 21-8. San Diego took the ensuing kick and Natrone Means finished a 54-yard drive with a 24-yard scoring run, breaking several tackles along the way and the Dolphin lead was trimmed to 21-15. The teams traded possessions through the fourth quarter before Stan Humphries drove the team 61 yards in 10 plays and hit Mark Seay for the game-winning, eight-yard scoring pass. Trailing 22-21 with 35 seconds left in game, Marino moved the Dolphins to San Diego's 30-yard line and positioned Pete Stoyanovich for a 48-yard field goal attempt, which sailed wide right. San Diego dominated the game's time of possession, controlling the ball 39:20 compared to Miami's 20:40. The main factor was San Diego's running game, which rolled up 202 of the team's 466 total yards. Means rushed for a personal best 139 yards on 24 carries and scored one touchdown. Humphries completed 20 of 26 attempts in the second half.

1992 AFC Divisional Playoff Game Miami Dolphins 31, San Diego Chargers 0 Sunday, January 10, 1993 - Joe Robbie Stadium (Miami, FL)

The Chargers history-making season ended with a 31-0 loss to the Miami Dolphins in Joe Robbie Stadium. Intermit- tent downpours and a soggy field slowed both teams early as each squad was forced to punt on their first four series. The second quarter proved disastrous for San Diego. Stan Humphries intercepted three times with each leading to a Dolphins touchdown and a 21-0 halftime lead for Miami. San Diego also suffered a fumbled snap on a punt attempt in the period. The Chargers could not get on track in the second half either, as Miami chalked up 10 more points and forced two more San Diego turnovers. The Chargers' defense was on the field most of the game (37:08). Junior Seau recorded a personal-best 19 tackles in the game. The Dolphins special teams put the Chargers in poor field position on several occasions, including punts, which pinned San Diego's offense back on its own five-, six-, four- and 15-yard lines.

1992 AFC Wild Card Playoff Game

San Diego Chargers 17, Kansas City Chiefs 0

Saturday, January 2, 1993 - Jack Murphy Stadium (San Diego, CA)

San Diego defeated the Kansas City Chiefs, 17-0, in the AFC Wild Card playoffs in San Diego's Jack Murphy Stadium. It marked the first shutout in the history of Wild Card games. It was also the first shutout by the Chargers over Kansas City and the first time the Chiefs were shut out in a non-strike game since 1985. The two defensive powerhouses battled to a scoreless half. The Chargers gained 130 total yards to the Chiefs' 122 yards in the half, but were sacked four times for 47 yards in losses. San Diego scored first when Marion Butts dashed up the middle a career-long 54 yards for a touchdown. On the Chiefs first play of their next possession, a tipped pass by Blaise Winter was intercepted by Leslie O'Neal to set up a 34-yard John Car- ney field goal. Up 10-0 in the fourth quarter, the Chargers put together an 11-play, 91-yard drive and culminated the series with a five-yard scoring plunge by Steve Hendrickson. The Chargers gained 192 yards on the ground, the second-most productive effort of the 1992 season. The defense harassed the Chiefs passing game causing two interceptions and sacking Dave Krieg seven times to tie a season high. Burt Grossman had two-and-a-half sacks and O'Neal and Shawn Lee each had two.

Sunday, January 10, 1982 - Riverfront Stadium (Cincinnati, OH)

The Chargers lost to Cincinnati in the AFC Championship game on the coldest day in NFL history. Temperature in Cincinnati dipped to nine-degrees-below-zero with the wind chill factor measuring 59-below zero. 1981 AFC Divisional Playoff Game

San Diego Chargers 41, Miami Dolphins 38

Saturday, January 2, 1982 - Orange Bowl (Miami, FL)

The Chargers traveled to Miami's Orange Bowl to face AFC East Division champion Miami and won an epic struggle, 41-38, on a 29-yard Rolf Benirschke field goal at the 13:52 mark of the first overtime period. San Diego jumped out to an early 24-0 lead, only to have the Dolphins close the gap under the direction of substitute quarterback Don Strock. The score was 24-17 at half-time and in the second half the Dolphins knotted the score at 24 and again at 31 before assuming their first lead, 38-31, on a 12-yard run by Tony Nathan. The Chargers took a Dolphin turnover and converted it into a 10-play, 82-yard drive, climaxed by a nine-yard pass from Dan Fouts to James Brooks with 58 seconds remaining in regulation. A Dolphin 43-yard field goal try with four seconds remaining was blocked by Kellen Winslow, forcing the game into the overtime period. In overtime, both teams had the opportunity to clinch victory on field-goal attempts. Benirschke missed a 27-yard attempt and Uwe Von Schamann had his first attempt blocked by Leroy Jones. The Chargers' game-winning drive was highlighted by receptions of 20 and 29 yards by Wes Chandler and Charlie Joiner, respectively. Dan Fouts' passing performance resulted in records for completions, attempts, and yards in a division playoff, and Winslow's 13 receptions broke the division playoff record of 10 receptions, set by Pittsburgh's John Stallworth in 1978. Chandler had a 56-yard punt return for a touchdown on an AFC divisional playoff game. The Chargers broke 15 divisional playoff team records and tied two others.

1980 AFC Championship Game

Oakland Raiders 34, San Diego Chargers 27

Sunday, January 11, 1981 - Jack Murphy Stadium (San Diego, CA)

Oakland took a 28-7 lead in the first half and then held off a late San Diego bid to beat the Chargers for the American Football Conference championship. On the third play from scrimmage, Raiders quarterback Jim Plunkett had a pass bounce off the hands of his intended receiver, Kenny King, and into the grasp of Raymond Chester, who took the pass in for a 65-yard score. San Diego's initial drive was halted when John Jefferson slipped on the wet turf and Dan Fouts' pass zipped into the hands of defender Lester Hayes. The Chargers tied the score minutes later on a 48-yard pass from Fouts to Charlie Joiner. Oakland retaliated with a 76-yard scoring drive, aided by a Plunkett pass to Cliff Branch for 48 yards and a pass interference penalty. By the end of the first quarter, Oakland led 21-7, and the two quarterbacks had combined for 314 yards passing. Oakland later scored on a three-yard run by Mark Van Eeghen, making the score 28-7. San Diego scored near the end of the first half on an eight-yard pass from Fouts to Joiner. Rolf Benirschke kicked a 26-yard field goal and Chuck Muncie scored from six yards to narrow Oakland's lead to 28-24 in the third quarter. Oakland then marched 68 and 37 yards to set up two Chris Bahr field goals while running 10:38 off the clock. Trailing 34-24, Fouts took the Chargers 72 yards in 12 plays, getting a field goal from Benirschke that left them one touchdown behind with 6:52 to play, but Oakland controlled the ball for the final 6:52 and held on for the victory.

The Chargers' defense held Buffalo to 97 yards rushing. The 50-yard, game-winning touchdown pass was the longest reception of Smith's career. 1979 AFC Divisional Playoff Game Houston Oilers 17, San Diego Chargers 14 Saturday, December 29, 1979 - San Diego Stadium (San Diego, CA)

The Chargers 1979 season, featuring one of the best teams in franchise history, ended in disappointment as the Bolts fell to the Houston Oilers, 17-14, in a Divisional Playoff game at San Diego Stadium. The Chargers were rolling early and took a 7-0 lead on Clarence Williams' one-yard touchdown on the Bolts first offensive possession of the game. Houston scored 10 unanswered points in the second quarter and led at the half, 10-7. On the opening drive of the third quarter, San Diego reclaimed the lead when Lydell Mitchell capped off a six-play, 65-yard drive with an eight-yard touchdown for a 14-10 lead. Houston came back later in the quarter as Mike Renfro caught a 47-yard touchdown pass from Gifford Nielsen and the Oilers jumped out to a 17-14 lead. The Chargers tried to fight back in the fourth quarter, but two Dan Fouts interceptions proved costly and Houston upset the Chargers and eliminated them from the playoffs.

1965 AFL Championship Game

Buffalo Bills 23, San Diego Chargers 0

Sunday, December 26, 1965 - Balboa Stadium (San Diego, CA)

It was the same two teams that met in the 1964 Championship game with the scene shifting from the East to the West Coast. But there obviously was no hometown advantage for the San Diego Chargers. Coach Lou Saban's Buffalo Bills found the 59-degree weather much to their liking in San Diego's Balboa Stadium, rolling to a 23-0 victory before 30,361 downhearted fans. San Diego's offensive unit was unable to generate any type of serious attack after the first quarter and the Jack Kemp-led Bills broke loose in the second period. Kemp teamed with end Ernie Warlick for the initial score, an 18-yard pass play capping a 60-yard drive. Just 2:20 later, the Bills struck again on a 74-yard punt return by Butch Byrd and at halftime, Buffalo was ahead 14-0. In the second half, the Chargers were able to contain Buffalo's ground game and Kemp's passing, but couldn't stop the talented toe of placekicker Pete Gogolak. His soccer-style kicks connected twice in the third quarter from 11 and 39 yards and once more in the final period from 32 yards.

1964 AFL Championship Game Buffalo Bills 20, San Diego Chargers 7 Sunday, December 26, 1964 - War Memorial Stadium (Buffalo, NY)

Lou Saban sent his Buffalo Bills out for a post-Christmas gift after three lean years and one near miss in the American Football League. The Bills found what they were looking for and wrapped up the defending champion San Diego Chargers, 20-7, for the AFL Championship before 40,242 howling hometown fans. The Chargers started out as if they meant to repeat their 51-10 conquest of the Boston Patriots in the 1963 title game. They boomed from their own 20 in four plays with the payoff a 26-yard strike from retiring quarterback Tobin Rote to tight end Dave Kocourek. Keith Lincoln's PAT at 2:16 of the first period was the last time San Diego got on the scoreboard. Disaster soon struck the visitors when Lincoln was forced out of action with a broken rib on "the tackle heard around the world" by Buffalo linebacker Mike Stratton. Coupled with the absence of Lance Alworth, the injury to Lincoln left the Chargers offense impotent. Buffalo forged to a 13-7 halftime lead on field goals from 12 and 17 yards by rookie ace Pete Gogolak and a four-yard touchdown run by halfback Wray Carlton. The Bills tallied again in the final quarter on a sneak by quarterback Jack Kemp.

1963 AFL Championship Game

San Diego Chargers 51, Boston Patriots 10

Sunday, January 5, 1964 - Balboa Stadium (San Diego, CA)

Before 30,127 in Balboa Stadium and 30 million more on national television, Keith Lincoln ran, caught and passed like no other athlete ever has in a professional title match as the Californians crumbled the Boston Patriots, 51-10. The Chargers' offense produced 610 yards. Lincoln accounted for 349 of them in virtuoso performance that included a touchdown sprint of 67 yards, a touchdown reception of 25 yards, 206 yards gained rushing, 123 gained pass receiving and 20 gained passing. Lincoln's heroics were mightily abated by the others on a San Diego team that played with brilliance any professional team must respect, including the Bears. It was a powerhouse show by a team that had failed in two previous tries to win the AFL title. Houston outscored the Chargers, 24-16, in 1960 and beat 'em 10-3 in 1961. But the Patriots, with the league's proudest defensive outfit, were no match for the San Diegans. Splendidly prepared by Sid Gilman to combat Boston's almost constantly rushing linebackers, the Chargers scored on their fourth scrimmage play, on their sixth and on their 10th. The Patriots' ground attack suffered after fullback Larry Garrison incurred a head injury midway through the second period. Garrison later returned to the game but remained in it only briefly. The Patriots scored on a seven-yard run by Garrison and a 15-yard field goal by Gino Cappelletti.

1961 AFL Championship Game

Houston Oilers 10, San Diego Chargers 3

Sunday, December 24, 1961 - Balboa Stadium (San Diego, CA)

The 1961 American Football League Championship game in San Diego's Balboa Stadium was a carbon copy of the previous season's title game in that the Houston Oilers beat the San Diego Chargers 10-3. On Jan. 1, 1961, the Oilers edged the Chargers, 24-16, in Houston's Jeppesen Stadium. A live audience of 29,556 fans and a nationwide television audience estimated in the vicinity of 40 million viewers witnessed a monument to defensive football at its best. The crowd at the stadium was limited because the game was played on Christmas Eve and the game was telecast into the Los Angeles area and many San Diegans received LA's ABC affiliate, Channel 7. The Oilers scored on a 46-yard field goal by George Blanda midway through the second quarter and added the clincher, a 35-yard touchdown pass by Blanda to Billy Cannon, late in the third quarter. The Chargers only scoring came on a 12-yard field goal early in the final period. Indication of the evenness of the ballgame is that both clubs had a total net offense of 256 yards.

1960 AFL Championship Game

Houston Oilers 24, Los Angeles Chargers 16

Sunday, January 1, 1961 - Jeppesen Stadium (Houston, TX)

The American Football League's first championship game took place Jan. 1, 1961 between the Eastern Division champion Houston Oilers and the Western Division champion Los Angeles Chargers in Jeppesen Stadium, home of the Eastern titlists. The outcome: Houston 24, Los Angeles 16. In 50 degree weather with 70 percent humidity due to week-long rains, the Chargers took on the Oilers before a live crowd of 32,183 and a television audience of approximately 45 million viewers. Ben Agajanian kicked field goals of 38 and 22 yards to give the Chargers a 6-0 first quarter lead. In the second quarter, Houston's George Blanda hit Dave Smith on a 17-yard touchdown pass, added the conversion and kicked an 18-yard field goal. Agajanian kicked a 27-yard field goal with five seconds left in the half to make the score Houston 10, Los Angeles 9 at the half. In the third quarter, Blanda completed a seven-yard touchdown pass to Bill Groman and kicked the conversion. The Chargers responded when Paul Lowe slanted over from the two-yard line and with Agajanian's conversion the score was Houston 17, Los Angeles 16, at the end of three quarters. In the fourth quarter, Blanda and Billy Cannon teamed up on an 88-yard pass-run touchdown play to conclude the scoring. Player of the game honors went to Cannon, with Blanda and Lowe deadlocked a vote behind. On the day, Cannon gained 50 yards on 18 tries, caught three passes for 128 yards and returned three kickoffs for 81 yards. Blanda completed 16 of 31 passes for 301 yards. Lowe netted 165 yards on 21 carries, caught three passes for five yards and returned four kickoffs for 101 yards. Lowe's total yardage on the day was 271 yards compared to Cannon's 259. The inability of the Chargers to take the ball in for touchdowns early in the game, settling for three first-half field goals on each occasion, and several bad breaks late in the game proved to be the difference.

NFL REPLAY

For the first time, NFL games will be re-aired with the original television announcers and cameras. This offering features the four most-exciting games each week in a 90-minute format (eliminating halftime and other non-critical elements) at 5:30 PM ET and 8:30 PM ET each Tuesday and Wednesday. Enhancements to each broadcast include additional camera angles, sideline sound and post-game interviews.

AT THE MIC

NFL Network brings you inside the interview rooms of the NFL and top college teams each weekday at 3:00 PM ET with At the Mic. Former NFL head coach Jim Mora, Sr. serves as analyst for At the Mic which focuses on the NFL on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and college football on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

POINT AFTER

After Sunday's early games conclude, NFL Network's Point After takes viewers around the league for post-game press conferences and game highlights. Point After airs at 4:00 PM ET on Sundays and will air through the Sunday evening game.

NFL SCOREBOARD

NFL Network provides the best place on television to get up-to-the-minute scores, statistics and news each game day during the season. A three-hour program airing at 1:00 PM ET on Sundays, NFL Scoreboard features continuously scrolling real-time game statistics with audio from Sirius NFL Radio's Around the League program.

AMERICA'S GAME

On Friday November 17, NFL Network kicks off a 40-part series featuring first-person accounts, behind-the-scenes access and Hollywood narrators profiling the winning team of each of the NFL's 40 Super Bowls. Each 60-minute episode of America's Game will air on a Friday night at 9:00 PM ET with the greatest 20 Super Bowl champions, as chosen by a blue-ribbon panel, revealed in reverse order with the final episode airing just before Super Bowl XLI.

COLLEGE SCOREBOARD

Kicking off at 4:00 PM ET each Saturday, College Scoreboard is NFL Network's first college football highlights show. A four-hour program, College Scoreboard recaps all the early action while looking ahead at the upcoming contests.

NFL NETWORK GAME OF THE WEEK

Every Friday at 9:00 PM ET on NFL Network Game of the Week, a 60-minute condensed version of a current or classic NFL game takes fans inside the game in a way they do not see on a weekend broadcast. Using unique NFL Films camera angles, microphones on the field and in the locker room, GOTW tells the story of the game from the inside out. This show is available in High Definition.

PRESEASON GAMES

NFL Network is the only place on television where fans can view the majority of NFL preseason games. NFL Network televises every game that does not appear on the four NFL broadcast partners (CBS, FOX, NBC, and ESPN) during the preseason, more than 50 games each summer.

TIE-BREAKING PROCEDURES

The following procedures will be used to break standings ties for postseason playoffs and to determine regular-season schedules. Note: Tie games count as one-half win and one-half loss for both clubs.

TO BREAK A TIE WITHIN A DIVISION

If, at the end of the regular season, two or more clubs in the same division finish with the best won-lost-tied percentage, the following steps will be taken until a champion is determined:

TWO CLUBS

1. Head-to-head (best won-lost-tied percentage in games between the clubs.)
2. Best won-lost-tied percentage in games played within the division.
3. Best won-lost-tied percentage in common games.
4. Best won-lost-tied percentage in games played within the conference.
5. Strength of victory.
6. Strength of schedule.
7. Best combined ranking among conference teams in points scored and points allowed.
8. Best combined ranking among all teams in points scored and points allowed.
9. Best net points in common games.
10. Best net points in all games.
11. Best net touchdowns in all games
12. Coin toss.

THREE OR MORE CLUBS

(Note: If two clubs remain tied after a third club is eliminated during any step, tiebreaker reverts to Step 1 of the two-club format.)

1. Head-to-head (best won-lost-tied percentage in games among the clubs.)
2. Best won-lost-tied percentage in games played within the division.
3. Best won-lost-tied percentage in common games.
4. Best won-lost-tied percentage in games played within the conference.
5. Strength of victory.
6. Strength of schedule.
7. Best combined ranking among conference teams in points scored and points allowed.
8. Best combined ranking among all teams in points scored and points allowed.
9. Best net points in common games.
10. Best net points in all games.
11. Best net touchdowns in all games.
12. Coin toss.

TO BREAK A TIE FOR THE WILD-CARD TEAM

If it is necessary to break ties to determine the two Wild Card clubs from each conference, the following steps will be taken:

- A. If all the tied clubs are from the same division, apply division tie-breaker.
- B. If the tied clubs are from different divisions, apply the following steps:

TWO CLUBS

1. Head-to-head, if applicable.
2. Best won-lost-tied percentage in the games played within the conference.
3. Best won-lost-tied percentage in common games, minimum of four.
4. Strength of victory.
5. Strength of schedule.
6. Best combined ranking among conference teams in points scored and points allowed.
7. Best combined ranking among all teams in points scored and points allowed.
8. Best net points in conference games.
9. Best net points in all games.
10. Best net touchdowns in all games.
11. Coin toss.

THREE OR MORE CLUBS

1. Apply division tie-breaker to eliminate all but highest ranked club in each division prior to proceeding to Step 2.

The original seeding within a division upon application of the division tie-breaker remains the same for all subsequent applications of the procedure that are necessary to identify the Wild Card participants.

2. Head-to-head sweep (apply only if one club has defeated each of the others or one club has lost to each of the others).
3. Best won-lost-tied percentage in games played within the conference.
4. Best won-lost-tied percentage in common games, minimum of four.
5. Strength of victory.
6. Strength of schedule.
7. Best combined ranking among conference teams in points scored and points allowed.
8. Best combined ranking among all teams in points scored and points allowed.
9. Best net points in conference games.
10. Best net points in all games.
11. Best net touchdowns in all games.
12. Coin toss.

When the first Wild Card team has been identified, the procedure is repeated to name the second Wild Card (i.e., eliminate all but the highest ranked club in each division prior to proceeding to Step 2.) In situations where three teams from the same division are involved in the procedure, the original seeding of the teams remains the same for subsequent applications of the tie-breaker if the top-ranked team in that division qualifies for a Wild Card berth.

OTHER TIE-BREAKING PROCEDURES

1. Only one club advances to the playoffs in any tie-breaking step. Remaining tied clubs revert to the first step of the applicable division or Wild Card tie-breakers. As an example, if two clubs remain tied in any tie-breaker step after all other clubs have been eliminated, the procedure reverts to Step 1 of the two-club format to determine the winner. When one club wins the tiebreaker, all other clubs revert to Step 1 of the applicable two-club or three club format.
2. In comparing records against common opponents among tied teams, the best won-lost-tied percentage is the deciding factor since teams may have played an unequal number of games.

3. To determine home-field priority among division-titlists, apply Wild Card tie-breakers.
4. To determine home-field priority for Wild Card qualifiers, apply division tie-breakers (if teams are from the same division) or Wild Card tiebreakers (if teams are from different divisions).
